DEDICATION

Do you remember the freshness of the air after a spring rain . . . the painted clouds at eventide when the sun splashes the landscape with its scarlet rays . . . the moon's silver light on tree and house and lawn . . . the harmony of choir voices in the late afternoon . . . the babble of happy voices down the hall . . . a friendly smile and "hello" when you were feeling sad . . . the thrill of the home team's sweeping to an unexpected victory? To all these and many other happy moments is this book dedicated.

campus

Where you lived, and walked, and talked

Where you listened and learned and sought a degree

This is the A&I Campus of 1953

CAMPUS

College Hall is the center of important activity at A&I. No student passes more than a week without finding some business that takes him within its walls. New students are introduced to the building during registration. The Registrar's Office, in the west wing, records general information about each student. In the center of the building, on both first and second floors, is the Library. In the east wing is the business office. Upstairs in the wings are offices of the president and the deans.

The building above is the home of Dr. E. H. Poteet, president of A&I. It was constructed in the twenties, when the institution was the South Texas State Teachers College.

CAMPUS

The Student Union Building is the center of social life at A&I. It was completed in November of 1950. In the west wing is located the Bookstore, where college students buy their books and school supplies. In the east end of the building is the Tejas Room (the college coffee shop) where students and faculty alike meet to drink coffee. Also located in the building are the Union Ballroom, the game room, a lounge, offices, and numerous club meeting rooms. Television and movies are included in the organized recreation program.

Jones Auditorium, located east and north of the old Administration Building, is the scene of many collegiate dramatic performances, assemblies, Artists Course Series productions, and high school interscholastic league functions.

CAMPUS

Shown above is the old Administration Building, now officially referred to as the Main Academic Building. Many courses in business administration, languages, social sciences, agriculture, art, journalism, mathematics, and speech are taught here. It also houses many department and division offices and the Office of Student Publications. It was the first classroom building on the campus.

Between the Main Academic Building and Nierman Hall is this archway, where students stop on numerous occasions to wait for classes. Jack Heacock and George Bogusch are doing that just now.

CAMPUS

Framed beneath the sweeping arch of the tree in the picture above is Nierman Science Hall, home of all departments in natural science at A&I. In the building are numerous classrooms and laboratories. Its hall is also the shortest route from the main academic building to the Tejas Room, as professors with offices in the building are highly aware.

Women students in home economics use this building as their model home. Advanced students live here for a time as part of their required work. It is located just west of Nierman Hall.

CAMPUS

Seale Hall, a two-story brick structure located across the street from the Old Administration Building, was constructed in 1935. It houses 100 students in 10 five-bedroom suites. Mrs. Bess T. (Mom) White, dormitory director, makes her residence in the suite just to the right of the main entrance.

Located immediately behind Seale Hall is May Hall. This two-story brick structure houses 165 men. It was completed in the fall of 1949.

CAMPUS

Located west of Seale and Loftin halls is Cousins Hall, one of the two women's dormitories. It, like Seale, was constructed in 1935. Located just inside the main door is the reception room and the social room. Residence director is Miss Lola Keeney. One of the first phone numbers learned by male students on the campus is, 2-2141.

Located to the rear of Cousins is Lila Baugh Hall, the counterpart of the men's residence, May Hall. Its switchboard phone is 2-7311. Director is Mrs. Ora Parker.

CAMPUS

The Methodist Student Center, completed early last September, just off the campus, is the focal point of Methodist student activities on the A&I campus. The building houses complete game room facilities, classroom, and workrooms. It is located north and east of Jones Auditorium on Armstrong Street. John R. Gibbs is director of Wesley Foundation activities.

South of Jones Auditorium is the Baptist Student Center, home of the Baptist Student Union. The building is equipped in the same manner as the Methodist Center. Donnal Timmons is director.

CAMPUS

North of the Gymnasium is the Engineering Building. The one-story brick and tile structure, completed in 1951, houses the electrical engineering power laboratory, electrical engineering measurement and electronics, communication, a drafting room, geology laboratory, and classrooms. Also located here are the offices of the Division of Engineering.

Loftin Hall, located between the men's and women's dormitories, is the main dining hall for the campus. Many students other than those living in dormitories take their meals here.

CAMPUS

Across the street from the Engineering Building is the A&I Gymnasium, home of the Javelina basketball team. It houses classrooms, offices of the Department of Health and Physical Education, training rooms, a basketball court, and a smaller gymnasium for miscellaneous activity. Adjoining the building is a swimming pool, which is used for class activity and recreation.

Above is Javelina Stadium, which was completed in 1951. It is located north of the main campus area on Armstrong Street. Its seating capacity is 7,000. Light towers in the background are 125 feet high.

CAMPUS

The building at right provides living quarters for varsity athletes who are married. It is located adjacent to the Intramural Field and to the rear of the bachelor quarters of Javelina Courts.

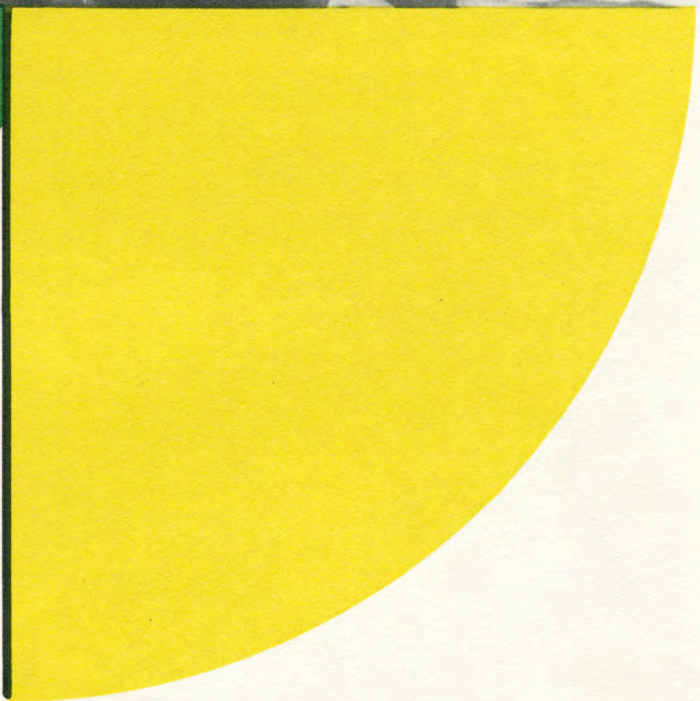

To the right is a view of the Javelina Courts Dining Hall. At either side of the dining hall are the Javelina Courts bachelor quarters. A majority of students participating in college athletics at A&I live in the Courts area.

PRESIDENT

Traditionally, El Rancho has presented at the opening of its section devoted to Administration a letter from the A&I president to the student body—a letter designed to inspire students to strive toward ever higher goals.

This year, however, it is our thought that this purpose may be served by a glance at what the Administration has done for A&I. Outstanding dedicated accomplishment is itself inspirational.

All men can have dreams, but inspired men with the will to work turn their dreams into realities. A&I has been fortunate through the years in having a succession of such men and women guiding its destinies.

Physical development of the College in the last few years is a major testimonial of the vision and hard work of President E. H. Poteet, his predecessor Dr. E. N. Jones, members of the Board of Directors, faculty members, and others devoted to building a greater A&I.

Other administrative work, however, presents problems just as difficult as those of development. Solution of these problems leaves no landmark other than continued steady progress of the enterprise.

It is characteristic of A&I that while these problems were being dealt with successfully new honors were being attained as evidence of standards of scholarship in the college.

It is not our major purpose here to eulogize but simply to point to a job well done in the thought that as students we can ask no better example or inspiration.

BOARD

Pictured on this page are the persons responsible for much of the progress and development made on the A&I campus in the past few years. They are President E. H. Poteet and members of the A&I Board of Directors. Those seated are A. Loy Sims, Sinton; Albert Martin, Laredo; Mrs. Frank Morton Lewis, vice-president, San Antonio; and Robert C. Eckhardt, secretary, Kingsville. Standing are Dave E. Blackburn, Victoria; Frank C. Smith, Houston; John F. Lynch, president, Corpus Christi; Dr. Poteet; and O. E. Van Berg, Mercedes. Not present when the Board picture was made was P. E. Peareson, Richmond (right).

ADMINISTRATION

J. C. JERNIGAN, B.S., M.S., Ph.D.,
Dean of the College

ROGER E. RICHARDS, B. A., M. A.,
Dean of Men

CARRIE LEE BISHOP, B.S., M.S.,
Dean of Women

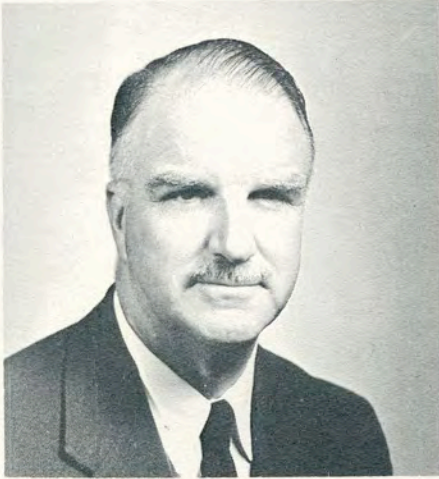

JAMES H. COLVIN, B.A., M.S.,
Business Manager

Shown on this page are officers of the administration. The offices of Dr. Jernigan, Mr. Richards, and Mrs. Bishop are located on the second floor, west wing, of College Hall. Dr. McCulley's offices are located on the first floor of the west wing, and Mr. Colvin's are located downstairs in the east wing of College Hall.

A big part of college life takes place in the classroom with books and pen and pencils and lecture notes and lecturers

CLASS TIME

Learning and testing don't take place only in the classroom as these agricultural students are beginning to find out. In the picture above a group of students are applying a little class learning to practical field experience in judging beef cattle. Harry Treybig is shown making his test.

Finding the moisture content of seed grain is an important bit of knowledge for a South Texas farmer. David Neher, assistant professor of agriculture explains the test to Albert Hornung (foreground), Clare Van Shafer and Robert Jones. This picture was taken in Nierman Annex, where experiment and analysis are conducted by the agriculture division.

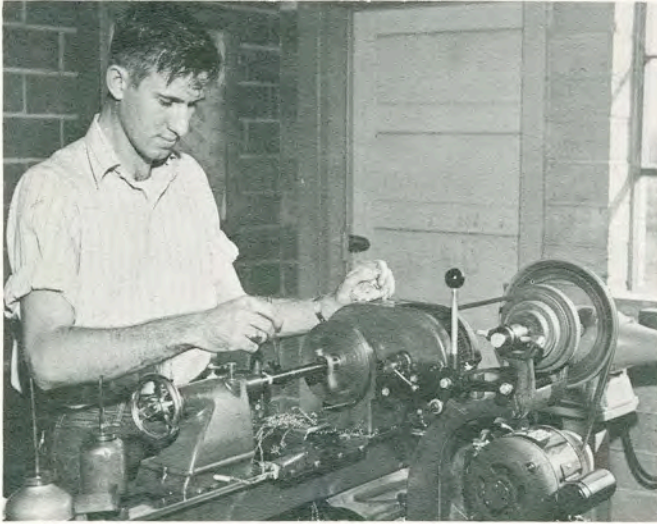

George Mertzbacher, farm shop laboratory assistant, stops to give Jerry Bell a few pointers on an engine reconditioning job.

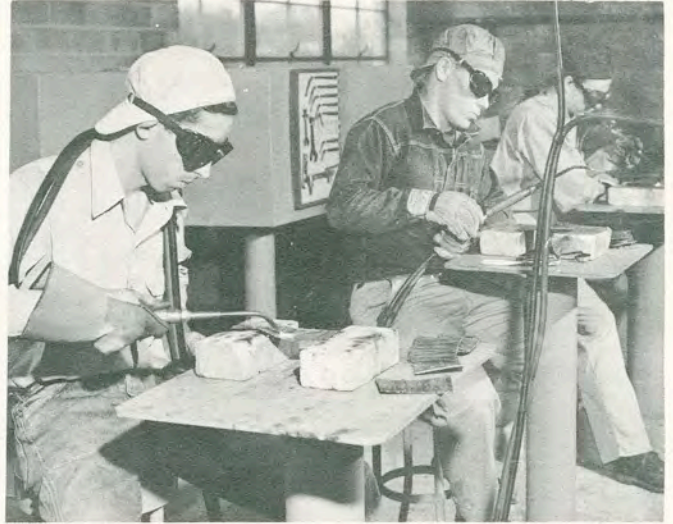

Agricultural students are taught to meet nearly every problem that could arise for a farmer. Knowing an engine inside and out is one of the most important skills available to a farmer who operates the typical mechanized farm of today.

CLASS TIME

A modern farmer needs many skills to meet with his everyday problems. Nat Qualia, above, demonstrates the use of the metal lathe in turning a steel bar down to the proper size as a replacement axle for a trailer, or a master power shaft for farm wood-working tools.

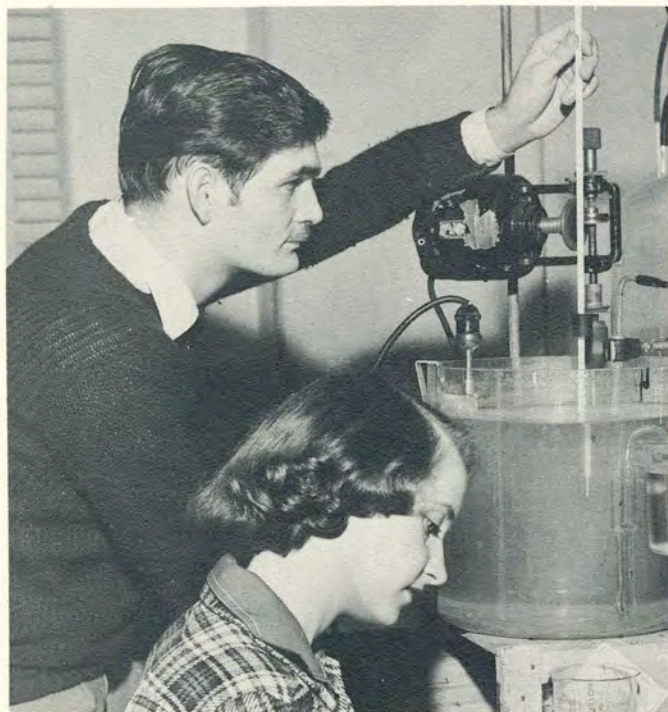

A broken harrow, a cracked trailer-hitch, a brazing job on a shovel blade are a few of the problems for a fellow who wants to be a farmer. Beryl Burgess, Wayne Brushenhan, and Roger Anderson demonstrate a quick and inexpensive answer to these problems.

Many other farm skills are offered to students interested in agriculture. Brick-laying, carpentry, soldering, forging, cold metal work, pipe work, simple plumbing, painting, rope work, and concrete pouring are just a few skills made available to the students. Farm students using many of these skills helped to build their own Agricultural Engineering Building.

CLASS TIME

Weighing, testing, measuring, and collecting data are all part of the duties of a chemistry laboratory technician or a chemical engineer. Above Franciszek Olstowski and Emily Morrison demonstrate one of the experiments made familiar to them in their study of chemistry.

A biology major studies nature at its best and at its worst; always there is something new and interesting. Danny Fossler and this baby skunk became good friends until the skunk tried its pungent prowess one evening and forced the temporary abandonment of one of the biology laboratories.

Quantitative analysis is one of the tool skills of chemistry. Measurements as fine as the weight of a pencil mark on a piece of paper are important in the study of the chemical composition of a substance. Joan Sughru, pre-med major, is shown at lower left as she weighs a small quantity of chemical for her experiment.

CLASS TIME

Biology isn't just the study of nature's creatures in their natural state and habitat; it includes the study of plant and animal tissues, simple plants and animals such as the paramecium and the amoeba, virus and nature in all its forms. Above Jo Ann Howard, Sue Bishop, Elaine Hall and Pat Levens draw structural forms of nerve tissue viewed through their microscopes.

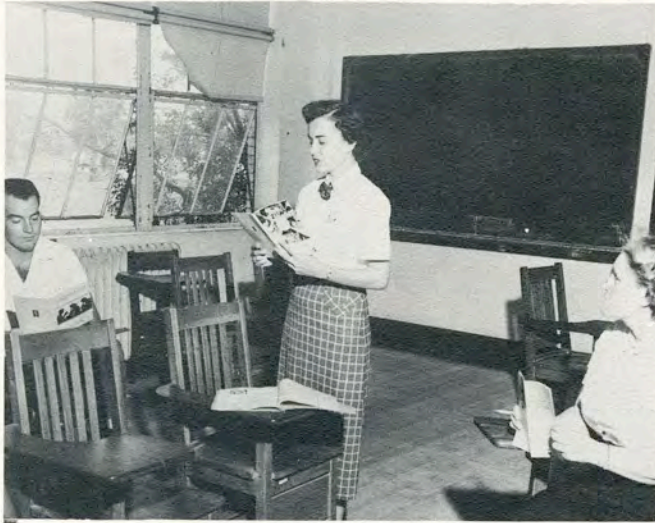

At lower right is a portion of a class in elements of geography. Dr. Charles A. Bajza points out some of the land areas included in the class study. David White, Hester Lockett, James Brown, and Lucane Durham observe.

The economics chart seems to be confusing Ann Scott and Britton Vincent. Miss Ruth Bell says, "It's simple. That's what happened to business in the U. S. since 1776."

CLASS TIME

June Hunt reports on the effects of poliomyelitis and rehabilitation programs in the United States. Miss Edith Cousins, sociology professor listens and Roland Beckworth looks (top).

Dr. R. J. Galloway gives an impromptu lecture, tracing important centers of literary development in England. His two students shown in the picture are Carol Alsop (left) and Doris Blanton.

In another area of fine arts students develop skills in the use of brush and oils as demonstrated above by Mrs. Maxine Dietert, Amando Hernandez, and Pedro Luna (right).

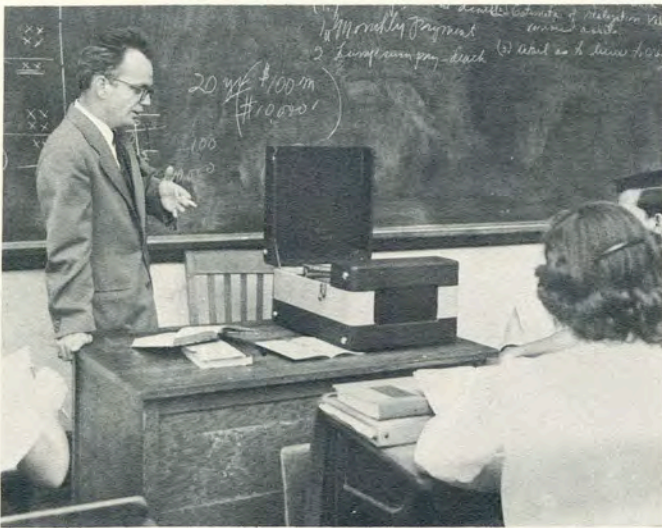

Sculpturing is another artistic outlet offered to students. At the lower right Ed Gardener puts some of the finishing touches on his concrete creation.

CLASS TIME

Home economics is a popular study among girls at A&I. Miss Aline McKenzie, observes the class work of two of her students, Carol Lee Burgess and Martha Isensee.

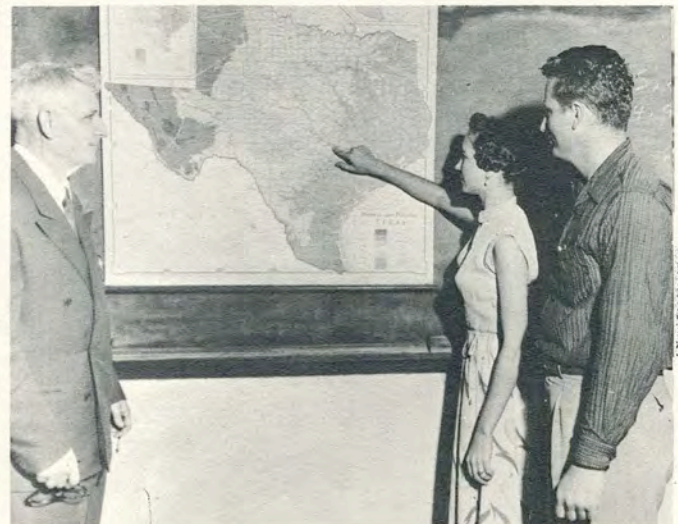

Dr. W. D. Johnson, professor of foreign languages, lectures to his Spanish class, using special recordings to emphasize points of pronunciation difficulties.

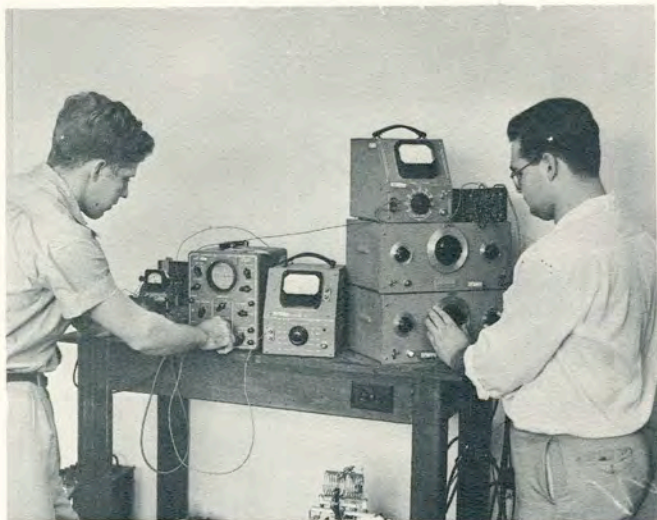

A. Dane Bowen, history and government instructor, holds an informal history session in the A&I Museum. From left to right are Dick Stone, Val Mora, Mr. Bowen, Harold Rucker, Marianne Ratz, and Paul Long.

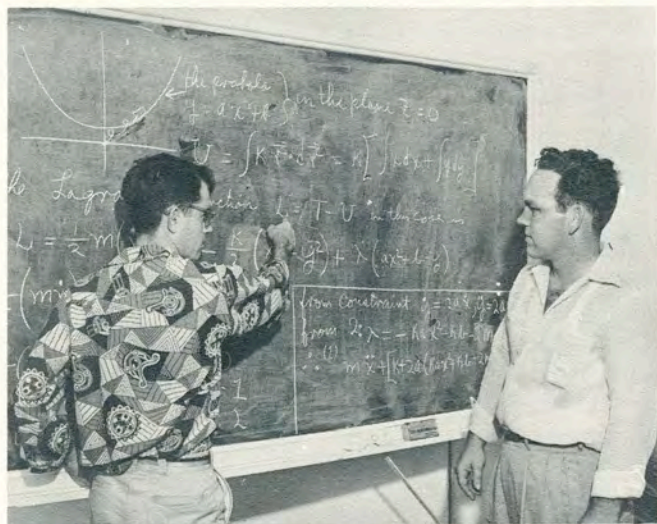

J. E. Conner, history and government professor, watches as two of his students discuss some problems in county government during their class in Texas government. Marinelle Turner and James Welty are the students shown.

Physics theory has its problems for Fred Evans as classmate Kay Eoff explains a "toughie" on the blackboard.

CLASS TIME

Arnold C. Anderson, speech instructor, readsies his speech team for contests at the annual San Marcos Speech Festival, where they debated, did competitive readings in literature and various types of public speaking

Much of an A&I speech major's activity lies not in the classroom but in activities related to his field of study, such as public speaking, debates, oral readings, dramatics, and radio voice. In the picture a group of students rehearse for their parts in 'Romeo and Juliet' under the direction of Dr. Ted Skinner.

CLASS TIME

Engineering students learn the use of dividers, drawing board and square early in their college training. Drawings must be neat and accurate, a prerequisite quality for all students intending to become engineers. Ray Allen and Robert Menn are shown conferring on a problem in laying out the intersection of a plane and a pyramid.

Ike Galyean at the transit (above) gives the "okay" signal to his rod man at a point or sighting outside the picture. Bob Little records the readings. The two were photographed during a surveying laboratory.

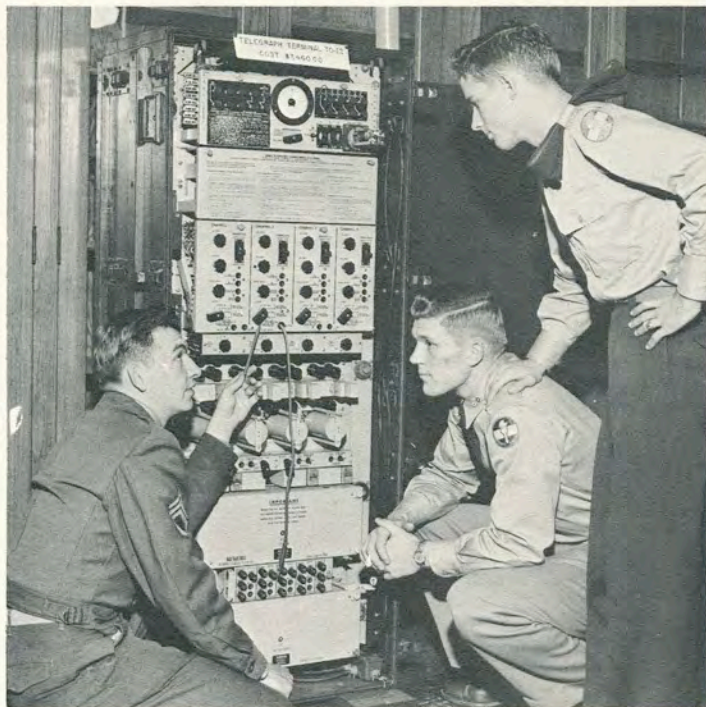

Paul Treptow, laboratory assistant, gives a reading from his slide rule in an electronics laboratory. Seated are Cyril Dieter and Bob Powell. Standing to the right of Treptow are James Gross, Paul Hesler, Hugo May, and Eugene Stanford.

CLASS TIME

Edmund Beck and Richard Bohl (upper left) get a few pointers in map reading from Captain Randolph Cooper, assistant professor of military science and tactics.

Upper right, Sgt. Robert J. Beavis explains the operation of a telegraph terminal used in Signal Corps operations in the field. ROTC students are Robert Brandt and A. W. Green.

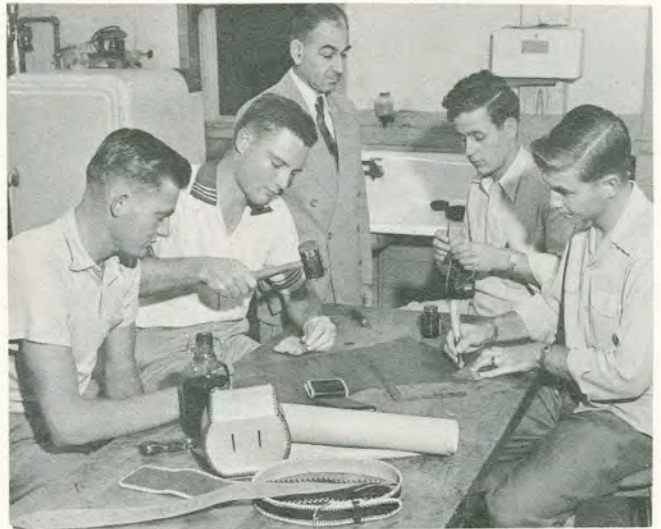

Seen below is the ROTC cleaning line in the Armory. These military science students learn their weapons inside and out. Some students complain that they see the inside of their pieces too much for their own pleasure. Jimmy Seay, Jack Krodel, Dick Stone, and A. J. Naugher are in the foreground.

CLASS TIME

A. F. Gross, chairman of the Industrial Arts Department, gives a basic lesson in photography in the studio of the Industrial Arts Building. Shown, from left, are Pete Luna, Fred H. Dierke, Max Keller, and Rudolph Bauer.

Max Keller, Travis Smith, Bill Davidson, and Jerry Bryant are shown in their leather crafts laboratory. R. F. McEowen, instructor, supervises progress on their individual projects.

Barbara Butler checks with Nat Qualia to see if her adjustments are correct on the faceting machine. The machine is used in cutting precious and semi-precious stones.

Kathleen Qualia and J. R. Acevedo observe Paul Lugo's technique at the throwing wheel. The machine is essential in pottery making, one of the courses available to students majoring or minoring in industrial arts.

CLASS TIME

The picture above was snapped at A&I's Nursery School. Future elementary school teachers spend part of their classtime here learning to care for children of elementary and pre-elementary school age. Miss Barbara Brown, at left, is in charge of the school.

The scene at upper right, except for the size of the people, seems to be right out of some second or third grade classroom. Hellen Sizemore, Jack Schrock, and Vernelle Crofford are studying teaching techniques in elementary education.

Health and physical education has its place in college too. Pat Graham, Jo Clune, and Nancy Bentley are learning the proper way to handle the various types of golf clubs in their golf and bowling class.

Another physical education class teaches badminton and tennis. Here Miss Nan Roberts instructs a group of students in badminton. The students are Billy Maca, Ruth Arden White, Jimmy Simmons, and Bobbie McDowell.

UNION BOARD

The College Union Governing Board's duty is to provide recreational activities of both cultural and social interest for the students of A&I. The Board is composed of six students, two members of the faculty, the president of A&I, and a representative from the Ex-Students Association.

Members of the Board, as shown above, are David Meador, Mrs. Carrie Lee Bishop, Lenette Jones (secretary), Bill Cronenwett (reporter), Margie Lipe, Ginger Nelson (chairman), and Al Brieger (Union director). Not shown are Reggie West (vice-president), Dr. Ernest H. Poteet, and C. V. Mooney, Ex-Student representative.

UNION BOARD

Another feature of the Student Union is the Lounge, which is equipped with television, a radio-record player combination, comfortable modern furniture, a small library, magazines, and facilities for games.

Occasionally during the school year when the college social calendar is clear on a Friday evening, the Union Governing Board shows popular foreign movies. Bill Cronenwett (at right) is chairman for this program.

At lower right are two students making use of some of the gameroom equipment provided by the Union. Billiard and ping pong tables are available for use from morning to night, and they're usually in use.

SOUTH TEXAN

As part of the nameplate of The South Texan the words "The Voice of Texas A&I Student Body" have been inscribed. A more recent addition to the nameplate are the words "For a Collegiate Way of Living." These two phrases have keyed the action and attitude of The South Texan during the past school year.

The results have included several major editorial campaigns which were short and to the point. The campus newspaper has sought, as always, to bring to the students and the general public clear, complete report of activities and thought at A&I. It has sought to help direct all phases of activity toward a unified, wholesome entity in which the goals of college education will be best served. And in all its efforts The South Texan has perpetuated for one more year an American college tradition, that of being so wonderfully human.

An annual is a picture record of students and their activities during the college year. The quality of an annual rests with the quality of its pictures, the way they are presented on the pages and the range of activities they cover. Credit for most of the photography, other than that done by professional photographers for the class sections, Class Time, and portraits in Lantana Time, should belong to Andy Hanson (upper right) and Bob Franks (upper left).

In this strange scene of fire and figures was born the seed of a Homecoming victory. Hundreds of A&I students ringed the bonfire as it shot its flames skyward south of Javelina Stadium. At the edge of the crowd several band members stood in silhouette as they played "The Fight Song."

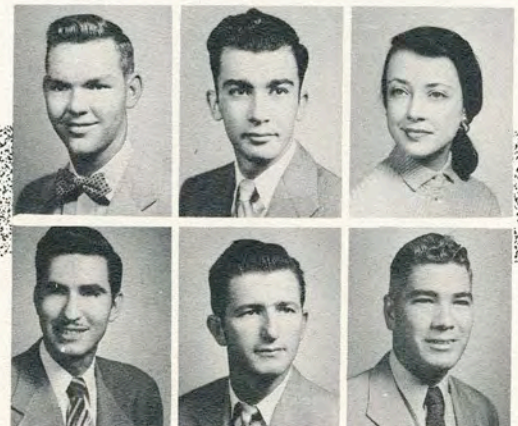

Shortly before the torch was set to Homecoming bonfire, the Sophomores battled the Freshmen in their annual tug-of-war. Long after the struggle had officially ceased, a few stalwarts were still contesting the issue at the edge of the mud pit.

And in November, Politics Became a Byword

Campaigning in the presidential election was a stormy time for A&I. Students and faculty took sides. Even the janitors paused in their never-ending tasks to discuss their political favorites in the fashion of most such discussions—at the top of their voices. A "Students for Stevenson" group formed two weeks before the big election. The next night an "A&I for Ike" club took up the challenge. The groups met in public discussion of the political issues, the session officially lasting two hours. (Members of the panel are shown in action above.) But students stayed and asked question after question (see picture at lower left). The next day students and faculty voted in a mock election. The outcome? Ike won. On November 4 members of both student political groups joined city organizations in bringing out Kingsville's biggest vote, a whopping 82 per cent of the eligible voters.

"Sold to the young lady by the door for 39 cents!" Each year the Kappa Sigma Nu fraternity sells its pledges at auction to any girl willing to take them away for a few hours of menial labor—washing cars, shining shoes, etc. In the picture at right some obliging fraternity lads contributed to the initiation of some sorority pledges. The girls didn't mind a bit, except that some of them are still curious over who kissed them during initiation.

A group of fraternity pledges smile prettily at the photographer as they await the call of the auctioneer at the annual Kappa Sig Slave Market.

The sorority pledges didn't get off too lightly. This pledge doesn't seem to appreciate the type face powder being applied by her big sisters Margaret Johnson and Ginger Nelson.

The Flabby Faculty Five took their first Jelly Bowl victory in four years February 18 with the 43 to 31 defeat of the Intramural All-Stars. In a preliminary game the women's faculty team beat the Girls' Intramural All-Stars 41-37.

Each year the campus religious organizations band together under the leadership of the Religious Council to sponsor Religious Emphasis Week at A&I. Dr. Robert Jones (center), pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Fort Worth, was guest speaker during the week-long program. (Picture at lower left). He is flanked by Dr. E. H. Poteet and students Jack Heacock and Jack Pressley who had a part in planning the observance.

Hussein Usayran gets acquainted with Tooran Pirayech, new arrival on the campus. Miss Pirayech is from Iran and Hussein is from Lebanon. Tooran, who lived a sheltered life in Iran, is dating now for the first time in her life.

The A&I A Cappella Choir was scheduled to go on tour. A rare South Texas rain, a ditch, and a short backing space were too much for the driver. The choir was two hours late in starting its tour.

STUDENT LIFE

At upper left Pat Redford, Nancy Atteberry, Vere Wilson, Mary Ann Lovel, and Dick Stone rehearse a scene for "The Silver Whistle," A&I's first theater-in-the-round production. The action of the play takes place in the garden of an old folks' home in a very poor parish. Mary Ann, who is being helped onto the back of the wheel chair, plays the part of a gay old maid who manages to stay pleasantly "high" throughout the entire play.

In the scene at upper right is Kirk Dahlberg, playing the role of a pompous tramp who strolls into the parish yard and turns it into a garden of Eden.

The tramp is overcome by an old weakness and the sound of his voice. He proposes.

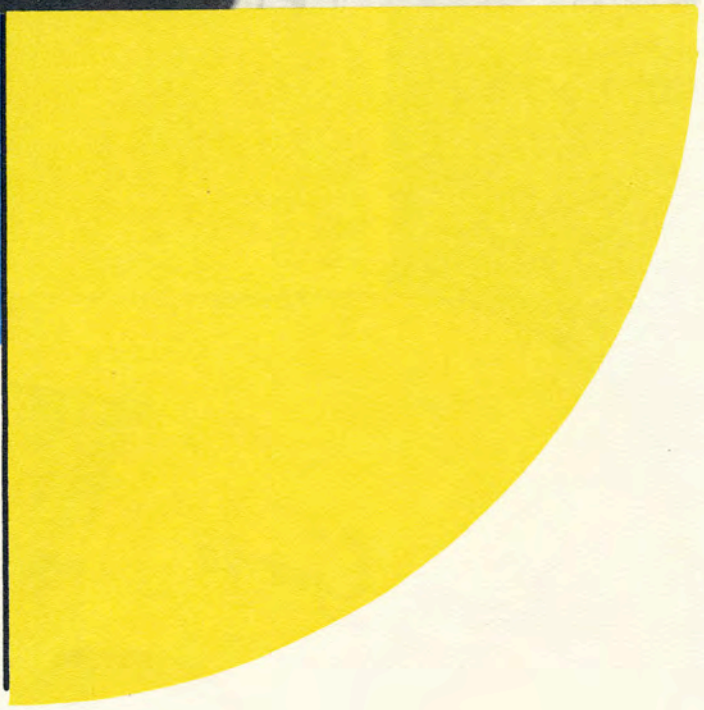

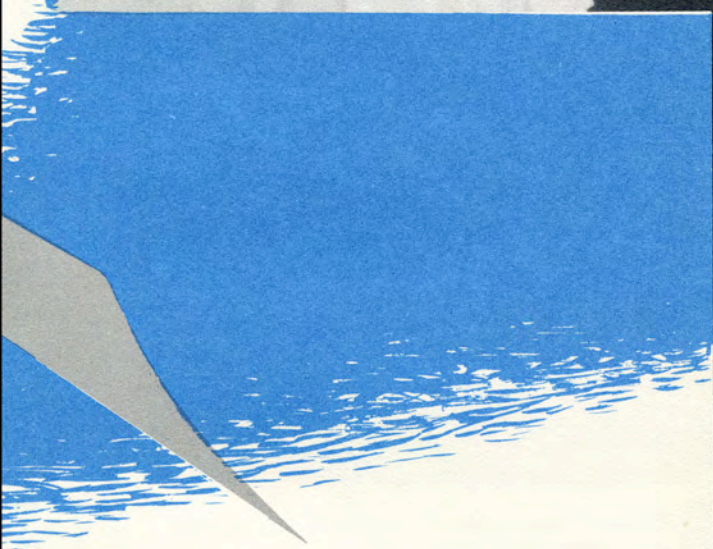

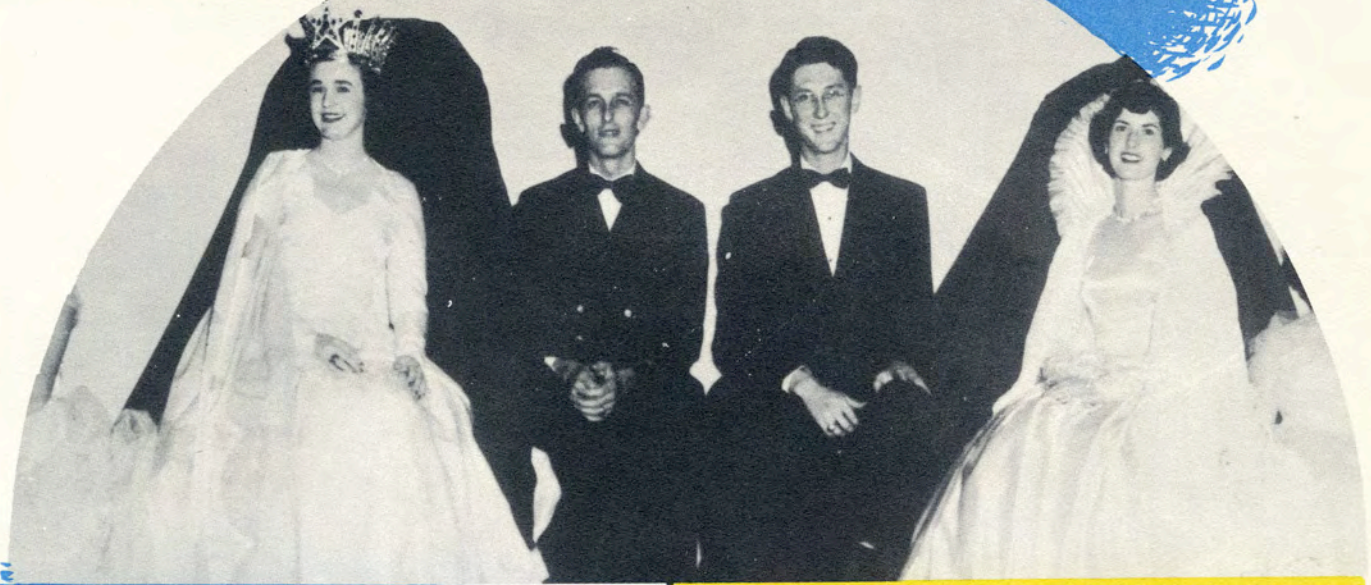

The tramp holds skull practice with the church wardens before their church bazaar, which features such attractions as bingo, an old fashioned shell game, plus refreshments.

Here is a story of sports at A&I
First about the spirit of football, then
The year's record in review

SPORTS

FOOTBALL

It's Saturday night. Javelina Stadium stands starkly silhouetted beneath the glare of the floodlights. A cool breeze from the north kicks up a light haze of dust as the Hogs and the opposing team warm up for the night's encounter. A hush fills the air as five thousand excited football fans await the kick-off. Smooth the wrinkle out of the blanket you are sitting on, get a firm grip on your date's hand, and you're ready for an evening of King Football.

SPORTS

The game has gone into the second half. The first string center lies injured on the sidelines. The Javelinas are seven points behind and the visiting gridsters are driving for another score. Down on the Javelina bench Coach Mayhew drags on a cigarette as he scans the opponents' offensive for a clue to a home team victory. Assistant Coach Ranspot checks with spotters high in the stands as a battle plan is formed.

"Cover that left flat, he's slipping behind you again!" It's a tense moment for the Hoas. On the sidelines members of the offensive platoon shout advice and encouragement to their team mates.

SPORTS

Early in the fourth quarter the Hogs tie up the score. A few minutes later they take the offensive again, sending Reggie West crashing over for 15 yards. Then Fink scoots back for a pass. Norman Smith takes it in the end zone for another Javelina score.

The ball is placed on the two. The teams line up. The ball is snapped. The kick goes high up over the uprights. It's good! Five thousand people in the stands send up a throaty roar. The band joins the clamor with a few quick bars of the Javelina "Fight Song."

SPORTS

In the last few minutes of play the visiting team throws caution to the winds and plays a game of wide open football in a desperate attempt to even the score before the official's gun closes another chapter in A&I football history. Folks in the stands have a worried moment as the opponents drive deep in Javelina territory.

Then the game is over. The Hog gridsters, tired but happy, head for the dressing rooms and the crowd pours out of the stands into the hundreds of cars gathered outside the stadium. Another game has been won.

SPORTS

The whole spirit of football doesn't rest just in the team. It lies in the hearts of the cheerleaders, in the students, in the good sportsmanship and friendly competition between schools.

At left in an informal moment are the A&I cheerleaders. At the top are Ginger Nelson and Pat Graham. In the middle are Harold Rucker and Ridgell Lindsey. At the bottom is Head Cheerleader Gerrie Brown.

Below a gathering of A&I and Trinity College students, hosts and guests for another grid encounter, meet informally before the Student Union Building. R. J. Cook at the microphone tells the visiting students what is in store for their pleasure that afternoon and what he hopes is in store for the Javelinas that evening.

SPORTS

Along with the bone-crushing jars and thrill of football, comes the pageantry. Here's where the girls take to the field in brilliant uniforms and add to the entertainment of the evening. At the right is Nancy Lou Shindler, drum major of the A&I Band.

Bobcats Prove Too Much For Javelina Defense

For the third straight year the Southwest Texas Bobcats crammed the bitter pill of defeat down the throats of the Javelinas. A&I stood up to the onslaught for three quarters and then weakened to lose 41-12.

The turning point of the game came in the scoreless third period when A&I fumbled twice inside the Bobcat 15-yard line after long drives. At the beginning of the fourth period the Bobcats capitalized on a roughness penalty and went over for a TD from the A&I one yard line. The Bobcats were unstoppable after that.

Despite the one-sided score, it was Javelina Fullback Reggie West that turned in the best performance of the evening. West averaged over 8 yards per carry in 27 trips through the line for a total of 266 yards.

The Bobcats scored first on a 15-yard run by Pence Dacus, quarterback. Their try for extra point failed. On the first play from scrimmage Reggie West answered for A&I with a 65-yard scamper up the middle.

On the third play after A&I kicked-off to the Bobcats, Leo Chafin ran 57 yards to A&I's fourteen. Ed Schmeltekopf went over for the tally. Later in the first quarter A&I marked 67 yards and scored as Bob Holloway led the way over the goal for Jackie Fink.

In the final period Fritz Loeffler scored once and Chafin twice. The other Bobcat score came just before the half on a pass from Dacus to Schmeltekopf.

Javelinas Drop Opener To Lumberjacks

Despite a hard running game and a good passing attack, the Javelinas dropped a 14-12 thriller to the Lumberjacks of Stephen F. Austin in Nacogdoches.

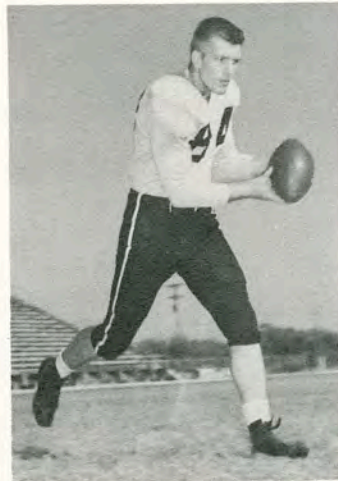

Offensively A&I was on par or better than SFA, but the Javelinas' defense failed to stop the Lumberjacks.

The entire difference between the two teams appeared to be that SFA had the ball 16 more plays than A&I.

A&I's three running backs, Joe Hollingsworth, Reggie West, and Jack Sportsman averaged over four yards per carry. Jackie Fink, quarterback, connected on seven out of thirteen passes for 69 yards.

The Javelinas took the lead early in the game. West drove over for the first TD of the season. The Lumberjacks answered the score with one of their own and went into the lead when their extra-point kick was good.

In the final period the Lumberjacks scored again to lead 14-6. In the closing minutes the Javelinas punched over for their last score to lose by a 2-point margin.

Fort Sam Houston Edges A&I 7-6

Despite a rejuvenated defense the Javelinas went down for the third straight time as they were edged 7-6 by Fort Sam Houston of San Antonio.

Things turned out much brighter for the Hogs than expected. A three-to-four touchdown underdog going into the game, the Javelinas kept the Rangers' star-studded backfield pretty well bottled up all evening.

SPORTS

Scoring started in the middle of the second quarter when the Hogs took over on the Fort Sam 47. Half a dozen plays later Jackie Fink passed to Brandt for the score. The extra-point try went wide.

Tiger tackler snuffs out a long run by little Al Yanez of A&I in the 41-32 scoring contest between A&I and Trinity. (Above)

A short time later the Javelinas fumbled on their own 32. The Hogs held for four downs on the one. A quick kick was blocked and the Rangers utilized the break for a TD two plays later. The extra point was good and that was the margin of their victory.

Al Lopez carries this time with Yanez leading interference in the same game. (Below)

Joe Hollingsworth (lower right) rips off another long gain against Sul Ross behind the interference of Bob Halloway.

A&I Loses Bout To Sam Houston 41-14

The Javelinas were passed dizzy at Huntsville as they chalked up their fourth loss in as many weeks. Riding on the arm of Donald Gottlob, the Bearcats of Sam Houston State took the Hogs behind the woodshed for a 41-14 trouncing.

Suffering injuries from previous games, the Hogs fielded a make-shift line. The Bearcats added to the toll and Jackie Fink wound up the game doing all the ball carrying and passing for the backfield.

The Javelinas took the kickoff after the fifth Bearcat touchdown in the third quarter and moved 69 yards for a TD. West carried and Al Lopez converted.

Fink passed to Norman Smith late in the fourth period for A&I's final score. Joe Couch set up the score on an interception and a 44-yard runback.

Mac Moore and Benny Boles led the Bearcat TD parade with two each. Larry Kiesling and Bill Nelson scored one each. Kiesling caught a pass for one extra point and Moore converted after four.

Trinity Tigers Down Hogs 41-32 in Wild Scoring Spree

In one of the wildest offensive exhibitions ever staged in Javelina Stadium, the Trinity Tigers out-scored the Javelinas 41-32.

The Tigers proved that they could move both on the ground and in the air. It was their air attack that proved fatal for the Hogs.

In the first half Alvin Beal, Tiger quarterback, passed 31 yards to Sam Sanchez, 30 yards to Fred Copps, and 55 yards to Tommy Majors for Trinity's first three touchdowns. Jack Lester added all three extra points.

Fink passed to William Putnam for six yards and A&I's first touchdown in the initial period. Al Lopez converted. In the second quarter Fink passed to Norman Smith for 30 yards and a second TD.

Second-half touchdowns scored by Trinity were by Sanchez and Charles Brown on passes and Beal on a four-yard run. Lester kicked two of the three extra points.

In the fourth quarter Fink scored twice on one-yard plunges and Smith scored on an 18-yard pass play. Lopez added one extra point.

A&I Downs Sul Ross Lobos 27-13 for First Victory

A&I's fighting Javelinas scored 20 points in the last quarter, coming from behind to down the Sul Ross Lobos 27-13 before A&I's Homecoming crowd.

The Javelina victory ended a five-game losing streak for the Hogs. The Hogs spotted the Lobos 13 points in the first quarter, but managed to get seven points back in the second period. After a scoreless third period, A&I ran wild.

It was quite an upset for the Lobos who had downed Sam Houston, which ran over A&I 41-14 earlier in the season.

Early in the game, after an exchange of punts, A&I fumbled on the Sul Ross 34-yard line. A pass resulted in a Lobo touchdown. The try for the point was wide.

In the second period the Hogs fumbled again, this time on their own 24. The Lobos scored easily with Bingham carrying and Ronnie Sizemore converting.

A&I took the kickoff on the 30 and started a drive that went for a TD with Reggie West carrying and Al Lopez converting. On the first play of the fourth period Joe Hollingsworth tied up the score and Lopez converted for a one-point lead.

West and Jack Sportsman carried for the other two A&I touchdowns. Lopez converted once more.

Wildcats Drub Javelinas In First Conference Game

The never-say-die Abilene Christian Wildcats came roaring back in the second half to run over the Javelinas 48-13 in Abilene.

A&I scored first when Reggie West climaxed an 82-yard drive with a TD. Al Lopez converted.

ACC started a drive, but the Hogs stalled them on the five-yard line early in the second quarter. A punt into the wind by Jack Sportsman went out on the 32. The Wildcats took the ball from there and went over to score. A&I led 7-6 at halftime.

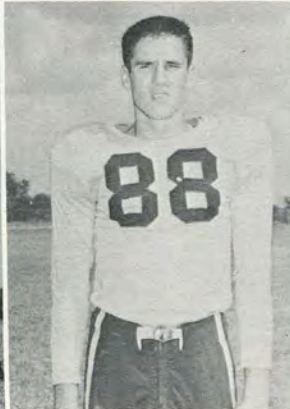

On the second play of the second half the Hogs added one more score with Joe Hollingsworth carrying the package 66 yards around end. West made the TD from the ten in two tries.

From then on it was ACC's game. Two fumbles on the A&I 15-yard line handed the Wildcats two touchdowns. A third A&I fumble on the 26 set up another ACC score and ended scoring in the third period. The Wildcats added 14 more points in the final period.

Norman Smith, lanky Javelina end, shoves aside a would-be McMurry tackler and picks up a sizeable gain for the Hogs.

A&I Tops Howard Payne For First Conference Win

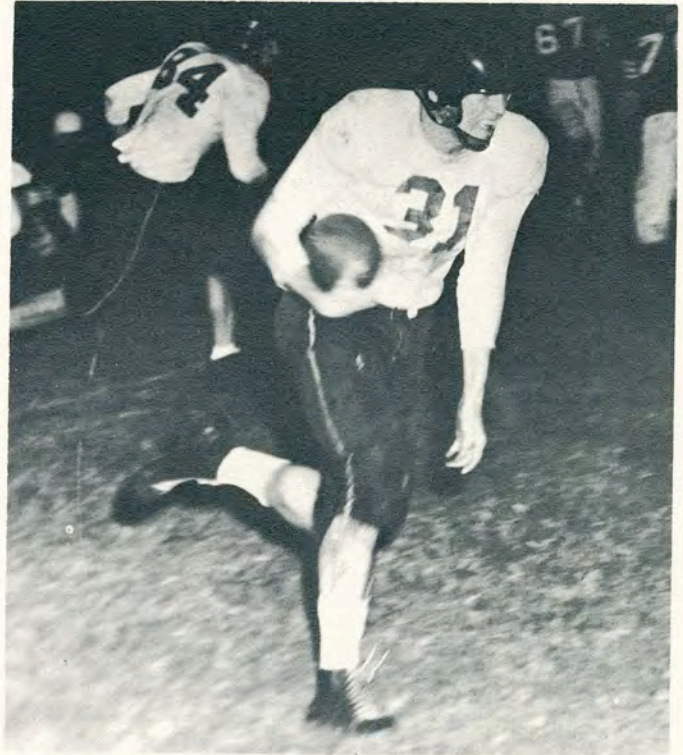

The Javelinas scored 14 points in the second quarter, then held the Howard Payne Yellow Jackets to seven points to chalk up their first conference victory of the year.

A&I put together two 60-yard drives in the early stages of the second period and spent the rest of the evening protecting the lead.

Reggie West was the leading ground gainer of the game, besting Howard Payne's Melvin Lindsey for the total offense lead in the conference.

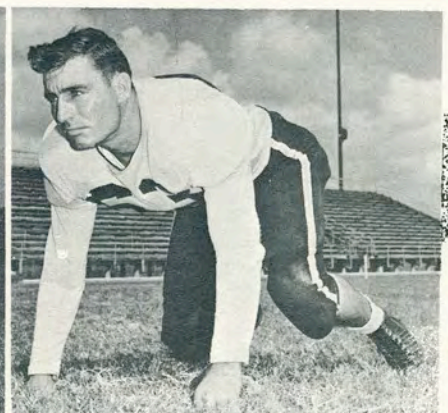

A&I's first score came after a series of short gains with West carrying over from the one and Al Lopez converting. Shortly thereafter the Hogs took a punt return and started a drive which tallied on Jackie Fink's bootleg play from 30 yards out.

Ben Sudderth scored the only touchdown for the Yellow Jackets. A penalty nullified an earlier attempt by Melvin White. The game ended with A&I on the Howard Payne 13.

Jackie Fink passed to Sportsman, who carried the ball over from 30 yards out for the first score for the Javelinas in the A&I-McMurry game. Final outcome was McMurray 21, A&I 20.

Kangaroos Surprise Hogs at Sherman

In a typical A&I-Austin College finish the Kangaroos edged the Javelinas 24-20 with a last-minute passing attack.

It was a wild game, marked by passing and penalties, and a disagreement between officials, players, and coaches over the keeping of time.

A&I had one touchdown called back and the officials stopped another Javelina well on the way for a score with no one near him.

The game started in quiet enough fashion. Two Austin College drives were stopped by the Javelinas deep in A&I territory.

The start of the second period was the signal for fireworks to begin. On the first play in the period the Hogs scored on a 49-yard pass from Fink to Robert Brandt.

After the kickoff the Kangaroos were forced to punt. Roland Beckworth received for A&I and ran to Austin's 14-yard line, fumbled, and Jack Sportsman recovered for the Hogs. Reggie West scored and Al Lopez converted.

Midway in the third period the Kangaroos sparked a 73-yard drive for a touchdown. Jerry Sims of Austin carried.

Austin scored again in the fourth period when Billy Bookout drove over from the twelve. A&I followed the tally with a score of their own, Sportsman carrying and Al Lopez converting.

Charles Bons of Austin scored on a 15-yard pass from Don Watson. The final tally came after a flurry of Austin College passes, a penalty, and the error in time keeping. Sims caught a five-yard pass from Watson for the score.

Joe Hollingsworth tries for the center of the line in the Howard Payne game as a horde of Yellow Jacket tacklers sweep in to end the play.

Last-Minute Touchdown Gives McMurry Victory

The McMurry Indians came from behind in the final minutes to down A&I 21-20 and claim second place in the Texas Conference.

McMurry took a 14 point lead in the first quarter, but the Javelinas came back to score once in each of the remaining periods. Al Lopez kicked the first two extra points, but Bill Sisson, McMurry tackle, stopped the third conversion.

With less than three minutes left in the game and A&I leading 20-14, Mickey Martin passed to Buddy Fornes for 41 yards and a McMurry TD. Phillip Conanway converted for the Indians.

The first Indian score came on a punt return by Hartwell Martin. The second came one minute later when Bob Loving intercepted a pass on the A&I 26 and went for the TD.

All of the Javelina scores came on passes. Jackie Fink passed to Sportsman for 30 yards and the first score. Sportsman scored the second on a 29 yard pass play. Norman Smith made the other tally from 44 yards out.

Javelinas Romp to Victory over Heroico Colegio Militar

The Javelinas wrapped up their 1952 grid season with a rousing 49-0 victory over Heroico Colegio Militar of Mexico at Harlingen in A&I's first International Bowl game.

The Hogs struck like lightning through the rain and mud and cold, but unlike lightning they struck often in the same spot. The team from the West Point of Mexico was completely outclassed and outweighed.

Sergio and Felipe Lopez Tello were co-captains of the ill-fated Eagle team from Heroico Colegio Militar. The game was played in the rain at Harlingen November 29.

Four and a half minutes deep in the game Jack Sportsman scored for A&I, and Al Lopez converted, the first of his seven extra-point completions. Sportsman and Lopez repeated for A&I a few minutes later. Half-time score was 35-0.

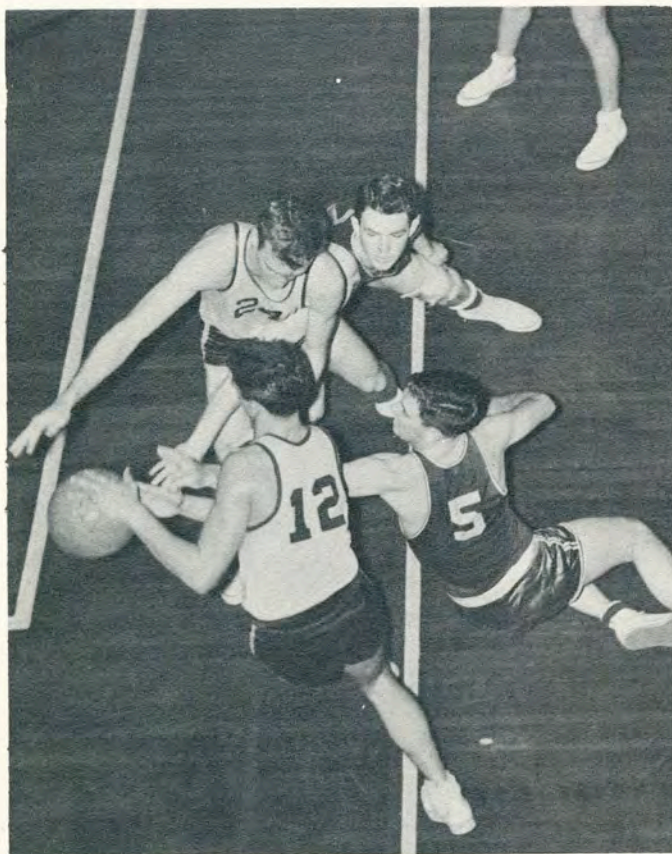

Other A&I scores came on a pass from Jackie Fink to Norman Smith, again on the same combination, a 24-yard run by Wesley Taylor, a 20-yard run by Joe Hollingsworth, and Fink to Sportsman for the final score.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

That the role of stagehand isn't all drudgery was shown by Yvonne McCarty, who was snapped by the photographer as she clowned backstage following the performance of "Romeo and Juliet" last fall. After the many weeks of work put into the production by the cast and stage crew, it is even doubtful that the Statue of Liberty would object to Yvonne's parody.

Lee Dismukes, garbed for the role of Benvolio in the Footlights Club production of "Romeo and Juliet," relaxes between scenes. Lee played this difficult role convincingly enough to fool her closest friends. In the picture to the right George Bogusch plays the dramatic death scene of Mercutio to the hilt. Dick Humes (Romeo) and Lee Dismukes (Benvolio) show their deepest concern for the death of their friend. The play opened to full houses each night of its three-day run, drawing bus loads of students from schools more than a hundred miles away, plus townspeople and the usual attendance of the A & I student body.
