"Half the joy of life is in little things taken on the run. Let us run if we must—but let us keep our hearts young and our eyes open that nothing worth our while shall escape us. And everything is worth our while if we only grasp it and its significance . . ."

Board of Directors

Members of the Board of Directors of the Texas College of Arts and Industries are, Dr. E. N. Jones, Lon C. Hill, Mrs. Frank M. Lewis, vice-president; Frank C. Smith, president; Sam Fore, Jr., Holman Cartwright, H. E. Butt, and Robert C. Eckhardt, secretary, (Not shown) A. Loy Sims and A. L. Cramer.

Texas A&I's President, Dr. Edward Newlon Jones, took over his duties under the most trying conditions imaginable and has done a job of which he himself, and every person in any way connected with A&I, may justly be proud.

Formerly dean of Baylor University and a faculty member of that school for 17 years, President Jones came to A&I with a brilliant educational record behind him. He graduated with a B. S. degree from Ottawa University, Kansas, in 1921. After that he became graduate assistant and fellow in botany at Iowa State University from 1922 until 1925, at which time he received his degree as Ph. D. from that institution. He has done post graduate study at Columbia University and the University of Chicago, and in 1940 the LL. D. degree was conferred on him by Ottawa University, his alma mater.

President Jones brought with him, however, more than just exceptional qualifications for a difficult job. He brought a determination to see the college grow in size and importance while retaining its friendly, small-school atmosphere, a thing that A&I values highly. Through the adverse conditions of the war years he laid plans for future expansion and entrenched against the deterioration that might well have set in during that period.

With the ending of the war and the return of swarms of education-hungry veterans, the East Campus was added to the college and true expansion was begun. When building materials again become available, it will be possible to keep that expansion on a permanent basis as an integral part of the college. The man to head that college, a new and better A&I, is President Edward Newlon Jones.

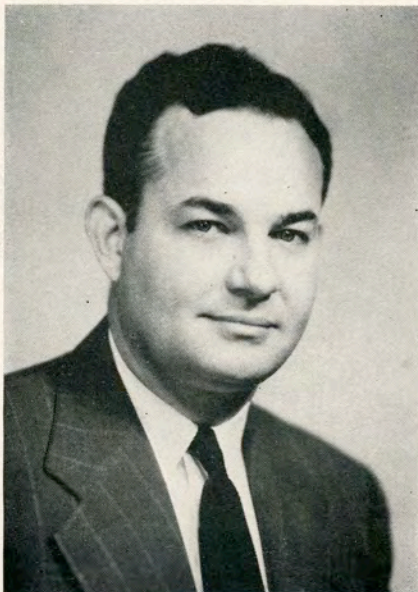

Dr. Otto R. Nielsen was appointed dean of A&I College in 1942 . . . since then he has installed an entire new system of personality orientation tests for entering students to determine fields for which they are best suited . . . under his supervision, the over-all program for an overloaded faculty and greatly increased student body ended a promising year. Dr. Nielsen has a remarkable trait of never meeting a stranger . . . a true spirit that benefits our dean and school.

Mrs. Fannie Wheat, Counselor of Women . . . a student's best friend at any time, her keen understanding and wisdom have set her foremost in the comparatively short time she has been at A&I . . . She first came here in 1928 to teach Physical Education and left two years later to go to New York . . . She returned last June to fill her present position . . . A credit to any school, she has done much in creating stronger ties between students and administration.

Dean James C. Jernigan, the genial man with the quick wit, who is our Dean of Student Life . . . born for the job, he has done more for student government in the past year, than any of his predecessors, yet he has maintained his official capacity on the administration and the high respect of students . . . ever busy, but always ready to aid any problems and accept new responsibilities, A&I is proud to have Dean Jernigan.

Dr. George W. McCulley first came to A&I in 1930 to serve as registrar and head of the department of accounting . . . he has been a sponsor of El Rancho in the past, but managing the registration of over 100% increase in enrolling students took time he could not afford for us this year . . . knowing the strain and confusion of registration, it is easy to appreciate the mechanics Dr. McCulley has used to lessen this confusion.

H. Norton Wells came to A&I in the summer of 1946 and took the job of Veterans Training Officer, or the more informal Veterans Adviser . . . usually there is standing room only in the lines outside his office . . . a fiend for badminton and tennis, he utilizes his outside time in practicing his favorite games.

George M. Simons, the man to whom you are referred if you want something done . . . he received his B. S. from A&I in 1935, and was appointed Assistant Business Manager that same year . . . In 1941 he was also named Purchasing Agent for the college . . . industrious, with almost a superhuman capacity for work, Simons is one of the bulwarks of A&I.

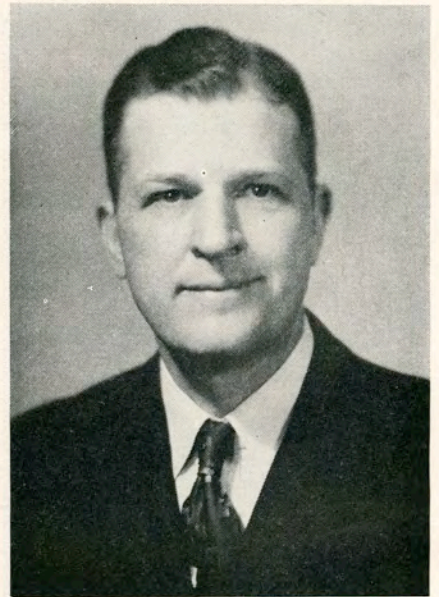

W. A. Rasco came to A&I in September of 1942 to fill the position of assistant professor of Physics . . . In September of 1946 he was appointed assistant dean of college . . . coming from Brownsville, Rasco is a native Texan and has served in the educational field throughout his life . . . his son, W. A. Rasco, Jr., is an instructor in the Physics department.

Dr. B. C. Watts joined the A&I College staff in September, 1946, as assistant to the president and business manager of dormitories. His principal job is running the East Campus . . . a former Naval officer and member of the First Baptist Church, he taught education at Sam Houston Teachers College before coming to A&I.

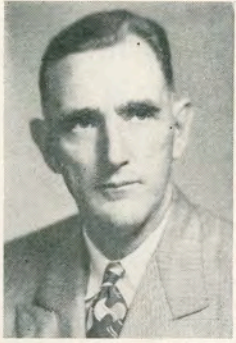

Robert N. Dietz, Office Manager of the Business Office . . . a former student of A&I, he assumed this post in August of '46 and resigned in April '47 . . . very well liked by associates.

A&I Student Council

This year was a period of great awakening in the realm of student government at A&I. Officers were inclined to fight many issues in meeting and out, along with encountering the difficulty of forming and presenting to a greatly enlarged student body a new constitution.

With the able assistance of sponsor J. C. Jernigan, President Lonnie Cunningham devoted time, effort, and intelligence to conducting business in a most orderly and enterprising manner.

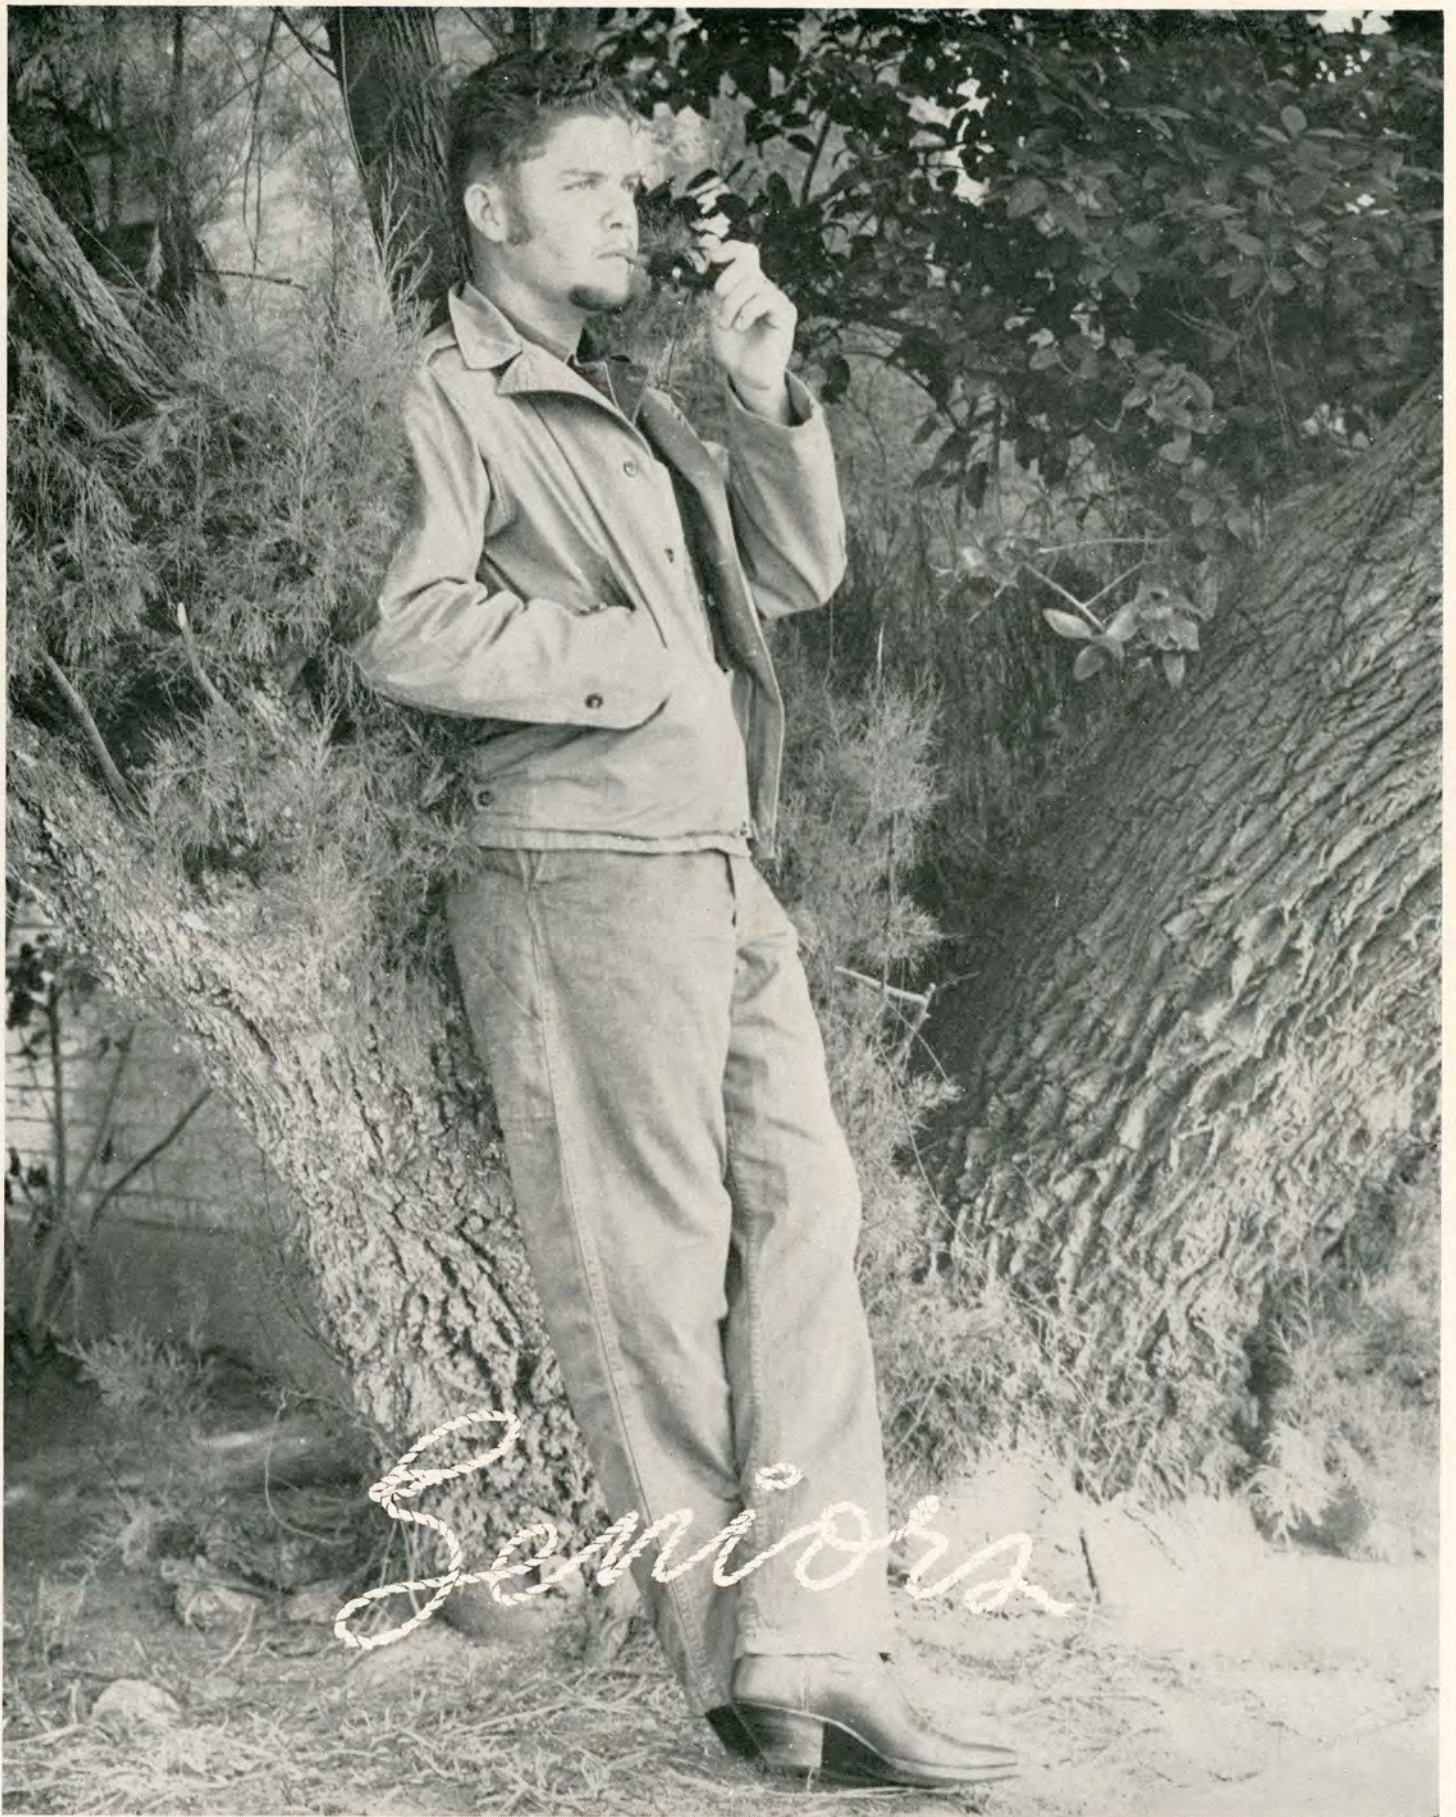

Under the new constitution, there is great promise of success in those things for which the council was formed.

To officers next year and future years, a mighty challenge is brought forth to aid students in ever-present problems that are the duty of the council to solve.

Javelinas . . .

A Sports Roundup

What makes a football team? Well, next to the coaches and the boys themselves, you might say, comes spring training. Here we see the Javelina going through that phase preparatory to opening the 1946-47 season.

Henrietta, Javelina Mascot on Leash

RAH! RAH! RAH!

A school spirit so enthusiastic that it evoked an editorial in the San Marcos "Skyline" following the Bobcat-Javelina game, was the one thing that A&I could pride itself upon following completion of the football and basketball seasons.

Where did this spirit come from, and who was responsible for it? On this page is the answer; the Javelina yell leaders and Henrietta, A&I's javelina mascot.

These two sources produced yells so boisterous that more than once it was necessary to silence the stands that the players might hear the signals on the field, or complete a free throw.

The Javelinas: Football at A&I . . .

1946 Javelinas en masse—Depicted above are the 32 men comprising the A&I football team of 1946. Though the showing made by this year's group was of little import, it did produce a nucleus around which an aggressive, powerful squad can be built in 1947.

Looking Back We See . . .

The scoreboards are now past history, the season is completed and eyes are turned toward the fall of '47 when a new and experienced Hog eleven will contest itself against similar aggregations from over the state. Yet, we cannot leave the season just completed without some resume of its results and a word of retrospect.

The brand of football that A&I fans were treated to in '46 was a far cry from the "toughest little team in the nation" of '41 and the Alamo Conference Champions of '39. The spark of a little All-American center was gone and so was the drive and power that emanates from a team determined to win, and that functions with the exactness of men who have played many seasons together. What A&I fans had in '46 was football played as best men unused to their teammates could play it. It was a brand of ball lacking the unification brought to it by a close coach-player relationship. No one was to blame for this situation. It was a condition fostered upon A&I by World War II.

True, Javelina spectators were treated to frequent long runs such as demonstrated by Cyril Schneider during the Houston-A&I game in the picture accompanying this resume. But these runs were all too spontaneous in their occurrence and always resulted with the Hogs stymied wherever the ball fell at the conclusion of that run.

It would be folly to condemn or fairly criticize the post-war football squad of A&I on the basis of one season. This can only be done after three or more seasons, and by that time the Javelinas will be back to their hard-hitting, driving, and winning style that lay dormant through five years of war.

ANALYSIS . . .

Opposition discovered the A&I gridders to be an easily befuddled aggregation, and took heavy advantage of the fact during the early season games. Inexperience and lack of smooth team work handicapped the Hogs to such an extent that it was not until their fourth game against the McMurry eleven that they were able to score against their opponents.

HIGH SCORER . . .

Giant's share of the scoring done during the '46 season went to backfield star Marvin Schwarz, whose ball toting netted 24 of the 52 total points made by the Javs throughout the season. Running without sufficient interference and often none at all, Schwarz's feat was no small accomplishment. To him went the honor of making the Javelina's second touch-down in four years, when he plowed through the opposing Sul Ross line to strike paydirt during the homecoming game played on the A&I field.

Marvin Schwarz, high-scorer for the '47 Javelinas, runs into heavy opposition at the Sam Houston-A&I game played in Houston.

Scatback Ragain plays tag with San Marcos tackle. The Hogs gained sixteen yards on this one but succumbed to the San Marcos men, 28-0.

IN '47 . . .

Before writing a finis to the section of the '47 El Rancho devoted to the A&I football team, it might be well to paint an optimistic picture to balance an otherwise pessimistic season.

The experience gained and teamwork practiced throughout the past season have served to provide a tough core around which will be built an aggressive and hard-hitting Javelina grid team in '47. Hold no pessimism of '46 then; and hold optimism for '47.

Playing without the aid of scholarships and entering the season too late to acquire games with schools its size, the 1947 edition of the Javelina basketball team muddled its way through a fifteen-game schedule that saw them take on everything from Navy quintets to independent teams and college aggregations. Results of such an irregular schedule left them with no season record that could be called impressive—unless you could call four wins against eleven losses impressive.

What can be said for this year's maplers is that they made up in spirit what was lacked in outstanding players. Games that ended in overtime periods and games that were lost by one point margins showed this. The spectator interest that solidly backed the Hogs at every point of crisis indicated it.

Retrospect, then, leaves the 1947 cagers with little to leave A&I in the way of glorious tradition. The one thing they have left is the seed for the post-war growth of basketball at A&I.

It also left us with vivid memories of scrappy little Fred Stokes, one of two lettermen returning to A&I, and of high-scoring Jack Thompson, who copped high-scorer honors for the year by sinking 125 points.

We are proud of our basketball team, then, not because of its record, but because it brought A&I its first post-war revival of a sport long absent from the campus.

Bitterly fought contests pervaded these Hog-Navy encounters with the majority of them winding up with close scores. However, spirited Navy competition succumbed to the A&I team but once. This was the 44-34 win posted against the Ward Island TechTras by the A&I cagers.

Javelina-Navy tussles comprised half the fifteen-game schedule of the 1947 basketball season at A&I. This was brought about through the late season start acquired by the Hog team which made it impossible to secure more than three games against college opponents.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

The one sports picture that remained a bright spot throughout the 1946-'47 sports calendar was the intramural program directed by Dr. E. H. Brinley, head of the physical education department. Under his supervision and with the capable assistance of Carlton McQueen, director of intramural sports on the main campus, this year's program could be said to be the most successful since the institution of intramural sports as a part of the physical education program.

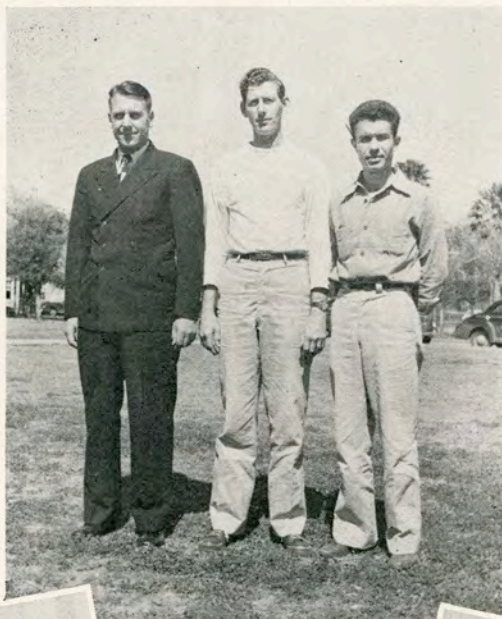

Dr. Brinley inspired determined competition among the various teams engaged in the program through the introduction of an individual award system that gave something more than just a passing recognition to winning teams or individuals. His system completely revamped the old intramural structure, and greatly increased the number of men participating in the program. Through his efforts there is now a trophy to be awarded the team with the greatest number of points at the end of the season, and miniature replicas of footballs, basketballs, track shoes, etc., and various medals for swimming, ping pong and horse shoes that are awarded the individual winners in those sports.

It is with pride, then, that we point to the intramural program at A&I as a "bright spot" in the sports picture. It is in recognition of the success of the program that we have reproduced for the 1947 El Rancho the pictures on the following pages.

—THE EDITORS.

Intramural Officials: Dr. E. H. Brinley, Director; Carlton McQueen, General Supervisor, and Ben Wood, Assistant to McQueen.

Team Coaches: Dale Cummins, BBA; Hector Pena, Anahuacs; Edwin McKay, Aggies; Gordon Taylor, Gas Engineers; Stanley McFarland, Outlaws; Charlie Henderson, Regular Engineers.

Team Coaches and Trophy—Edwin McKay, Aggies; Bob Gafford, Engineers; Carlton McQueen, Roy Terrell, Kappa Sigma Nu, and Hector Pena, Anahuacs.

No program as vast as the intramural sports could be successful without a great number of men to carry out and supplement the program outlined by its director. Besides assistants to oversee the program on both the main campus and the East Campus, there are the men who are designated "coaches" to direct the sports within the various men's organizations. These men also participate in the intramural council, an organization that enables the officers and "coaches" to get together and make decisions on various problems that arise.

On this page are shown the officers and men who are responsible for having brought to a successful conclusion the 1946-'47 intramural program.

Dick Stahl announces next dance as Willard Amann escorts sweetheart, and college orchestra, Lamplighters, prepare to play next tune.

Peggy Bezoni looks skeptical as Dick Weisman whispers sweet nothings . . . That's Don Rusling grinnin' and huggin' Barb Cummins to a slow tempo . . . Bill Waller dancing without saying a word, shock was almost too great for photographer.

Buck Edgar (far left) has an armful of Deandra Barksdale . . . Hangar provided plenty of room for dancing, although many people didn't stick to the program deal . . . Al Cypher looks pleased, partner unidentified.

Biology teacher Gloria Mantooth enjoys a spin with student . . . (Far right) that inseparable two-some Marcia Scruggs and T. J. Pfiel (pronounced file). As usual Marcia doing the talking.

Holiday Spirit

Those Alpha Sigmas held their party at the home of Marian Thomas one night. Left to right pictured around the table are a few: Nancy Coffin, Janelle Dinn, Marjorie Smith, "Cookie" Voight, Carroll Watson, Wilberta Fuchs, "Peanut" Vickery, Marjorie Coleman, Charlice Thamm, Mae Daniel and Edna Secrist . . . wouldn't all this make a lovely package all wrapped in cellophane for some good little boy on Christmas morning.

"When BG's get together"—whether at Christmas or on ordinary days there's an air of friendship every where . . . This year members and pledges exchanged gifts and brought food for a needy family . . . Mardelle Anglin (one eye showing) watches as Bev Tempo presents Marie Schrantz with gift . . . Patsy Graham is back there leering probably over a new town and country she is expecting Santa to bring her.

Engineers' Ball

Engineers held their annual formal dance last fall in one of the hangars on the East Campus. Highlights of the night were: Program dances, Style Show, and Presentation of Engineers Sweetheart, Mary Cynthia Looney, shown at left. M. C. Dick Stahl announces next dance as Willard Amann escorts sweetheart, and college orchestra, Lamplighters, prepare to play next tune.

The Aggies and Home Economics Club combined their efforts and held their Christmas fete in the "O" Club on the East Campus. Above: Daulton Bissett seems nonchalant as Travis Edwards and Professor Cook eagerly unwrap gifts.

Charlie performs for the group . . . That gal really swings a mean rope.

When they meet they always eat, say the Aggies, and with the Home Ec girls fixing the food, they really feasted that night. Jack Smith looks as though he were opening up for a popcorn ball, Ethel Austin and Cliff Gandy are too busy to notice camera . . . Back there in line is Moon Mullins, all smiles. Who wouldn't with all that food?

Below we have Ella Bess St. John with a confused expression and from the looks of things she is—very much in fact . . . but we know it's just a kitchen.

Delta Sigma Chi Presentation

Right: Agnes Moseley and Roy Ives exchange compliments at the Sophomore Ball . . . Orin Westbrook, the future Mr. Moseley was sitting glumly in a far corner contemplating ways to exterminate the male stags . . . Mark Redford in background dances cheek to cheek with we don't know who (we can't see her cheek).

Left: Jimmy Chatelle, youngest member of Chango Quintet, turns "Chango" (minus tail) and tries to steal balloon from rafter . . . Loftin Hall was elaborately decorated with multi-colored streamers and balloons, that is as long as decorations stayed up.

Right: The heart-throb of the A.W.S., the man of men, the suave Casanova, the handsome tenor, and the man who helped keep the Steak House and Skees in business, Napoleon Gerard Chatelle finds time to dance and converse with Windy Sanderfer . . . note the awed and admiring expression on her face . . . that couldn't be Gerry's slip showing in back, or could it?

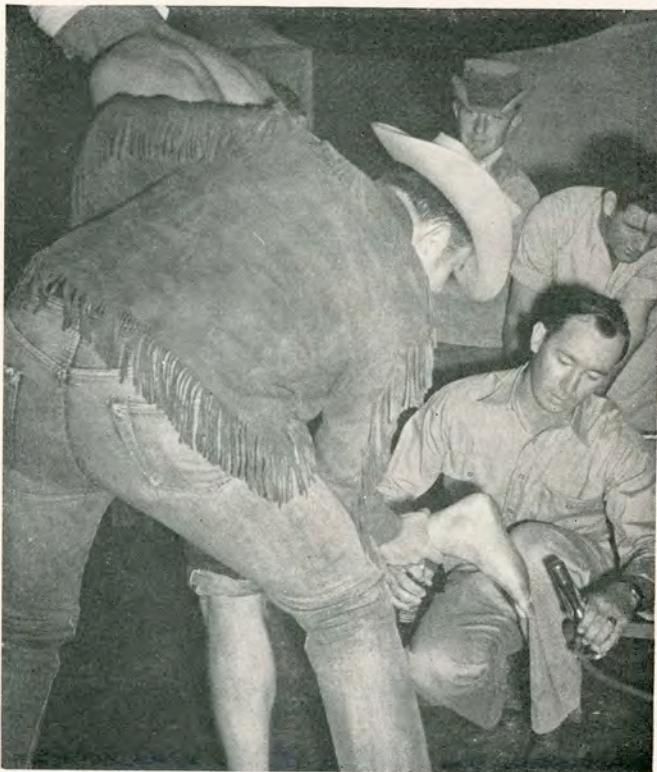

News Item: The time-honored secrets of the Aggies initiations have at last been revealed. Ordinary students who have often queried the activities can now feast their eyes on scenes of torture known first to the Dark Ages . . . .

Left: Notice anguished look on blindfolded student as he fights vainly against Vernon Porter who is cutting out his tongue for saying "I'm not hungry" . . . Center behind: Walter Carroll drives nails in the hand of initiate while C. T. Carpenter laughs maliciously . . .

Right: An example of true Aggie spirit, "When we meet, we always eat" is their slogan and the hen being an old member of good standing (one of the few females) prepares to eat grain off the chest and stomach of some poor boy . . .

Left: We have Weelo Albert (north view as he headed south) grasping an innocent ankle as Bethea "Horrible" Bailey starts to clip three toes from the foot . . . this operation enables Aggies to wear very narrow, pointed boots with ease and comfort after feet heal . . . other features not pictured include learning to give the ol' Aggie "greeto", difficult at first for new Aggie, their vocal cords are enriched as the Pitchfork Wielder jabs them when they aren't looking.

"Honey" Wissart pays homage to the higher-ups, the Untouchables, the masters during Hell Week, the almighty sorority members . . .

Anything Goes . . . Hell Week

Jo Ann Irwin and Betsy Aiken take Simon Lagree stance and yell at pledges to sing and 'leap frog' at the same time. Ever tried it? . . .

BG pledges take over T-Jac to entertain patrons and get in Prof's hair with vocal renditions and mighty dirty faces . . . Faye Schubert watches Doris Brittain and Peggy Fordtram to be sure they don't call members nasty names.

Those Alpha Sigma bunnies hunted everywhere for carrots . . . Truma Owens leads Janelle Dinn, Imogene Adams, Rosemary Dodd, and Ann Brixey (muggin' far right) thru the T-Jac . . . Bet those lil' rabbits could give farmers and farmers' boys a baaaaaad time . . .

All those gals laughing a Nookie White (blindfolded) are only members who have been thru the same mess . . . Betty Jo Pressly laughs over Mattie Mae's shoulder . . . Pudge Anderson gleefully prepares to add flour to AE initiation recipe . . .

WITH REGRETS . . . Pictures of the Delta Theta sorority initiation were not available though sought after. Their activities were of as much interest as the other groups, but through some mix-up, DT pics never reached my desk. . . . Ed.

Below: Imogene Adams gets hers, Pudge again seeing justice is done.

Peggy Johnson gets a big charge out of torturing pledge by rubbing her back with ice . . . Virginia Holmes, left, thinks it quite amusing . . . Pledges Brixey, White, Dinn and unidentified in background with uncomfortable molasses coating . . . even their eyelashes stuck together.

Left: KEN Version of the Dolly Sisters. Don Rusling shags it, by Don Davenport who had a palm tree tattooed on his chest and it began to grow! (He has it trimmed twice a month, left shows two months growth).

Below: A gala concentration of masculine beauty disguised as feminine horror at the style show climaxing "Hell Week" are left to right: Paul (Red Star) Richter, Amos Mussett, James (EEK!) Rikard, Don Rusling, Ed DeMouche, and Roy Syrett. We regret pictures weren't made of other phases of initiation, but there wasn't any color film to take pictures of the multi-colored pills . . .

President Archie Barber (above center) poses with Kappa Sigma Nu Sweetheart Jo Ann Irwin after she received her bouquet at Presentation Dance, December 7. Photographers missed the dance, consequently no pictures . . . however under the leadership of pre-war members, the boys really did it up brown! . . . Note: Someone quoted ol' Daddy Hot Bill Erwin (not pictured) as saying he wanted to raise a huge family 'cause he loves little babies sooo much . . .

The Delta Theta sorority held a formal dance March 1st in Loftin Hall . . . dances given by the other sororities were too late in the year for pictures to be made . . . Left Jo Nell Collins sells tickets to Jimmy Ragain, while Ray Jones handles wraps in the background . . . Joy French way over there was busy trying to catch flies.

Right: . . . and the band played on, something about those Lamplighters giving out with a dreamy tune, you snuggle up a little closer, close your eyes and keep rhythm with your partner who's a wonderful dancer . . . then Joe Blow cuts and you start a spin that nearly kills you . . . Back to being dreamy, Gail Gilmore and Charlie Allison seem to be . . .

Left: Marcia and T. J. (that's like hame and eggs) . . . renews your faith to see those kids . . . Virginia Frels (center) makes the big talk with Pete Campbell, and JoAnn Barwise, (look at that woman cuddle) is all wrapped up in the music that is . . . Billie Brooks Gaul dances right out of the picture with I wish I knew who . . .

Home Talent

Jack Smith, Gene Dickey, Homer Finck, and Walter Treybig as they appeared in John Fry's original one-act play "Prisoners of War".

Bob Williams, assistant director Vi. Hardies, Gene Dickey, Jack Smith, author John Fry, Homer Finck, and Walter Treybig pose for the photogs after the opening night performance of "Prisoners of War".

These are the actors in a scene that made the Footlights Club presentation of the play such a success . . .

First officers of the Footlights Club to be elected under a new constitution pose for a family portrait . . . Standing left to right are Jackie Nicholson, reporter; Bill Held, vice-president; Thelma Ruth Maples, treasurer; and Walter Treybig, parliamentarian. Seated are Doug Carruth, president; and Jo Nell Collins, secretary.

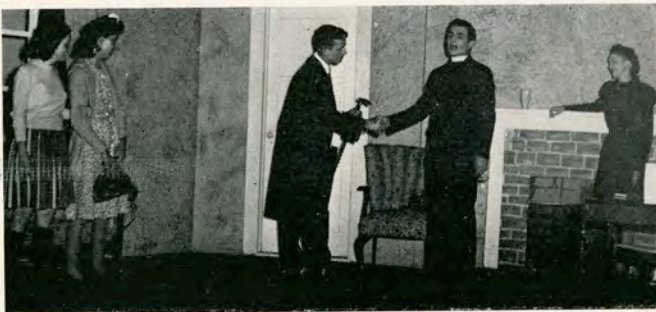

Ann Brixey, as Lena Zoolser (the girl with the knees) emotes in a hilarious scene from the one-act comedy "The Flattering Word". In the back, Lena's mother, played by Thelma Maples, rattles through a telephone conversation.

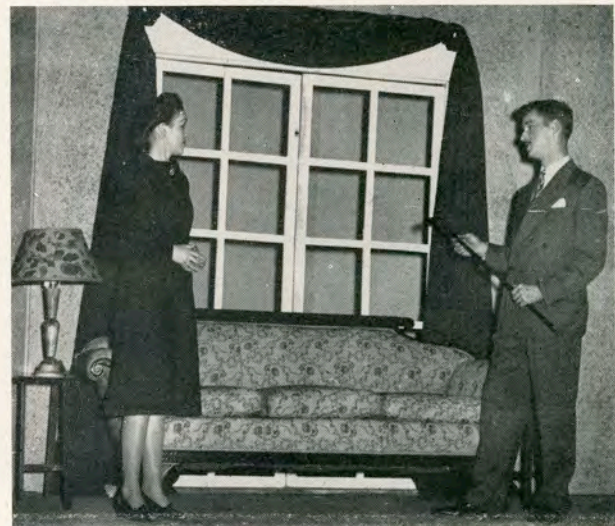

Dr. Rigley, played by Tom Shelton, gives Lena some competition. The good Dr. is a righteous minister whose violent opposition to the theatre gives rise to some riotously funny scenes.

The great "Ham" actor, Eugene Tesh, played by Doug Carruth finally converts Dr. Rigley as Lena, Mrs. Zoolser, and Mrs. Rigley looks on approvingly . . . Note that Mr. Shelton seldom closes his mouth . . .

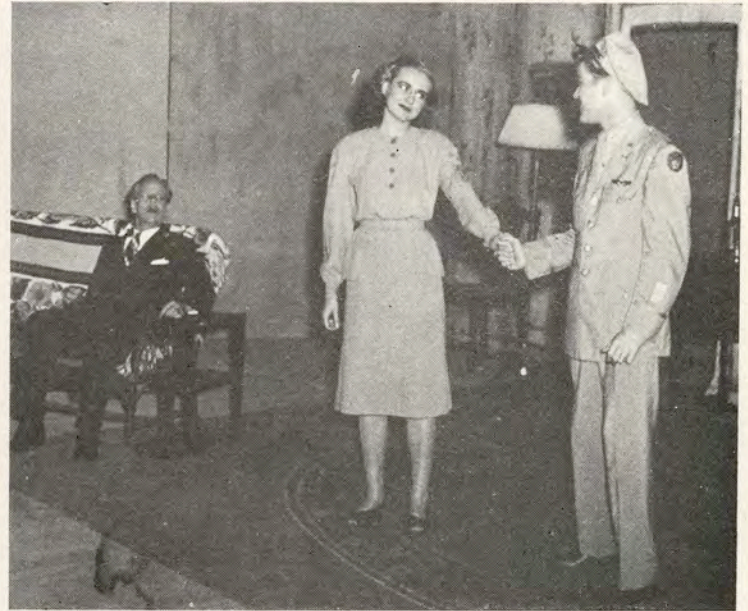

Mrs. Lane Vaughn as Mrs. Rigley and Doug Carruth as Mr. Tesh discuss the possibilities of converting the Rev. Dr. Rigley to the theatre. Lane says the chances are mighty slim but the "Ham" Carruth shakes a wicked cane and says he'll try.

Gathered in Jones Auditorium for a Footlights Club meeting are officers and members of the Club, the sponsor, and guests . . . It is at meetings such as this that plans are made for their splendid dramatic productions . . .

"Aw come on," sez he to she . . . the presentation of "Dear Ruth" was notable addition to the season's entertainment, sponsored by the Artist's Course, the play featured an all-star cast direct from Broadway.

Miscellany . . .

Backstage

Backstage Vi Hardies is arranging Bill Held's hair for the role of Bishop . . . Bettye Hansard is greasing up her pretty face for her role in "Sparkin'" . . . the mad, mad rush backstage on production night . . .

Cookie Voight puts the finishing touches on Walter Treybig for his role as the convict in TBC's . . . This is a typical backstage view of real actors making ready for a production . . .

"Granny" Jane McBath wags an accusing finger at Rosemary Dreyer, and chomps down on a quid of tobacco, while "Ma" Bettye Hansard peels spuds and deposits the peelings in grandma's spittoon, in "Sparkin'".

Footlight Club Productions . . .

Jim Wright and Judge Harvey Mosemeyer look on intently as Bill Held gives some important testimony during the trial in "Night of January 16th" . . . Jack Smith looks dazed—as usual . . .

The prosecuting attorney stands with his star witnesses at the murder trial in the unusual three-act play "Night of January 16th" presented by the Footlights Club last December . . . If they look dejected, it's only because the defense attorney has just made a very good point . . .

Judging the beards . . . the Lantana Ladies were asked to do the honors of official judging on different types, lengths, and what-nots of beards . . . far left handsome blonde Bob Holder laughs at Ray Hughston.

Los Charros . . . The Brush Court

Two of the champs, McVey and McCoy, look our way . . . the beard contest brought thoughts of long gone charros and caballeros who mounted priceless stallions and bedecked themselves gaily for the ladies . . . Charro Days in Brownsville started our boys to growing their own little beards . . .

With the unique rhythm of a people trained since early childhood in the art of the rumba and other tropical dances the Puerto Rican Rhumba Dancers above demonstrate their ability with Octavio Costas as master of ceremonies . . .

Valentine Varieties

"El Senor Stingaree" reads court martial order to Sam Burris and Mr. Jernigan for infractions on the honor of the brushmen . . . at right you see Pinky Davis and Malcolm McLoud really meant business . . . that's real shootin' irons they're holdin' . . .

A real threat to Robin Hood and his merry band are these Willa Tells above who can hit a target (bull's eye in fact) at 50-yards . . . be sure you aren't the bull they aim at . . .

Which is YOUR Business?

Whatever you plan to do for a living, it's a pretty safe bet that your job as well as many others will be represented among the businesses of the folks who own CENTRAL POWER AND LIGHT COMPANY. For CPL is owned not by one man or two, but by hundreds of people in all walks of life, who do all kinds of work. In fact there are over 2,500 of these direct owners—over half of whom live in Texas.

There's also another way for you to have a stake in CPL. As you start a career, chances are you'll begin a savings account or buy a life insurance policy. Banks and insurance companies must invest your money safely and wisely. And because business-managed electric companies like CPL have a long record of faithful public service, much of this money is invested in utility securities.

Thus, when you go into business, chances are you will have a definite financial stake in CPL, DIRECTLY or INDIRECTLY. What affects the electric business, affects you.

Now What?

. . . GRADUATES OF '47

You, who are about to acquire your sheepskin from A&I, may contemplate with pride that such a step represents "A Job Well Done".

As a result of your academic training, you have gained a reserve of knowledge involving postulates, formulas and solutions to problems which you may reasonably expect to meet in the years ahead. Your ability to engage in life's competitive struggle has been enhanced by the study and research which has led to your degree in engineering, chemistry, home economics or whatever your chosen field. With this background of accomplishment, the question of immediate concern may well be—"NOW WHAT?"

You are fortunate, individually and as a group, in having abundant opportunities for success at your doorstep. Prosperous South Texas, booming with industry and thriving with activity, offers economic advantages unparalleled in any other section of the country. These advantages, if met with foresight, initiative and an alert mind, virtually guarantee the success which lies open to every American under our system of free enterprise. They also provide to each of you a challenge to keep constant pace with industrial and social progress.

Add this all together, combine it with a strong determination on your part to deal fairly with and respect the rights of your fellow man, and it will serve to perpetuate a cherished design for living—The American Way.
