FOREWORD

THE EVENTS OF OUR COLLEGE LIFE ARE REAL TO US NOW; SO REAL THAT WE PASS THE IMPORTANCE OF THEM BY AND DO NOT REALIZE THEIR SIGNIFICANCE. AS TIME STEALS BY THE THINGS WHICH NOW ARE SO BRIGHT IN OUR MEMORY WILL GROW DIM.

THE CURRENT EL RANCHO HAS ATTEMPTED TO REFLECT THE NATURAL BEAUTIES OF THIS SECTION OF THE STATE, TO GIVE AN IMPARTIAL INSIGHT TO ALL COLLEGE LIFE, AND TO AID POOR MEMORIES OF TOMORROW.

THE STAFF OF EL RANCHO 1933

 DEDICATE THIS BOOK TO
L. F. CONNELL

Director of School of Liberal Arts and Associate Dean of College whose serene dignity, sane joy of living, scholarship, and wise counsel have aided materially in establishing and maintaining the standards of Texas College of Arts and Industries.

EDITOR'S NOTE

It is our wish that you may find "EL RANCHO 1933" a creditable expression of the life, the problems, the aspirations, and the hopes of the students of the Texas College of Arts and Industries. A college loyalty must have elements of soundness and strength that challenge our thoughts and admiration.

We have, therefore, attempted to present the incidents, pictures, and a cross-section of campus life which will remind you that the spirit of our institution embodies honor, dignity and service, and we trust that the theme and its development may inspire you to a higher loyalty.

TO THE STUDENT BODY OF THE TEXAS COLLEGE OF ARTS AND INDUSTRIES

Much has been said since you have become college students of the amount of money spent by the State for higher education. The ratio of college expenditures to other governmental projects is so small that we can ill afford to be concerned about the amount of money spent on state supported colleges. We should be concerned, rather, with the fruits of the State's expenditures for higher education. It becomes, then, a question of what does the State get in return for its expenditures. A measure of its returns is difficult to find. By what unit shall we measure the returns of our colleges? To discover and name definite units will have to be left for the future - we have no answer now. But what the results are to society will have to be not measured by you, but determined by you, the students of this College.

If, as a result of the training which you receive in this institution, you shall become well informed, clear thinking, honest, patriotic citizens, if your capacities have been developed to a higher degree than they could have been developed without a college training, and if, as a result of your college training, you are able through the rest of your active lives to measure up to the highest responsibilities of citizenship, to act with courage, to think clearly, and to deal justly, and at the same time exercise a leadership that points in the direction of these virtues, then the State will have been vindicated in all that it has spent in the support of this institution.

TO THE STUDENT BODY OF THE TEXAS COLLEGE OF ARTS AND INDUSTRIES

Permit me to extend the good wishes and congratulations of the Board of Directors to the Annual staff, to the student officers of the College, and to the entire student body upon seeing you round out another successful year at our own Texas College of Arts and Industries. The past year has brought changes, many trials, and hardships and sorrows. The student body, however, has borne itself well under the serious conditions which the College has faced.

The conduct of the spendid young men and women of The Texas College of Arts and Industries is a source of genuine inspiration to the entire Board of Directors. We are convinced that you are a group of serious-minded, capable and promising young Texans. It is a source of pride and pleasure that we, your Board of Directors, have had a part in the management of an institution whose business it is to train for leadership a group that seems to promise so much for the future of the Lone Star State. With all the young and abundant life which we find on this campus there is so little of the "horse play," the trivialities, and lack of discipline which has at times marked so many college campuses. Of these things we have taken due note and have marked with joy and pride.

You are students of a young college, and although many fine traditions have been estabished, you, the present student body, are still the makers of the traditions of The Texas College of Arts and Industries.

Let me charge you as one who loves the institution with all the devotion with which you love it that you build traditions at this college that will be worthy of the fine name of Texas, and the heritage left to you by those who have loved, served, and sacrificed in the days which now make up the history of our state.
R. L. BOBBITT.

TO ANNA LOUISE NEELY

She passed away like the morning dew
Before the sun was high;
So brief ber time, she scarcely knew
The meaning of a sigh.
As round the rose its soft perfume,
Sweet love around ber floated;
Admired she grew---while mortal doom
Crept on, unfeared, unnoted.
Though Love was kind, why should we fear,
But Love to Death resigned ber;
Love was her guardian angel bere,
But boly Death is kinder.

ORGANIZATIONS

EL RANCHO 1933

Garland Capel

El Rancho, the student Annual, appeared in 1925-1926, the first year in the life of the college. It aims to reflect truly and to conserve to memory the student life of the year. It is the permanent record of college interests which, we trust, will enrich the spirit our institution. It is published by the student body in cooperation with the faculty.

THE SOUTH TEXAN

Hubert Boyd

The South Texan is a four-page, seven-column newspaper prepared and published by the students. It portrays things of passing interest in college life here and elsewhere. The publication carries the expression of student thought on subjects of vital interest. It keeps ex-students and graduates informed as to the life, thought, and progress of their Alma Mater.

The South Texan entered actively into the fight this year to preserve the State Colleges in their present status. It attempted also to increase the college spirit, and to further all interests of the institution.

Achieving the fullest program in its history, the Press Club of The Texas College of Arts and Industries this year entertained the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association in convention April 13, 14, and 15.

The club also won a place in almost every contest division of the T. I. P. A., ranking second in number of points in the literary contests.

El Rancho 1932 was awarded first place, also the formal essay written by Hubert Boyd. Second places were awarded to our contestants in the humorous short story, the editorial, and the feature story. We placed third in The South Texan, the familiar essay, and advertisements. The one act play received the rank of fourth place.

During the past year the group met for the first time in night sessions, holding meetings on the first and third Wednesdays of the month.

Sponsors: Miss Alexander, Mrs. Jester, and Miss Splawn.

For the recognition and promotion of scholarship among its students, The Texas College of Arts and Industries has an organized body, the Robert Bartow Cousins Chapter of the Scholarship Societies of the South. This general organization was founded in 1922 by Dr. H. Y. Benedict of the University of Texas. The top or ranking tenth of the Junior and Senior classes is eligible for membership. No person is chosen for this society who does not have the full confidence of the faculty. Students consider it a high honor to merit this confidence-scholarship they achieve for themselves.

Mr. Kermit Ballard represented the chapter at the convention in San Marcos on February 22.

The Robert J. Kleberg History Club has the distinction of being the first club organized in our college. Meetings are held twice each month for the discussion of various phases of Texas History, particularly those of this section of the state. The Club possesses a valuable museum containing articles of historical interest. The organization makes an annual pilgrimage to some place of historical significance. This year's visit was made to San Antonio.

The Dora K. Cousins English Club, one the oldest clubs on the campus, was organized in the summer session of 1925. It was named in honor of Mrs. Dora K. Cousins, wife of the first president of our college.

The flower of the club is the bougainvillea, and the motto is: "Measure your mind's height by the shadow it casts." The aim of the organization is to further the progress of its members in culture, in knowledge, and in enjoyment through the study of literature.

Modern literature has been the subject for the programs during the year, and interesting discussions have been given on some of the foremost contemporary writers.

The Texas A. & I. Engineers, organized in September, 1930, has enjoyed remarkable growth by reason of the hearty cooperation of its members and the able leadership of its officers and sponsors.

Among the manifold aims of the club, two purposes stand aloft: First, to stimulate interest and encourage advancement through cooperation in the engineering profession; second, to provide recreation in the form of picnics, observation tours, and intramural activities. An annual banquet is the climax of the social life of the club.

The Engineers are builders of industry and of friendships, and it is the supreme desire of the club that its efforts shall have a part in heralding the Texas College of Arts and Industries to the Great Southwest.

The Footlight Club consists of students who are interested in drama and the theater. Every effort is made to give each individual member a chance to express himself in his own particular way at the regular bi-monthly meetings. Early drama as a historical background for present tendencies is studied, and equal attention is given drama, playwrights, and actors of the present. The one-act play is especially studied, and one is usually given at each meeting.

The Club, directed by Miss Pecaut of the Dramatic Art Department, sponsors the annual one-act play contest staged by the high schools of this section. Several enjoyable features were brought to the college by the "Club this year, among them being the presentation of "Mr. Pim Passes By," a comedy in three acts, and the sponsoring of the Monro Hollywood Marionette Show. A second three-act play will be presented as the last production of the year.

The Home Economics Club was reorganized this year as Delta Sigma Mu. Under the new organization the members of the club have the entire responsibility of the program. The members ranking in the upper quarter elect material on subject matter not covered in class, yet related to the classwork, and present it before the club.

The club has taken as its aim this year the collection of material of interest to the Home Economics Department as a nucleus for a museum. Many charts and fine exhibits have been collected.

The "Aggie" Club was organized in the fall of 1928 for the purpose of promoting the social life of its members. From time to time, outstanding agricultural leaders of this section are presented to speak on subjects of interest to the group.

The Club meets twice each month. It sponsors various agricultural activities both on and off the campus. Among these are The Annual Farmers and Homemakers Short Course, and the South Texas Vocational Agricultural Judging Contest. Two Aggie dances are sponsored annually, and the school year is always closed with an Aggie Roundup in which all ex-Aggie members as well as agricultural leaders of the section are brought together for a banquet and a general good time. The sponsors for the club are: Mr. R. J. Cook, Mr. C. K. Fraser, Mr. J. B. Corns, Dr. J. K Northway.

EX-STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

The Ex-Students Association is an organization consisting of all students who have attended the Texas College of Arts and Industries.

One of the purposes of the Association is to present to the people of Texas, particularly South Texas, the benefits of having such an institution as the Texas College of Arts and Industries in their midst.

One of the accomplishments of the Ex-Students Association has been the establishment of the Robert Bartow Cousins Loan Fund, which provides funds for those who otherwise could not receive a college education. The efficiency with which this fund has been handled is shown by the fact that it has reached twenty per cent of the students.

A further aim of the Ex-Students Association is to lend its influence to the growth and development of the Texas College of Arts and Industries. The Ex-Students are working to the end that this College may maintain its rightful place as one of the major institutions of Texas.

STUDENTS COUNCIL

The students of the Texas College of Arts and Industries make their desires known and exercise their rights through the Students' Council, which is composed of student representatives duly elected by the Student Body.

Among the manifold duties of the Students' Council, the three outstanding ones are: to regulate and supervise all student activities in an impartial manner; to promote a friendly understanding and general cooperation among the faculty and students; and, to uphold and practice the precendents of growth and development.

Its aim is to develop a stronger student spirit; to advocate good sportsmanship; and to install Texas College of Arts and Industries as the Acme of South Texas.

The Women's Glee Club has enjoyed the year's work with their director, Mr. Paul M. Riley, who has taught it a truer and deeper appreciation of the art of music.

The Club has enjoyed its concerts and tours during the year. Much pleasure was derived from the joint work with the Men's Glee Club for the Christmas presentation of Handel's "Messiah".

The Club is looking forward to a continuation of the work next year.

The Men's Glee Club this year has accomplished much in the way of music publicity, brotherly love, and understanding of human nature. This group of twenty-three boys understand and co-operate with each other most congenially.

We appreciate our director, Mr. Paul M. Riley. He is a real director and a true friend to each member of the club.

The aim of this club is to develop an appreciation of good music and to help the building of a bigger and better Texas College of Arts and Industries. We have made several trips to different parts of this section of Texas, and on each of these we feel that we have succeeded in accomplishing our aim.

Here's a toast to our beloved director, Paul M. Riley, and to larger and more efficient clubs in the future!

Kappa Omicron Phi is a National Honorary Professional Home Economics Sorority for girls. There are fourteen chapters located in the various states in the Union; Iota Chapter is the one at Texas College of Arts and Industries which was founded in the spring of 1928. To be a member a girl must have high social ideals, an outstanding scholastic record, and a minor in Home Economics.

The purpose of the Kappa Omicron Phi is to develop leadership, personality, and intellect.

The general theme of the programs for this year has been "Homemaking as a Profession."

At the beginning of the school year it was found that a number of graduates were taking credit work at the Texas College of Arts and Industries. Since these students wished to carry out certain plans, they organized a club in order that those plans might be effected.

The membership of the club includes graduate students who are actually on the campus doing college work, and those members of our faculty who are graduates of the Texas College of Arts and Industries.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL

Texas College of Arts and Industries has made an excellent record in athletics this year. The coaches and men are to be congratulated.

The members of the Athletic Council wish to thank the faculty, the pep squad, the band, and the entire student body for their splendid cooperation.

The increasing interest of the student body and faculty in intra-mural athletics will mean much for our college in the years to come.

Let's beat A. and M. this fall.
Sincerely,
J. R. MANNING,

Chairman, Athletic Council.

C O A C H E S

For two years you men have fought against the greatest of odds to win the Championship of the T. I. A. A. Next year your goal is an undefeated season with victories over Southwest Conference teams. You have again "hitched your wagon to a star", and I believe you will again attain your goal.

I appreciate you men - every one of you. I value your friendship, and I am glad of any opportunity to help you with your problems. It is my belief that you who come out day after day for long grinding hours of practice preparing for games, and who then fight with every ounce of courage in you to win that game, are going to meet life in the same manner, and I am happy if football has been an instrument in preparing you to meet your life problems with courage, fair fighting, and determination.
A. Y. (Bud) McCALLUM.

F○○TBALL

A SUMMARY OF THE SEASON

The Javelinas opened their football season with an invasion of the strong Southwest conference, meeting the Rice Owls in their first encounter and then the Aggies at A. & M., only to come off second best in both battles. In the games that followed the Javelinas marched on to six straight victories, four of which were over T. I. A. A. conference foes, to win the last championship awarded by the oldest conference in Texas.

The Rice Owls swooped around the Javelina flanks twice for touchdowns in the first period and took to the air for another counter in the second to beat the Javelinas 20 to 0 . The Hogs seemed to find themselves after the first quarter and fought the Owls on even terms for the rest of the game. Cox and Harbin proved to be the chief threats on offense while Kercheville and Allen smashed the Owl offense time after time.

On October 8, the Javelinas "tied into" their second Southwest conference foe and the "Fighting Farmers" of Texas A. & M. felt, on their own Kyle Field, the tusks of fighting Javelinas. Expecting an easy victory, the Aggies were surprised to find that they had to extend themselves in full to score 14 points on the "supposedly" weaker A. & I. team. The game see-sawed back and forth during the first half with both sides threatening but neither having the necessary punch to score. The Aggie ace, Frenchy Domingue, supplied the necessary punch in the second half, getting away twice for touchdowns and converting the points after touchdown himself. The Javelinas cut loose with a passing attack that brought the stands to their feet. Speer exhibited a brand of passing that undoubtedly had never been seen on Kyle Field before, and Dixon was always on the receiving end of his tosses. Their effort proved vain when the Aggies intercepted one on their own seven yard line and thwarted their chance to score. Cox, Harbin and Philliber could not be stopped by the Aggie line, while Kercheville, Allen, Fry, Harbes, Couch and McCauley made the A. & I. line impregnable.

Two weeks later a band of flyers from Kelly Field were helplessly trampled upon by a herd of romping Javelinas as they smashed and passed their way to seven touchdowns, with Cox, Philliber, Rich, Teel, Barnes, and Bodin doing the scoring to roll up 44 points to the Flyers none.

Before a huge crowd of frantic fans, the Javelinas turned back their first T. I. A. A. conference foe in a nerve-wrecking game with the fighting Bearkat eleven on homecoming day. The Hogs scored early in the game when Harbin went over from the one yard line. But the Bearkat defense tightened and the Hogs were held at bay for the rest of the half. Sam Houston scored in the first part of the second half on a pass, Lyle to Shields, to tie the score. The game rocked back and forth until a pass, Speer to Dixon, put the ball in scoring distance, and Cox went over to make the final score 12 to 6 .

The Javelinas held their lead in the T. I. A. A. race by winning a close game from the Daniel Baker Hillbillies at Brownwood. The Billies drew first blood when Speck Smith took one of Barnes' punts and raced down the sideline for a touchdown. Then the Speer to Dixon passing combination began clicking and the score was tied when Dixon took a high one out of the air and scampered across the goal line. The Hogs scored again when Cox went over after a drive down the field to make the score 12 to 6 , but the Hillbillies came right back with Smith going over for a counter and kicking goal for the extra point to lead by one point. It was not until near the end of the game that the Javelinas were able to overcome this lead when Speer released a long pass to Dixon, who fell across the goal line for the winning touchdown. The final score was 19 to 13 .

After a first half marred by fumbles, penalties, and a slow offense, the Javelinas woke up in the second stage a scoring spree to beat the Abilene Christian College Wildcats 20 to 0 on A. & I. Field on November 11. Philliber and Barnes ran wild, and Dixon and Cox could not be stopped as they accounted for the three touchdowns made in the afternoon.

The Javelinas vanquished a hard-fighting, fast charging Mountaineer eleven in a thrilling battle on A. & I. Field to win 13 to 0 . Though outplayed the greater part of the game, the Mountaineers manifested a spirit that brought words of admiration and commendation from every fan in the stands. The scoring punch for the Javelinas was furnished by the big "Ham" Harrison, who was the chief ground gainer of the afternoon, and Philliber, who continuously ripped off gains for the Hogs.

T. I. A. A. CHAMPIONS

The chief Schreiner threat consisted in the diminutive "Peewee" Beard, who kept the Javelinas on the alert with his mad dashes around end and through the line. Philliber and Harrison scored the touchdowns while Barnes and Rich aided in the ground gaining, and Kercheville and Lee were the big obstacles on defense.

Coach Bud McCallum's grid machine clicked perfectly to bring the T. I. A. A. Championship of 1932 to A. & I., as the Javelinas trampled the McMurry Indians at Corpus Christi in one of the most colorful games seen in South Texas during the season to win 20 to 0 . McCallum was able to put his best combination into the fray for the first time since the Texas A. & M. game, and led by the "Touchdown Twins", Cox and Harbin, the Javelinas put a glorious finish on a very successful season. Harbin, Lee, and Allen put the lid on very spectacular football careers with a performance far above the average. Harbin scored twice in the first half, once on a pass from Dixon and again with a brilliant 70 yard sprint through the entire Indian team. The Indians were not very docile and constantly threatened with a passing attack that seemingly could not be stopped. Cox stopped an Indian pass receiver inches from the goal line to prevent a score in one instance. Cox came into the spotlight again in the second period with two beautiful broken-field runs, one of which netted a touchdown. Each Javelina who entered the game performed in grand style, and the playing of Kercheville, Teel, Rich, Allen, Dixon, Lee, and Harrison was outstanding.

And so ends another season, leaving Texas A. & I. even more firmly established among the major schools of the country. Much might be written in tribute to the Javelinas, who carry the name of our school to every part of the State and perform so nobly under her colors, but for lack of space, I must be content with this simple acknowledgment of their achievements.

Tennis, one of our most recreational games, is coming into its own on the campus. With the installation of concrete courts and lights, this sport is reaching more students than any other pastime. Much interest was taken in the intramural competition as well as in the freshman and varsity matches.

The freshmen won matches from many of the surrouding high school teams, including Kingsville, Bishop and Robstown, while the varsity played matches with the strong Edinburg Junior College team and Schreiner Institute. The varsity players broke even with the Edinburg squad, winning three matches and losing three. With Schreiner Institute, the A. & I. netters fared better, losing only one out of the six matches played.

The purpose of athletics for women in Texas College of Arts and Industries is to promote an interest in healthful exercise, to develop sportsmanship, and to help build a socialized individual. The Woman's Athletic Association offers various types of activity.

During this year several types of hikes have been held. A sunrise breakfast was enjoyed on March 2. Several hikes have been taken just for the pleasure of walking since Miss Campbell has acquired a pedometer.

The Racquet Club is the most active club in the W. A. A. during the spring. Any girl in school is eligible to enter this club and match her skill with the others on the ladder for the statuette trophy. This trophy is presented to the girl at the top of the ladder at the end of the tournament. Each girl who completes the required number of matches is given the privilege of buying a felt emblem.

Archery, basketball, and the sponsoring of manless dances are some of the other activities of the W. A. A.

With the enthusiastic help of the sponsors, the members of the W. A. A. believe that they have made great strides in accomplishing their aim.

A long time ago when your grandmother and my grandmother (and anybody else that wishes to get their grandmother in on this) was a girl, people quite ignorantly labored under the false impression that Sardine was an animal that lay around in cans all the time and wore olive oil to keep sunburn away. Now, however, education, beneficial as usual, has cleared up the whole matter and exposed Sardine not as an animal at all, but a game - and a good game at that.

Sardine is always best when played at night at the home of somebody who intends to clean house the next day. Everybody is gathered in the parlor amusing himself as best he knows how, when all of a sudden some throaty individual becomes flippant and hollers, "Let's play Sardine!"

This usually brings a series of enthusiastic replies, as Sardine is a popular game and not far off from the popular theory of how a night should be spent.

A couple is chosen as the sardine. Then, quite casually, at this point a fuse is supposed to blow. If this does not happen, the desired effect may be obtained by merely turning the light switch. And now whilst all is dark the couple appointed the sardine hies away to hide. You do not use the plural "sardines" as the two (as the rules have it) are obliged to stay so very close together that making sardine plural would be a mere waste of time.

The Sardine may hide anywhere it chooses the furnace and ice box being popular places. If the furnace is full of bottles or down at the store being fixed, or if (the possibility exists) the establishment boasts no furnace, then do not forget to remember the icebox.

Let us imagine that our Sardine chooses the ice box. They enter and remain quiet - that is, except for an occasional smack of the lips while drinking buttermilk or eating crackers. They do not carry on any conversation as it (as you can see) would be impractical. The acoustics in ice boxes are something terrible, and the ears might be strained.

After ten minutes of waiting, the searching party starts looking for the Sardine. When a couple finds it, they do not holler or make noise or anything; they merely crawl in beside the Sardine and lie quiet.

When everyone except the coupe behind the sofa in the parlor (who did not even know a game was in progress) has found the Sardine, the lights are gotten back on somehow or other, and a great howl is set up - declaring the innocent couple (behind the sofa) "it" for the next round. There is always one feature about sardine that is to be found in few other games - and that is if you don't like it you can quit. There is no possibility that you will be missed - the game is too occupying.

Yes, it's a great game, and one of high moral character. It must be - the Delta Thetas and their friends just LOVE to play it!

Nelson (Hot Stuff) English, the Pride of Premont, came down to A. & I. with a change of socksa nutty smile, and a perverted yet lasting idea that he is God's gift to womanhood. From the rear he looks like a "T" model Ford with the doors opens -yet he looks better going than coming.

Anyhow, one night - April 27th to be specific - he got a date with a "gal from Wharton", and with another couple, went riding. In the course of events they parked on a lonely out-of-the-way road, and things began to happen. Two men quietly approached the coupe - one on each side - and ordered the boys to get out. They did Nelson with a pistol in his ribs - and were led to a spot about fifteen feet to the rear of the vehicle.

The thugs then began the task of putting a halter around Nelson's ears - not an easy job, either, as he was trembling so as a result of a bad case of jitters.

Suddenly the other boy broke loose and started running for the coupe. The thug with the pistol wheeled, aimed, and shot twice - the runner foll.

Nelson fell, too - to his knees and started begging, crying, pleading, and praying, "You've killed my best pal! Let me take him to the hospital and I'll let you make a clean get away (laughs from the audience). Don't harm the gals - they're good gals and respectable too. Please, men, don't shoot!"

If a man on a horse hadn't approached at this time, there is no telling WHAT might have happened. The thugs scrammed and to Nelson's relief he found that his "pal" had fallen only to avert being shot.

It is pathetic that Nelson was too dumb to notice that the "gal from Wharton" was in reality a boy (one staying at the same house with him) in feminine costume.

It is equally pathetic that someone had to tell him that it was all a frame-up.
P. S. The audience (concealed behind the cactus) enjoyed the whole proceedings immensely.

THE PIONEER

He stepped into his wagon. He whipped his sluggish team.
He chanted while he raced away To chase a treacherous dream:
"Oh, let me see the other side Of yonder lofty hill.
Detain me not, humanity, But follow if you will.
My way may lead to peril. My way may lead to joy,
For who can tell what powers wait To strengthen or destroy?
Forget me, then, my dear ones, And not be over-fond.
Do not belate me with your grief For I must go beyond."

A thousand painted Indians Beneath the smiling moon
Were dancing to the rhythm of An eerie heathen tune.
But he who chased the treacherous dream Was sad̃ly unaware
Of what those savage spirits wished. Perhaps he did not care.
He dashed into the middle of Their squalid group of tents
"Make way," he cried, "For my success And all it represents.
Forget me now, my dear ones, And be not over-fond.
Do not belate me with your grief, For I must go beyond."

At last, he lay disabled.
He had done his very best.
An eaglefeathered arrow Was sticking through his breast.

And with his last uneven breath,
He shaped a final word Which nothing but the ravens And varmints overheard:
"I see the ravens far above. I wonder what they mean.
Oh, something is ahead of me That I have never seen.
Forget me, then, my dear ones And be not over-fond.
Do not belate me with your grief For I must go beyond."

THE ECHO

Winter continues. Willows are dry.
Cold as a grave-yard, grieving the eye.
Valleys of famine fester the land
Void of beauty, scalloped with sand.
Out of the hollows, madly I cry,
Then, like a shadow, comes a replyOnly an echo over the stones, Mocking my sorrows-forging my tones.
Lost in a region sadly unknown
Where my emotions wrestle alone.
Out of oblivion, madly I cry,
Then, like a shadow, comes a reply.
Friends of the mighty, friends of the free,
Friends of the noble, answer my plea.
Startled, I listen, hoping to hear
Some living answer honest and clear.
How they deceive me. Nothing is there;
Nothing of fervor, nothing of care;
Only an echo, spiritless, still,
Mocking my sorrow - forging my will.
