Foreword

EL RANCHO, given the task of preserving the present's reflections as part of the future's heritage, presents the personality of the Alma Mater in portrayal of A&P's fortieth anniversary year.

A freshman and a senior see the college through different eyes; a professor and a student hold divergent views. The homecoming ceremonies, the all-campus elections, and final exams are but a few events which leave imperceptible but indelible impressions with us.

In this sense the students of the college are EL RANCHO—EL RANCHO is a composite of their lives through this time, 1964-65.

Though the college will change and the students move on, EL RANCHO will remain . . .

The Limit Of Existence
Is Taxed By Myriad Personalities

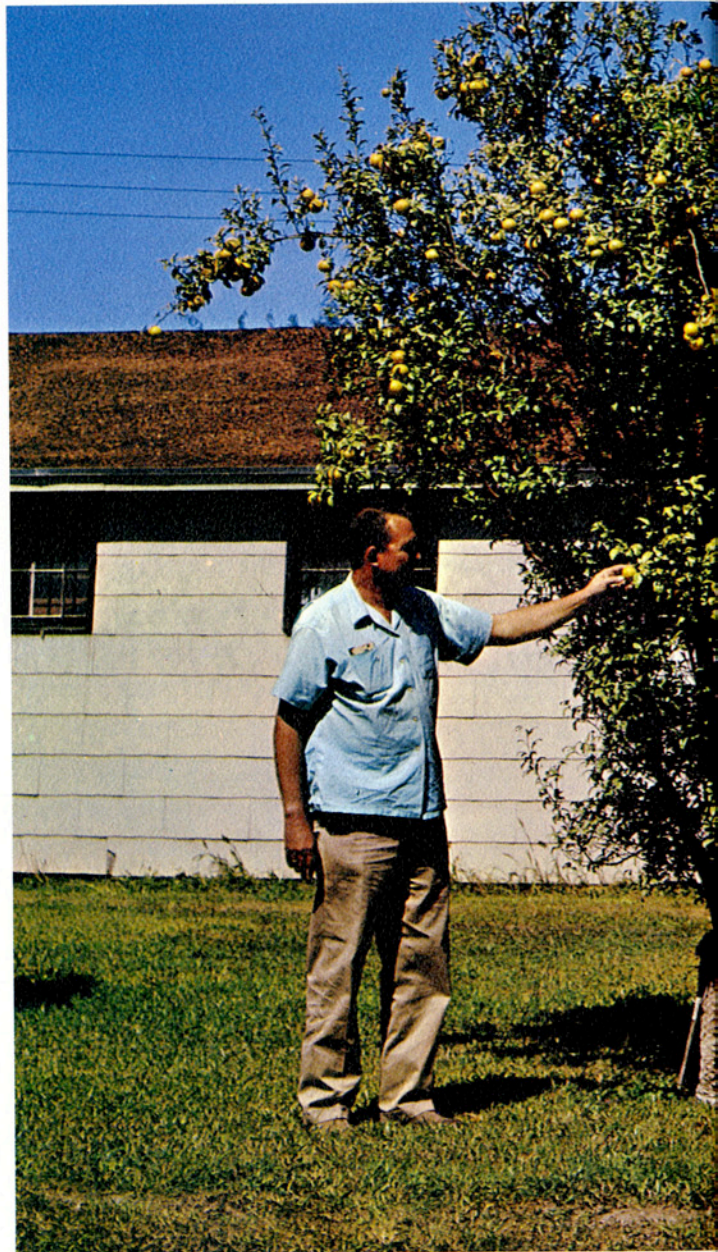

The environment which shapes our personality.

The atmosphere in which we grow during our college years is the campus. Physically it is land and buildings with some trees and expanses of lawn. In reality it is much more.

The classrooms house the memories of tests and profs. The library recalls the long hours of study and research for tests and papers. The gameroom where the six no-trump was made and the tennis court where the set was lost evoke laughter and tears.

The dormitories with too cold air conditioning and too warm heating, too loud parties and too hard beds are an important part of our college experiences.

All of these and, of course, many more are part of the effect the campus has had on our lives.

The Campus

The Main Building of the Center contains a library, auditorium, laboratories and classrooms.

Texas A&I's Citrus Center

Texas A&I Citrus Center at Weslaco is a branch of the college which was started in 1947. The Citrus Center has grown to 150 acres of land.

Dr. Richard A. Hensz, director of the Center, Dr. Robert F. Leyden, assistant professor of agriculture, and Rex B. Reinking, instructor of agriculture, operate the farm with the assistance of two research technicians, a farm manager, a nurseryman, and nine laborers.

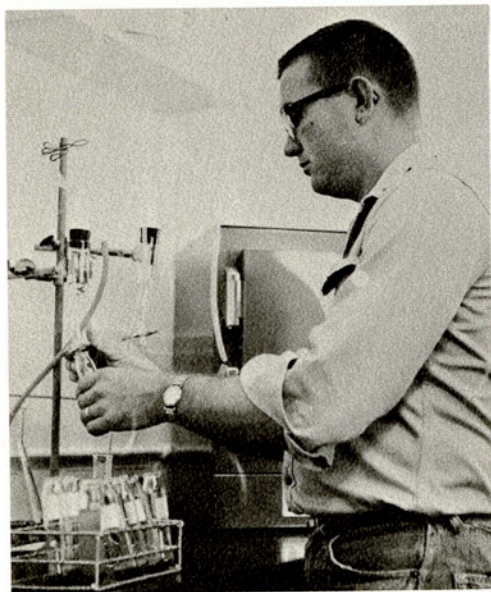

The Center had an enrollment of 23 students during the fall semester. Many of these were farmers from the area who wanted to study the latest methods of growing citrus fruits.

An experimental center for Valley farmers, the Center produces ruby-red grapefruit, oranges, lemons, and limes.

The farm is divided into blocks where experiments can be carried on by controlled methods. Chemical weed control, first introduced into the Valley by the Citrus Center, has been tested and developed in these controlled blocks.

Major problems for the Center are freezing weather and lack of water. Citrus trees are delicate and need more attention and care than most species. The trees must be irrigated with water brought from nearby Falcon Dam. Wind machines, temperature gauges, and smudge pots are situated about the 150 acres to prevent freezing.

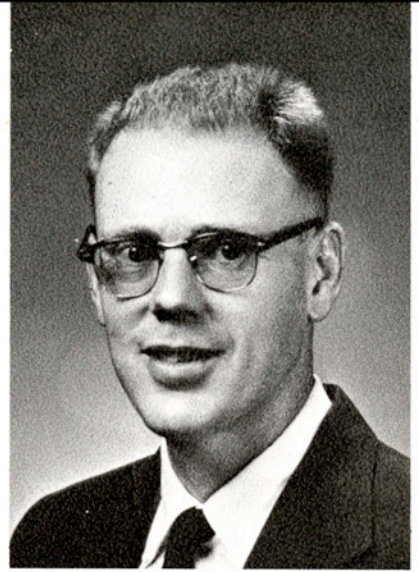

The purpose of the farm is to produce better citrus trees, find ways to help the citrus growers of Texas, and train young men in citrus growing.

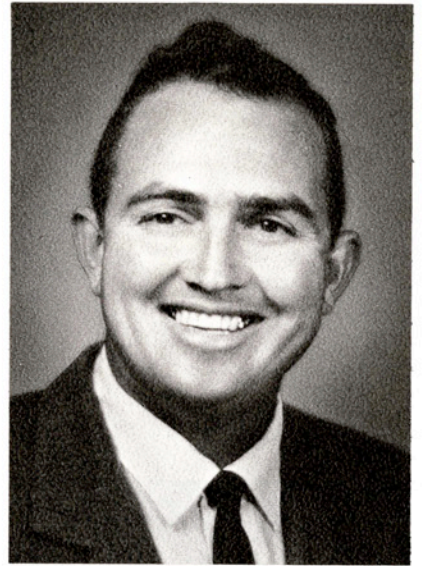

Technician Joe La Duke conducts a soil experiment in the agronomy lab.

Boys Dorms Are Home

Trying to live up to his New Year's resolution, this student makes an effort to study early for finals.

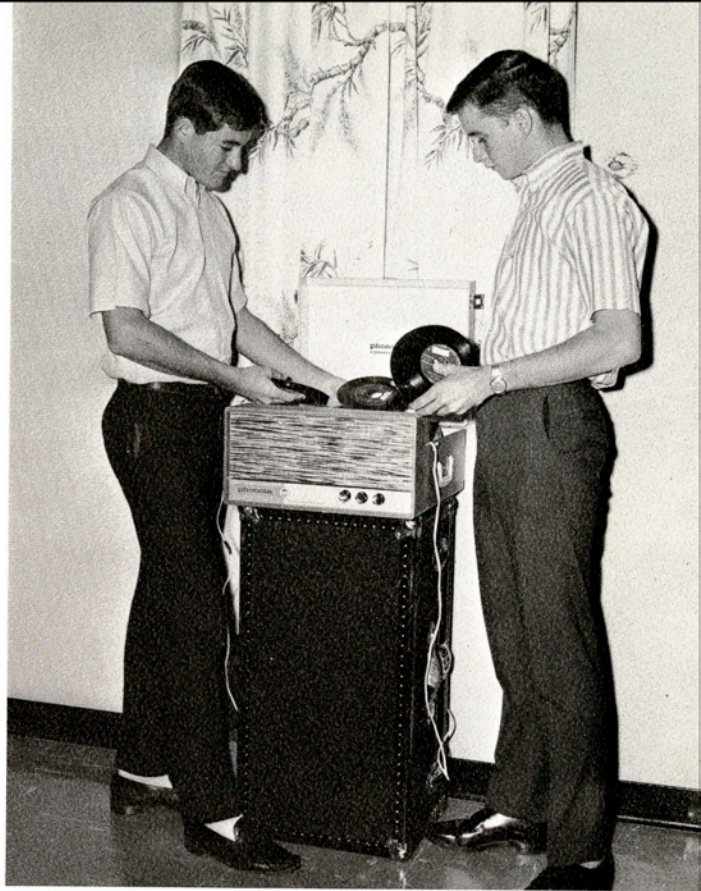

There are five men's residence halls on the A & I campus. Poteet, the newest of the men's dormitories, has a large cafeteria which accommodates the boys from Poteet Hall and the girls from Lynch Hall. The remaining boys eat in Loftin Hall.

All the men's residences have laundry facilities and kitchenettes. Several of the men's dormitories have lounges which provide TV's and reading material for the boys to use during their spare time.

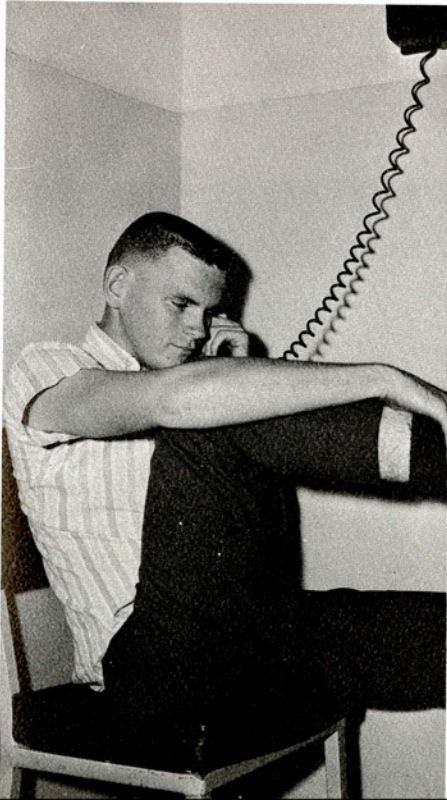

Each dorm has a dorm mother and at the beginning of the year a council is elected. This council gives assistance to the boys in the dorm. It helps to control the noise, when necessary, and checks rooms once a week.

The dorm council sponsors the dorm parties at Christmas and in May, with the help of the cafeteria personnel. This council also gives disciplinary help to those students in need of supervision.

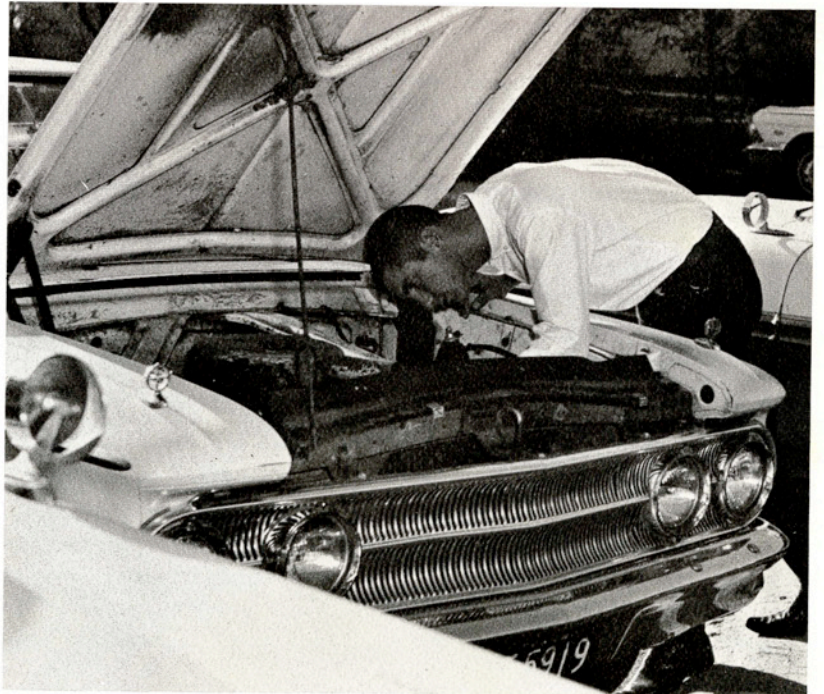

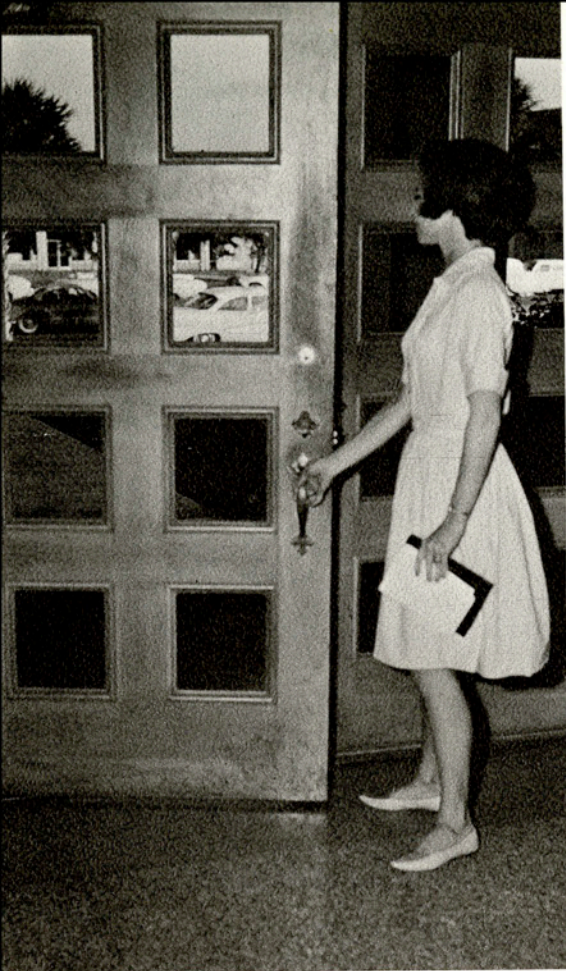

Dorm students abandon their studies to enjoy a few minutes of music.

This student talks to his girl friend on the dorm phone during his study break.

This student spends his leisure time working on his car when class is not being held.

Barbara Kennedy, Lewis Hall coed, leaves the dorm to begin her morning classes.

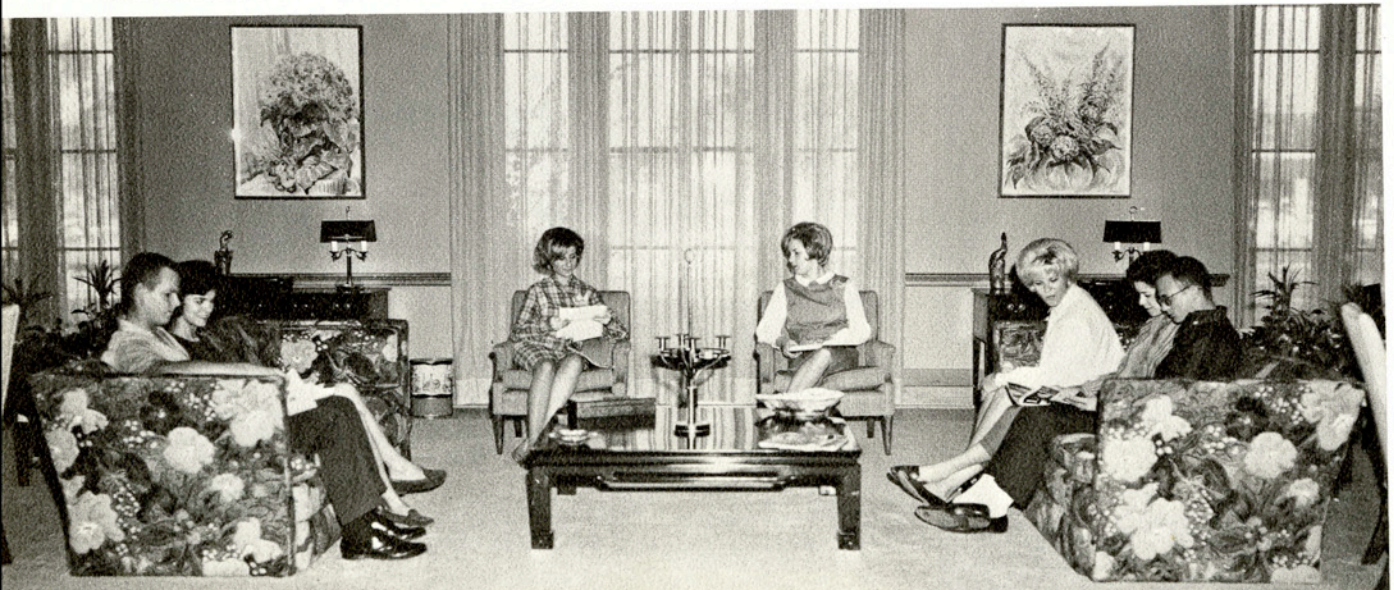

There are four girls' dormitories on the A&I campus. These dorms provide the coed with many luxuries and conveniences during her college career. Being a home away from home, the dorms help the student to adjust to campus life. Study rooms, lounges, and kitchenettes are just a few of the facilities contained in each building. Three of the dorms are air-conditioned and centrally heated.

A set of rules and regulations are furnished by the Association of Women Students. Approximately 500 girls live in these residence halls.

The dormitories provide several social activities each year. An annual picnic is held at the beginning of the fall semester. This is to help the girls become acquainted with others living in the dorms. There is also a Christmas party and open house sponsored by each dorm for its residents. These all contribute to the friendly and congenial atmosphere desirable in dorm life.

LIFE IN THE

The lounge in Lewis Hall is frequently visited by its residents. Cathie Boudreau and her date enjoy a quiet conversation, while Judy Bess, Peggy Goss, Jolene Wiggins, Mattie Pellegrino, and Harold Davis discuss the latest activities on campus.

The study room in Lynch Hall provides a quiet place of learning and concentration for J. C. Clark, Kay Connors, and Bill Kuester.

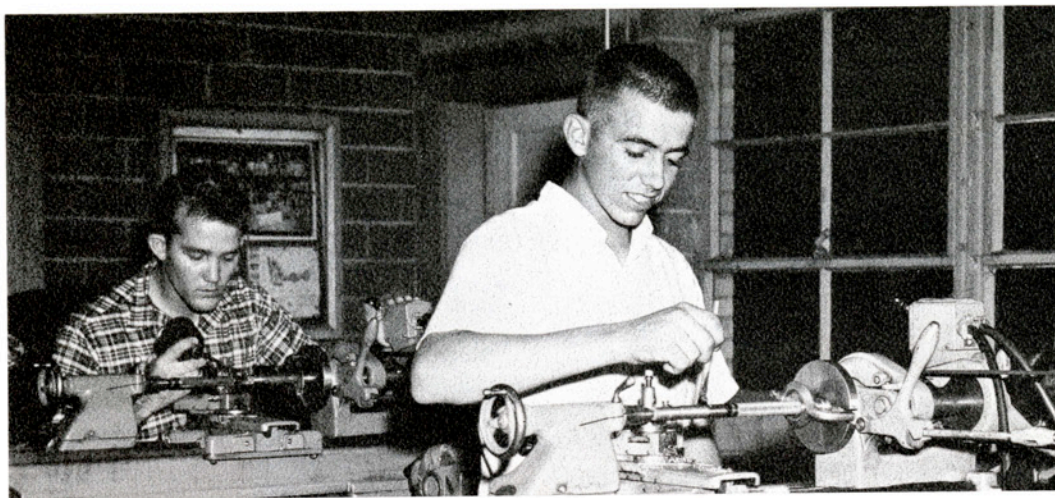

GIRLS' DORMS

Diane Dyess and Peggy Schulze of Eckhardt Hall are reminded by Joy Wharton to sign out properly before they leave the school campus.

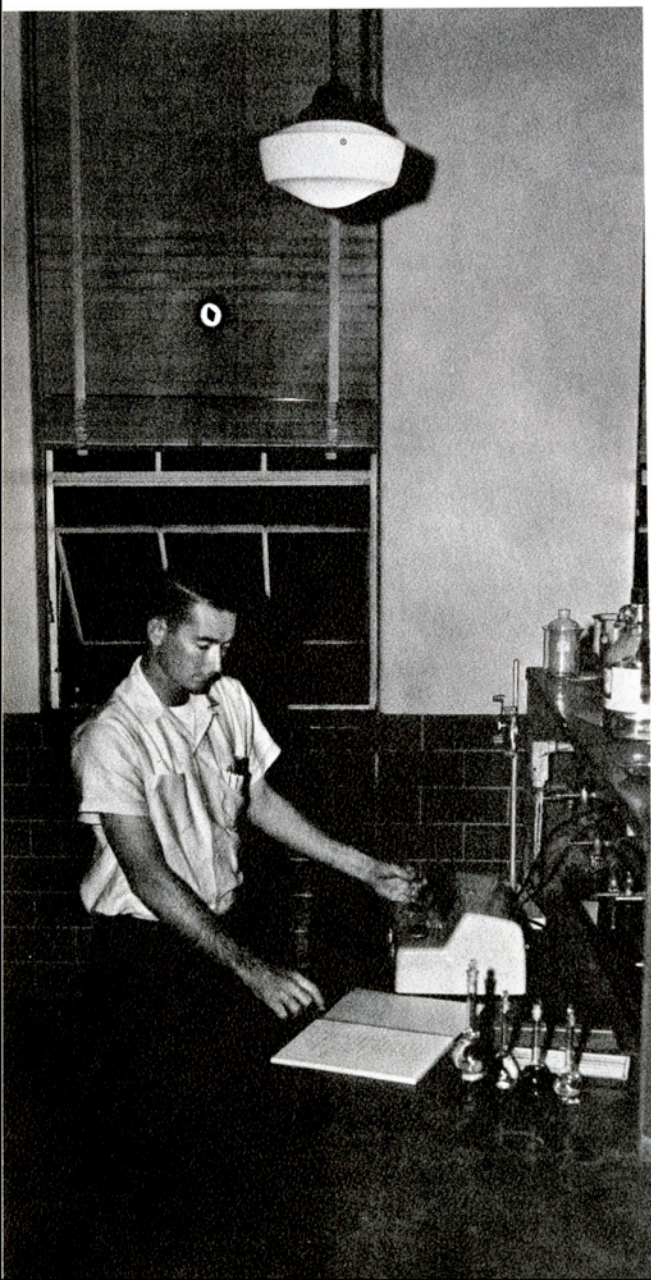

Docia Clement, Shirley Piepho, and Deanna Jervis of Cousins Hall prepare for the next day's work, while Darlene Anderson gets ready for a date.

Johnny Terry (r) and Bob Wells (l) work in the ag mechanics shop.

Chemistry major David Crawford performs an experiment for Chemistry 409.

A group of A&I students were sitting in the Tejas room one evening. Remarked one student, "I wish there was something to do on this campus! When the sun goes down, this place goes to sleep. Nothing happens around here at night."

"Tom's right," said another student. "Nothing goes on around here—unless you count football games, basketball games, church groups, discussion groups, free movies, club meetings, parties, and dances."

A co-ed chimed in, "There is even more than that happening. I've been over in the library working on a research paper and the place is crowded! Coming over here I met a couple of friends who told me they were headed for classes. They claim there are about 25 classes being taught at night, not counting the labs."

"Come to think of it," admitted Tom, who had started the whole discussion, "as I was coming over here tonight, I saw lights on in the science building. Somebody must be working in one of the chemistry or biology labs. I know people work in the darkroom most evenings during the week. And I could hear music coming from the music building, so I guess kids are over there practicing."

"Another concert is being given next Tuesday, so I guess the music majors are getting prepared," commented the coed.

"Well, gang, I've got to be going. I need to finish up a project in the Ag mechanics shop tonight!" said one of the boys as he stood up.

Watching his friends disappear into the evening, Tom shook his head. "There is a lot more going on around this college at night than I thought!"

A&I students study in the library for exams which come all too frequently.

Academic Life

Dr. James C. Jernigan

President

Spring, 1965

My Dear Students:

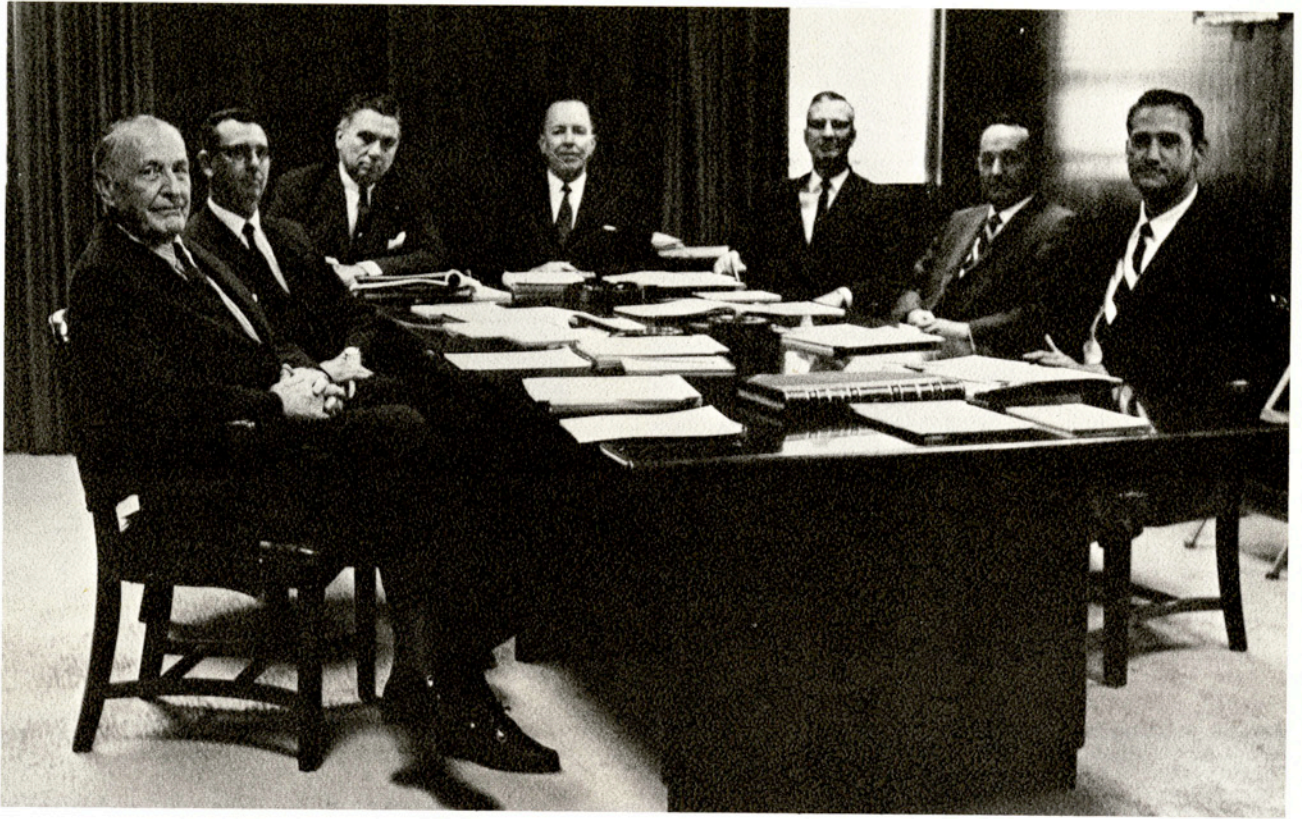

The 1965 EL RANCHO is a reference guide in pictorial review of inter-personal relationships that never become obsolete. For you freshmen this is your first of a four volume set; for you who are graduating this volume completes your reference set of what we hope have been vitally meaningful and far-reaching experiences that will lead to a full and productive life.

This annual is a documented reminder to you of many and varied activities and relationships which you have experienced. The most significant relationship is that between the professors and the students in order that all who enroll may learn and develop to the maximum extent of their capacities.

The success of this college can best be measured by the success of its graduates in taking their places in society and in fulfilling their responsibilities to mankind in a commendable manner.

Sincerely yours,

James C. Jernigan

And in the Beginning . . .

. . . there was turmoil, tears,
frustration, and long lines

A freshman nibbles her IBM cards while contemplating the state of the fall class schedule.

Registrar George McCulley's signature irons out a problem for a registering student.

The end of the line—registration is over when collegians part with papa's money or, even worse, the money they earned during the summer. Tuition remained at $50; Student Union, health, and lab fees run most students' final bill up to about $75.

In one of those numerous conflicts that haunt students, Dr. William J. Hall gives advice to three co-eds.

Juan Martinez, Industrial Arts student teacher, shows high school students Lupe Martinez and Joe Cone proper machine operation.

Glenda Garcia, Velma Garcia, and Peggy Williams take a home economics test under the supervision of student teacher Nancy Roberts.

Caroline Campbell teaches reading to Jeffery Huff, William Pitchford, Brenda Godfrey, Barbara Filla, and Yvonne Ferguson as her cooperating teacher, Mrs. Hank Wallner, and college supervisor, Mrs. Evelyn Herrington, look on.

Student Teaching Program

Students get a taste of their future careers when they participate in the student teaching program at Texas A&I.

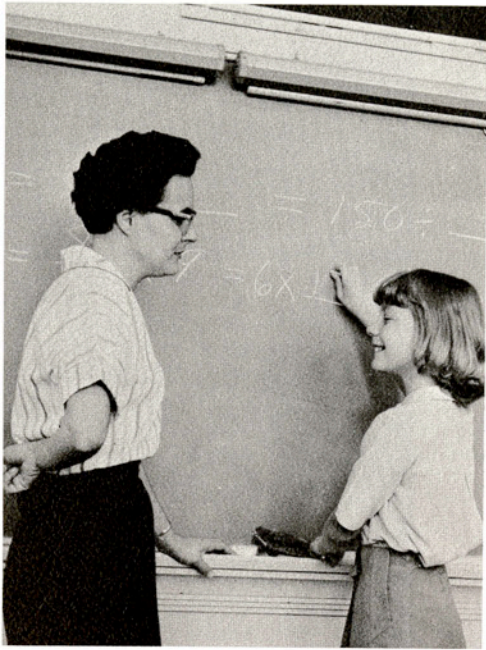

When students are assigned to a school, a classroom, and a teacher, they are expected to assume the responsibilities of a full-time teacher in every aspect.

Both the elementary and secondary programs are similar in that students devote 12 weeks or a full semester to student teaching.

Prior to student teaching, students on the elementary level take an education observation course which enables them to be in an actual classroom eight hours a week for a full semester. During this time they learn different teaching methods under different teachers and learn the value of understanding children.

In order for a student to qualify for student teaching, he must graduate within one year of student teaching, maintain a 2.25 overall grade point average in his teaching fields, and be able to pass the teacher aptitude and speech tests, plus a physical exam.

Dr. R. H. Reifschneider is chairman of the department of education. The colleges' elementary education supervisors are Dr. Lewis Fisher, Dr. Camp Gilliam and Mrs. Evelyn Herrington. The secondary supervisors are Dr. W. W. Aldrich, Dr. Billy Cowart, Dr. F. W. Cokendolpher and Mr. Paul Bryant.

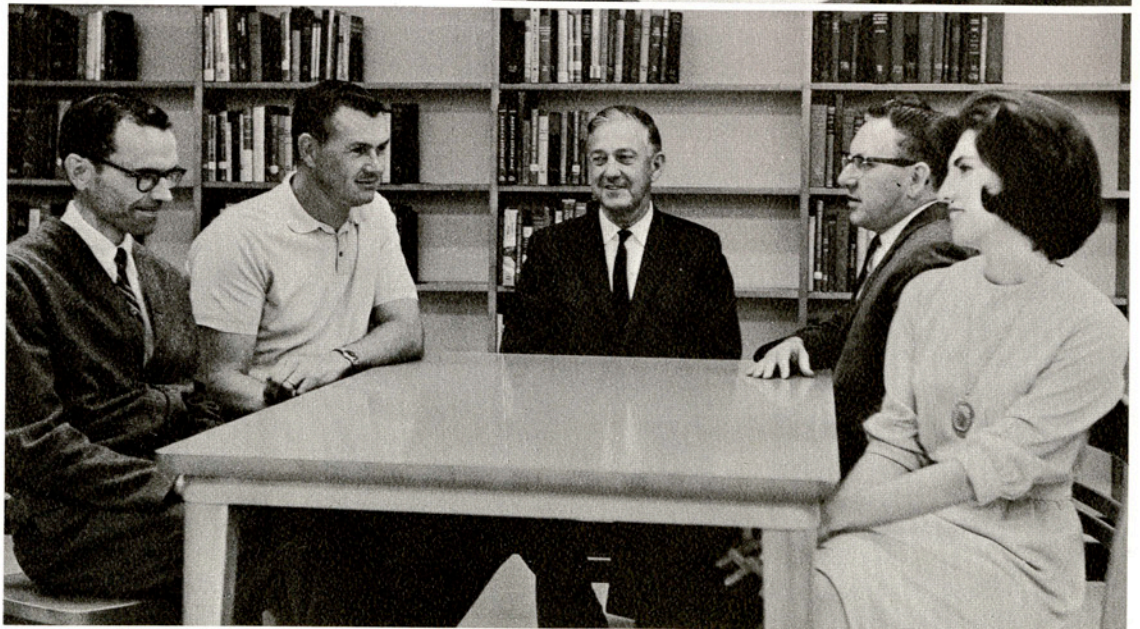

Jan Beyer looks at Dorothy Hopkins, her student teacher, to see if she is writing the correct answer.

Ted May works diligently on a piece of leather while Douglas Dusek, student teacher, watches carefully.

Journalism student teacher Lucy Zamora helps Carolyn Peck, Doris Clark, and Tommy Nelms with the school paper.

Dr. Billy Cowart, college supervisor; Bill Denman, cooperating teacher; John S. Gillett, Kingsville School Superintendent; Paul

F. Jones, principal of H. M. King High School, and Mary Lee Woodson, student teacher, have a conference on teaching methods.

Sandra Simmons puts away the week's provisions after a shopping trip.

Perhaps a lesser known facet of education at Texas A&I College is the home economics management house, located on the campus just southwest of Nierman Science Hall.

Four coeds live in the house at a time, with a faculty advisor, for half semester periods, just as though they were homemakers. The young ladies learn to manage time, energy, and money, which are related to all aspects of operating a home. Activities are rotated and are divided into four sections.

The food manager buys food, plans menus, takes care of food storage, and prepares meals. Duties of the assistant food manager involve setting the table, keeping table linens clean, helping with dish washing, and other tasks.

Another coed serves on the rotation basis as hostess. She receives guests, extends invitations, receives messages, and makes sure that the house is ready for guests. The fourth girl serves as assistant hostess. Her responsibilities involve keeping the bedrooms, halls, and bath in order, and assisting the hostess.

The faculty advisor assists in evaluating the girls' progress while they are living in the home management house. Group meetings are held regularly once each week, and others are called when needed.

Each coed who stays in the home management house deposits $60 at the business office, and this amount of money is drawn upon to meet the expenses of running the household. There is also a residence fee for these students of $29.

All girls who stay in the house are upperclassmen—most are seniors, although there are a few juniors from time to time. Everyone must have completed prerequisite courses before they can live in the home management house, such as food and nutrition courses. This program is part of credit work offered by Texas A&I College for graduation and certification.

Studying really isn't so bad. Becoming better acquainted with their textbooks are (left to right) Cecelia Mircovich, Iris Kalich, Sandra Simmons, and Sharlot Shelton.

Sharlot Shelton ponders the nutritional needs of the coeds living in the home management house as she makes up the menu for the next seven days.

Iris Kalich prepares supper after spending the day in class.

Home Management House Is a Chapter Out of Life

Preparing to eat are Sharlot Shelton, Miss Faye Hattox, Cecelia Mircovich, Iris Kalich, and Sandra Simmons.

Cleaning up the living room of the home management house is a breeze for Iris Kalich.

Learning by Doing

... in the Nursery School

Nancy Cavazos receives anxious attention as she teaches about turtles.

The best way to learn to care for small children is to be in charge of them. Learn by experience. This is the theory that the Texas A&I College Nursery School applies.

Home Economics 425 requires that the students spend four laboratory hours each week in the Nursery. This course is a requirement for home economics majors and is an elective for elementary education majors.

Mrs. Carrol Rainbolt supervises the school. The lecture classes are held twice a week by Mrs. Johnnie Mae Haun, Nursery School director.

The two through four-year-old children learn to play together, to eat a variety of foods—especially green vegetables—and to listen to and remember simple lessons presented by the college students. They attend school from 9:30 a.m. to 12:50 p.m. There is a $30 monthly fee for each youngster.

Gloria Saenz encourages Susie Muammer, Karen Kaufman, and Pattie Goff as they form clay animals.

Robin Wood, Bee Jay Beal, and Dale Davis find team work useful in filling their box with sand.

Nancy Cavazos approves the clean-up job which Bee Jay Beal, Cathy Landers, and Tres Palmer have undertaken.

Mary Blackwell helps Sheryl Nix spread out a mat so that she can rest like Amy Morris.

A&I's Singing Ambassadors

Singers visit with nylon factory workers after the show in Atsugi, Japan. The Japanese girls screamed in delight and tried to mob the performers after the show.

Performing in a People to People show in Atsugi, Japan, the A&I Singers rendered their American-styled program with enthusiasm. The Singers gave the show in a nylon factory.

Members of the touring A&I Singers were Bill Jones, Milton Pullen, Carol Holmes, Butch Broom, Maureen O'Brien, Joe Gomez, Judy Martin, Tara Hagen, Suzanne Gordon, Mary Cano, J. E. Honeycutt, George Montemayor, Irma Montemayor, and Allen Gordon.

The 14 members of the A&I Singers sang, danced, and clowned their way through the Far East for eight weeks during the Fall Semester. The group was one of 20 sponsored by the United Service Organization and the National Music Council.

The group, under the direction of Dr. Lawrence H. McQuerrey, boarded a Boeing 720 airliner in Corpus Christi on September 20. Their first stop was San Francisco. From there the group traveled in the Far East, performing in Guam, Hawaii, Okinawa, Korea, Taiwan, Japan, and the Philippines. They returned to Corpus Christi November 15.

As ambassadors to the Far East, the group performed six days each week. They entertained approximately 18,000 American soldiers and gave 48 shows. Crowds received them enthusiastically at every performance. "Hello Dolly," in which the Singers did comic dancing, seemed to be the favorite number of every audience.

The performances included both classical and popular music. Heading the shows were numbers such as "Mock Madrigal," "Balle de Gaita," "Tol' My Cap'n," "Poor Man Lazrus," "It's a Good Day," and "Moon River."

The group encountered a few difficulties along the way, however. While performing at Iwakuni Marine Base, George Montemayor split his trousers from the knee up during the "Tol' My Cap'n" dance. The show must go on—and it did. The Marines thought it was funny and after the number about three minutes were required to quiet the audience.

After a performance at a Atsugi, Japan, nylon factory, Joe Gomez met trouble. While boarding the bus, the women factory workers mobbed him. He managed to board the bus, but only for a little while. The girls pulled him halfway out the window before the group could save him. George, meantime, was surrounded by screaming girls in a low-fenced yard. He finally managed to escape by jumping the fence and running to the bus.

Although halfway around the world from Kingsville, the troop met many Texans, some whom had attended A&I, and "bumped into" people they had previously known. While in Seoul, Korea, Dr. McQuerrey met two friends from the Philippine guerrilla period of World War II.

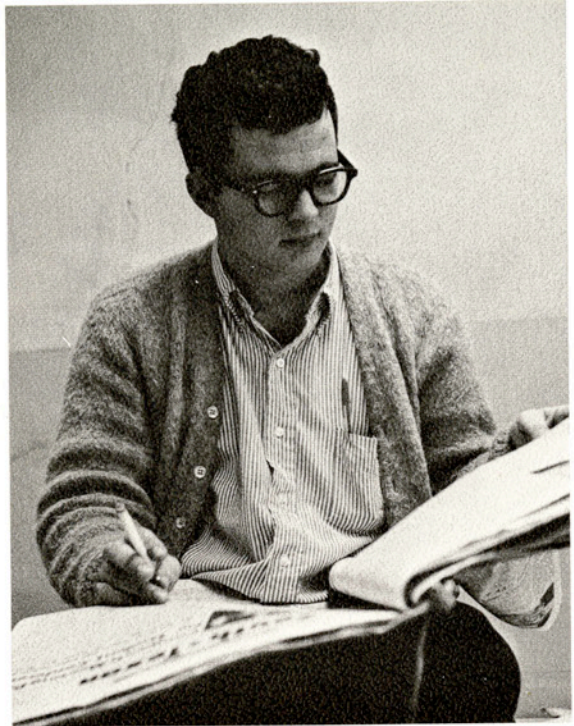

This was the second tour of military installations for the Singers. Tara McQuerrey Hagen is the only member of the group who toured the European military bases for six weeks in 1960. The Singers are the only college group in Texas to be asked to tour twice.

After their arrival at Corpus Christi International Airport, Dr. McQuerrey and the A&I Singers presented President James C. Jernigan and Dr. Preston Stedman, chairman of Fine Arts, with Japanese smoking jackets.

Queen Carole Meyer

The Queen with her Ladies-in-Waiting, Gloria Carlstrom and Franci Meyer.

Lantana 1965

This year's Lantana Coronation celebration, the thirty-sixth in A&I's history, was held April 2 and 3 at 7:30 p.m. in Jones Auditorium. Here the college's favorite co-eds were presented to the public as Lantana Queen and Lantana Ladies.

In the Friday night event 82 high school seniors, representing South Texas area schools, were presented to the Lantana Court. Many of these future college students competed for the 15 scholarships of $100 each that are offered during the Lantana festivities.

Saturday night saw the presentation of the college duchesses, representing A&I clubs and organizations, to the Lantana Court. The evening was climaxed with the Coronation Ball, which was held in the Student Union.

Entertainment was provided by music and speech students during the two-day event in a program called "The Best of Broadway."

Royal scene: John Howe, the Queen's escort, Lady-in-Waiting Franci Meyer, Queen Carole Meyer, Queen Regent Madis Smith, Lady-in-Waiting Gloria Carlstrom, and Woodie Hagan, the Queen Regent's escort.

South Pacific's "There Is Nothing Like a Dame" was sung by Doug Barr, Jeff Pope, John Finley, and the A&I Concert Choir.

The Best of Broadway

. . . . a chance for college speech and music students to perform scenes from "South Pacific," "Hello, Dolly!" "Oklahoma!" "The King and I," "Sound of Music," "Me and Juliet," "The Glass Menagerie," "Green Pastures," "The Importance of Being Earnest," and "Cyrano de Bergerac."

What's Happening Off Campus

Mario Mena gets ready for an afternoon of golf at the Country Club.

Eddie Cain concentrates on making a strike.

"I study all the time," is the tale most A&I students tell their parents. But these photographs caught some of the "Hoggies" off-guard to prove differently. Many students also complain that there is nothing to do in Kingsville, but this statement is disproved.

After a busy class day many students find time to relax at one of the two popular drive-ins located near the campus to plan for the future—that night, that is.

Included in the plans might be going to one of the latest movies at a Kingsville theater. For exercise or a little friendly competition, bowling at the nearby bowling lanes or shooting a few holes of golf at the Country Club provide variety from the daily routine. Kleberg Park entertains some students. Picnic facilities and playground equipment are available here.

Good grooming is a necessity for a night on the town. Kingsville merchants have a wide selection of fashions for the fashion-conscious college student.

And after the fun is all over, don't forget the work. Clothes must be washed to get ready for class (what's that?) or so the fun can begin again. Kingsville provides several washaterias for this purpose.

After the fun is over, students rush back to their rooms with looks ranging from the starry-eyed to the glassy-eyed, and scream at their roommates, "Why did you let me go out? You knew I had to study!"

Nobody wants to play with me!

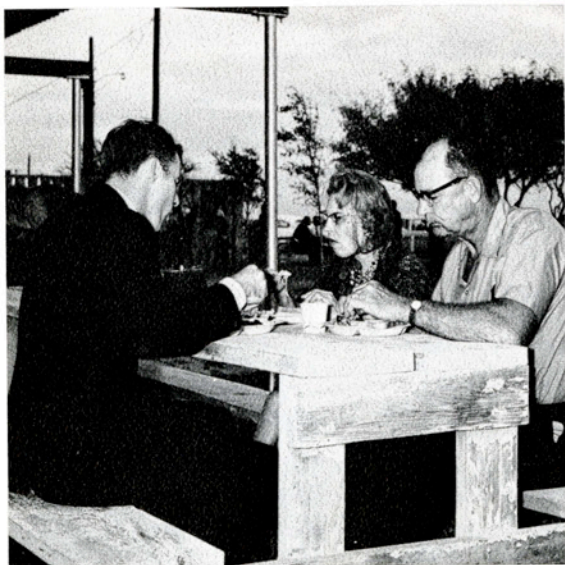

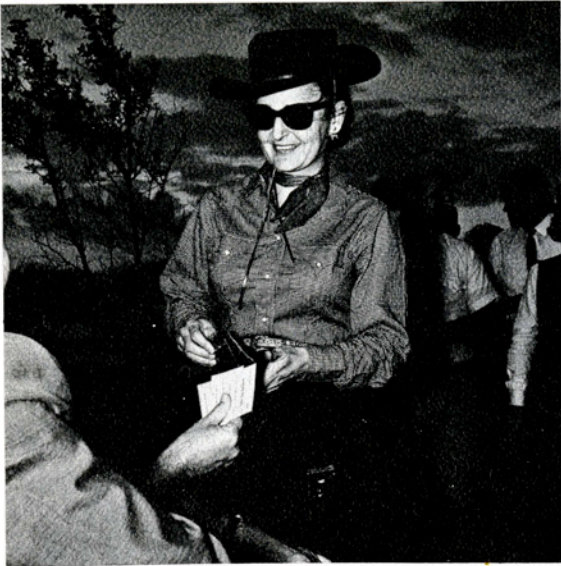

Marilyn Eschberger selects a new dress for a night on the town.

Marie Barrow and Deanie Speer prepare to "take off" from Kleberg Park.

It is washday for Robin Brown and Bob Milsom.

Head Cheerleader Penny Wheeler leads a crowd of 11,500 in yells at the football game. This was the largest crowd in the history of Javelina Stadium.

Especially

Nearly 1,100 dads of Texas A&I students attended the 10th annual Dad's Day celebration Saturday, November 14, 1964. Dads from all parts of the United States visited the college and attended the various events planned especially for them.

The day's activities included a musical variety show in the Little Theater, tours and exhibits, including a tour of the campus and the famed King Ranch. A rodeo sponsored by the Aggie Club was held in the afternoon, followed by a barbecue at Kleberg Park.

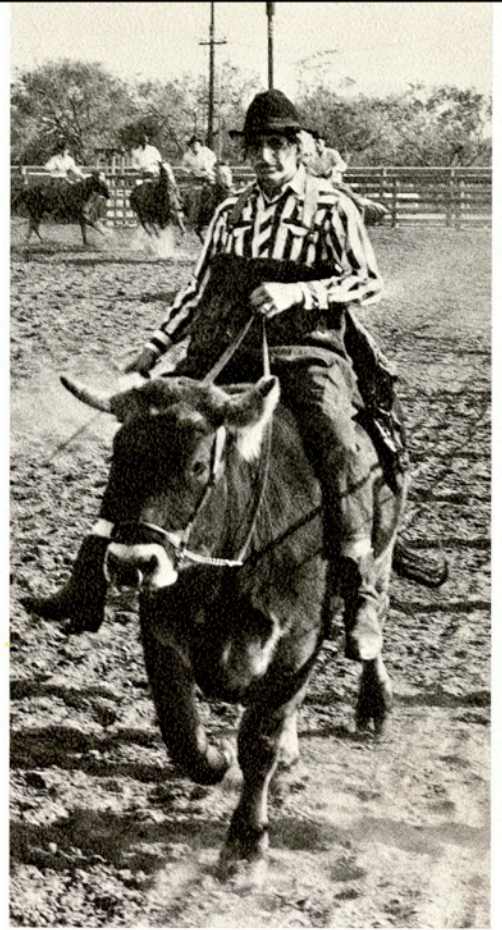

After a busy day more than 10,000 fans crowded into Javelina Stadium to witness the Lone Star Conference championship battle between the Javelinas and the Sam Houston Bearkats. A&I was defeated by a score of 21-16, to bring the record between the schools to 5-5-1. Halftime activities honoring the dads included performances by the Javelina Marching Band, the Kings Rifles, and special awards to Dad's

The Oldest Dad award was given to Matt A. Pellegrino, father of Madeline Pellegrino of Corpus Christi. E. H. McIntosh, Jr., of Markham claimed the Youngest Dad award. His son is Walter M. Smith. Traveling 2,500 miles to visit his son, Terry N. Markham, Norman E. Markham of Phippsburg, Maine, claimed the award for coming the farthest distance.

The Javelinas lost to Sam Houston State 16-21 in the football game which climaxed a busy day.

For Dads

Terry Bowen, president of the Rodeo Club, was a clown during the afternoon event.

The Dad's Day Rodeo was an all A&I event with students in the Rodeo Club sponsoring it and participating in the events. Over 800 people attended the rodeo, which was held in Kleberg Park.

A coed tells Santa Claus what she wants for Christmas.

"Happy New Year" is displayed on a door in Lewis Hall.

Christmas holidays are always anticipated by A&I students. Not only is it the time for semester vacation, but it means many parties and festive events. Girls' dorms held open houses for fellow students and faculty, a party for faculty children was held in the SUB ballroom, the Spanish Club participated in a posada, Chi Omega sorority held a bazaar and everyone celebrated the holidays in one way or the other. As usual, the Christmas tree in the SUB ballroom was the largest in Kingsville. All clubs and organizations that had their parties in the SUB were able to enjoy the beauty it gave the campus during the Christmas season.

A guest registers at Lewis Hall's open house.

Home economics students held a Christmas tea.

Christmas
At A&I

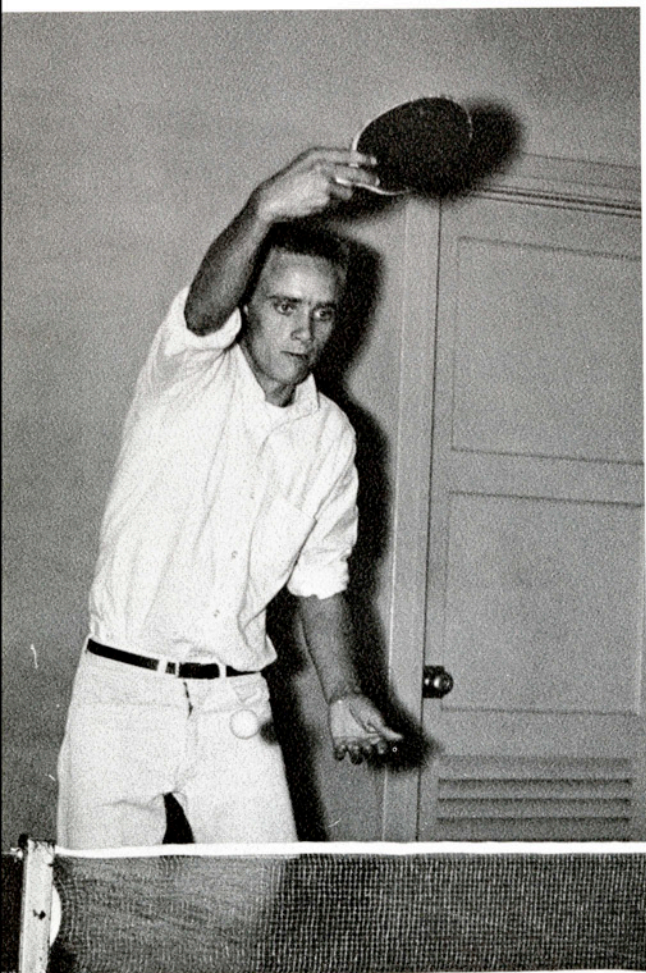

An intellectually stimulating (?) conversation in the Tejas Room makes happy collegians.

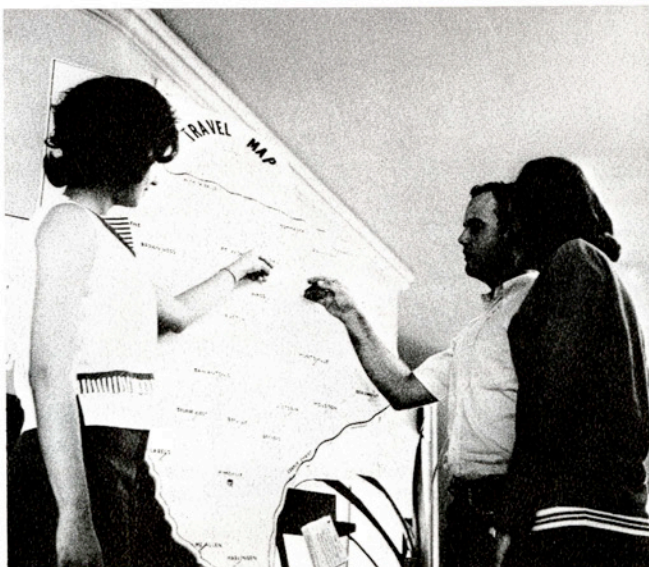

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, meets in a second-floor SUB room.

The Chuck McKinley of the A&I table tennis set slams out a return.

The SUB . . .

The travel map located in the SUB lobby is a help for students seeking rides and riders on week-end trips.

The Student Union Building, erected in 1950, is the center of student activities on campus. It consists of a game room, two lounges, a reception room, a ballroom, a formal banquet room and numerous rooms where clubs meet. The Tejas Room, student cafeteria, and the A&I branch of the U.S. Post Office are also part of this three-story building.

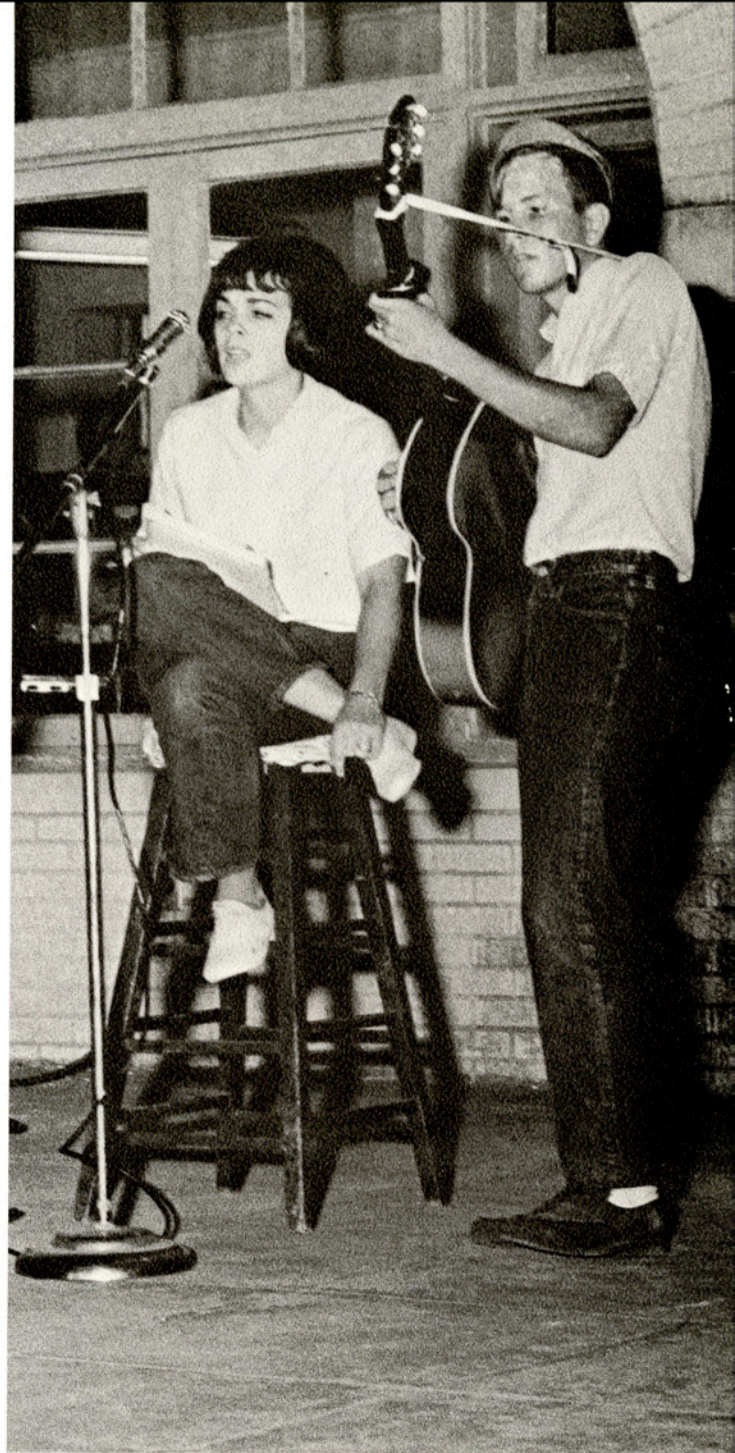

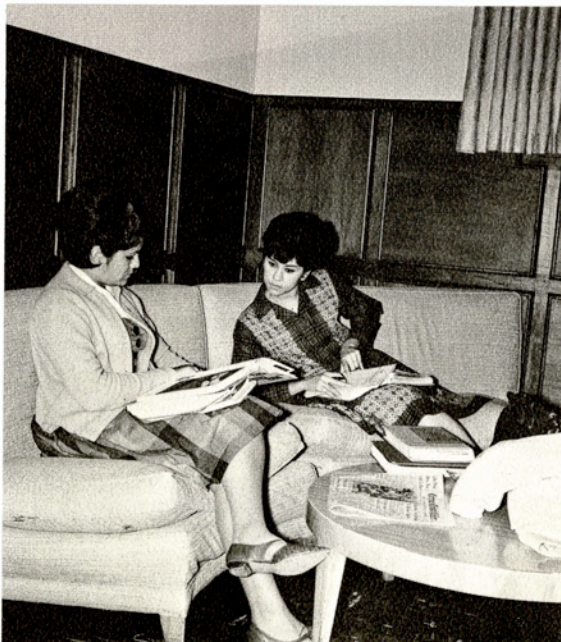

Favorite student hangouts are the Tejas Room and the TV room. The game room, where one can indulge in a strenuous game of pool, ping-pong or checkers, is another popular meeting place.

During the 1964-65 school year weekly "dateless" dances sponsored by the Student Union Governing Board were held in the SUB ballroom. These dances included a "Golden Oldies Party," a "Sweatshirt Party" and a "Blue Jean Ball."

Also held in the ballroom were an Intercollegiate Talent Search in November and dances by the different A&I organizations.

A number of conventions were held in the SUB this year, including the District Library Conference in October and the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association convention in April.

Student Activities Center

A "hootenanny" during registration week on the SUB porch initiated student activities for the year.

There are all kinds of happenings in the SUB lounge. Even studying, as this picture shows, is done here.

Randy Johnson

All-Conference, All-American

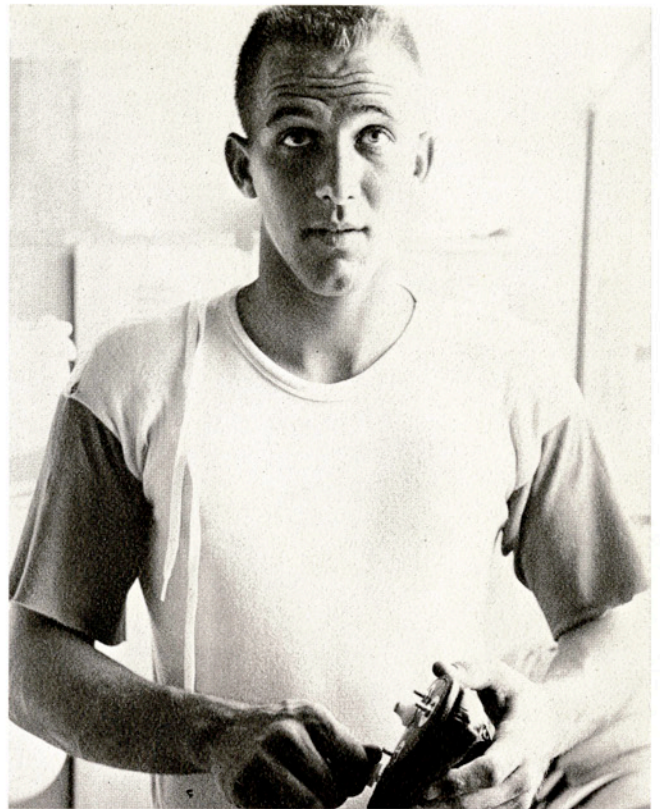

Randy Johnson, quarterback of the Javelina football team, is shown on these pages in a variety of settings and activities which surround football players day and night at A&I.

Randy, a junior secondary education major from San Antonio, led this year's team offensively to a fourth place finish in the Lone Star Conference. He led the league in total offense, passing yardage, and season passing percentage.

Randy has had many honors come his way, from our own coach Gil Steinke and from the coaches of league foes. Among the many honors given him were being named to the Little All-America team, All-Texas team, All-Conference team, being named the "Back of the Week" in the Lone Star Conference, and being voted the League's Most Valuable Player for the 1964 season.

Though he is a great player in his own right, Randy is quick to realize that it takes eleven to make a team.

"I know I could outrun those 'Bulldogs' if I didn't have to carry this ball with me!"

"Is this your shoe? Honestly, I thought it was mine."

"Hey, don't take that one, I've had my eye on it ever since I got in line."

TRINITY

The Fighting Javelinas spotted the Tigers a 14 to 0 first quarter lead but came roaring back on the passing of quarterback Randy Johnson and the running of full-back Herb Pennick to successfully open the 1964 season.

Johnson racked up 233 yards total offense, while Pennick gained 91 yards on nine carries. Johnson passed to Gerald Pargmann and Wesley Robinson for touchdowns; Pennick scored two on runs of 23 and 42 yards, and Bear Brown scored the remaining TD on a one-yard plunge.

The right side of the A&I offensive line—Bruce Austin, Allen Grones, and Pargmann—turned in a fine job of blocking, as the Hogs rushed for 247 yards. Grones was later named Lone Star Conference "Lineman of the Week" for his efforts.

"Now that diagram said the ball is supposed to be right here!"

Wilbur McDonald (32) skirts left end for a first down against the Warhawks.

Randy Johnson passed for 250 yards and Bear Brown rushed for 89 yards as the Javelinas shot down the visiting Warhawks in the first home game of the year.

Johnson passed to Gerald Pargmann for the first Hog touchdown, Brown scored the second on a sensational 29-yard sweep, and reserve quarterback Terry Oglesby dived one yard for the final TD. Manuel Canales successfully converted after each score.

The victory was a costly one for A&I, however, because Pargmann suffered a shoulder separation that forced him to sit out the next five games.

After scoring 8 points for the Hoggies' cause, Terry Oglesby takes a rest on the sideline.

Randy Johnson again treated the home folks to another fantastic offensive display by rushing for 104 yards and two touchdowns, as well as passing for 175 yards and two more TD's as the Hogs smothered the hapless Lutherans and earned the NAIA's No. 1 ranking.

Johnson's TD came on runs of 76 and 6 yards. He hit Bear Brown with a 50-yard scoring pass and end Terry Oglesby with a 21-yard scoring aerial. A 75-yard Johnson-to-James Rode pass set up Johnson's second touchdown. Johnson was finally named Lone Star Conference "Back of the Week" after this performance.

Herb Pennick scored the other Hog TD on a two-yard dive. Manuel Canales tacked on four extra points, and Johnson passed to Oglesby for a two-point conversion.

The tough Javelina defense held Stephen F. Austin, the pre-season conference favorites, to only 101 yards total offense in registering their third straight shutout of the season before a Homecoming crowd of 10,000 fans.

Freshman James Hill scored on an 82-yard pass-run play from Randy Johnson to highlight the scoring. Johnson passed to Terry Oglesby for the second Hog TD, and Herb Pennick closed the scoring with a one-yard plunge.

The second half was a defensive battle with neither team managing a scoring threat. Linebacker Weldon Wilson was named Lone Star Conference "Lineman of the Week" for his outstanding defensive efforts.

Wesley Robinson crosses the Lumberjack's 40 yard line for another A&I first down.

A&I Breaks Commerce Jinx

The Javelinas scored their first win in Commerce since 1931 as they demolished the East Texas' hopes of winning the conference title. Sports Illustrated had even ventured an article on this East Texas powerhouse, but the Lions' press clippings were of no use against a strong A&I team effort.

Quarterback Randy Johnson put the Javelinas ahead in the first half with touchdown passes to Bear Brown and James Hill. Johnson then hit Terry Oglesby in the end zone with 3:56 left in the game to clinch the victory.

For students at Kingsville, the sharpest memory was the seemingly endless waiting for KOPY to get through the mixed-up telephone wires with an account of the action. For Hoggie fans in Commerce, the sight of officials calling penalties on the Lions can never be forgotten.

Jacky Sexton (51) rubs a charlie horse out of his teammate's leg while James Rode (82) watches the action on the field.

Allen Grones (73) watches in earnest as the Hoggies defense stops another attempt by the Red Birds.

Defense was the key to this Javelina victory as the Hogs recovered five Lamar Tech fumbles and stopped the Cardinals to remain unbeaten. They preserved A&I's No. 1 NAIA ranking.

The Javelinas scored in the first quarter on a four-yard TD pass from Randy Johnson to Bear Brown. Early in the second period, Herb Pennick plunged four yards for A&I's second touchdown. Manuel Canales's conversion after the first TD proved to be the difference in the game.

Lamar Tech rallied to within one point of the Hogs in the third quarter, but defensive halfback James Hill batted away the attempted pass for the extra points. The tough Cardinal defense held Johnson to only six completions and A&I to only 163 yards total offense.

Lobos Tie Hogs

SUL ROSS

Sul Ross's surprising Lobos intercepted five Javelina passes, two of them in the end zone, and fought off a last ditch Hog rally to maintain a 7 to 7 tie. This game knocked A&I off the top of the NAIA ratings.

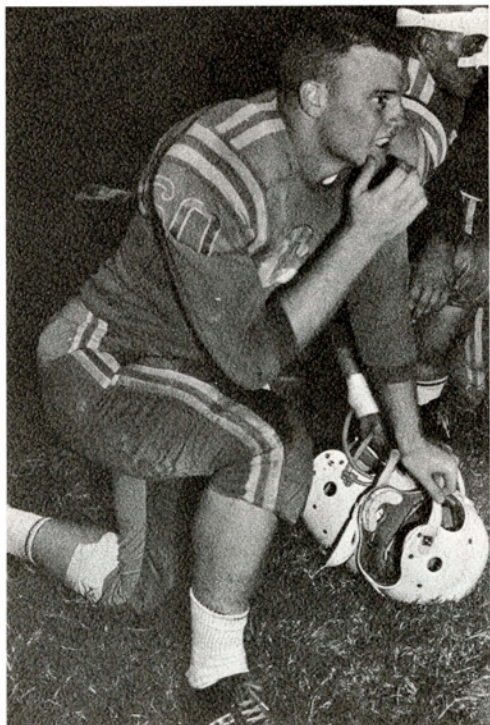

The Lobos drew blood when they drove 53 yards in 12 plays with quarterback Luz Pedraza hitting Poppy Rodriguez for the score. The Hogs came back and drove 54 yards on seven plays in the second quarter with Randy Johnson capping the drive with a six-yard pass to Terry Oglesby.

In the second half A&I drove deep into Sul Ross territory three times, but without success. A Johnson-to-James Hill touchdown pass, which was called back because of a penalty, was the closest the Javelinas came to scoring.

James Hill catches a pass in the end zone only to have it called back because of a penalty.

Bruce Austin (60) watches his replacement work as the Hoggies overpower the Yellow Jackets.

The Hogs got back on the victory wagon and warmed up for the upcoming showdown with Sam Houston with an easy 36-6 win over the Howard Payne Yellow Jackets in Brownwood.

Randy Johnson put A&I ahead to stay in the first quarter when he scored on a one-yard keeper. Johnson hit end Gerald Pargmann with a one-yard TD pass shortly before the half to make the half-time score 14-6.

In the third quarter Johnson scored on a two-yard run and hit end James Rode with a 10-yard TD pass to ice the game. Terry Oglesby passed to Pargmann for the final Hog touchdown.

L. J. Rolf (23) slips out of the grasp of an unidentified Bearkat. Rolf caught 5 passes for 38 yards.

Javelinas Bow to Bearkats

Sam Houston halfback Ted Minyard passed 15 yards to end Don Bates for a fourth quarter touchdown which gave the Bearkats a come-from-behind 21 to 16 victory over the Javelinas before a Dads' Day crowd of 11,500, the largest ever in Javelina Stadium.

The passing of Randy Johnson, who completed 22 out of 33 attempts for 221 yards, and a field goal by Manuel Canales put the Hogs ahead going into the final period. But Sam Houston's tough defense and a strong rushing offense built around Joe Ed Lynn and Billy Arlen proved too much for A&I.

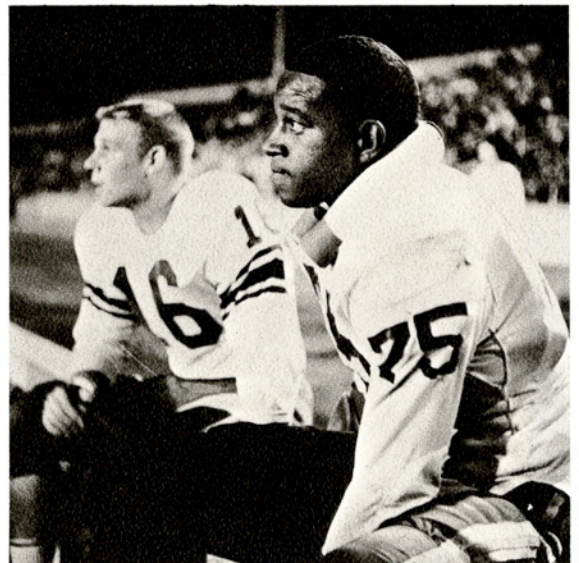

The win clinched the conference title for the 'Kats, who went on to tie for the NAIA championship.

Bobcats Tree the Hoggies

The Southwest Texas Bobcats turned a recovered lateral and an intercepted pass into fourth quarter touchdowns to break open a tight game and successfully close out the season in near-freezing weather in San Marcus.

A&I scored first when Bear Brown ripped 23 yards for a TD with 3:10 left in the first quarter. The Bobcats went ahead 7 to 6 shortly before the half when Louie Simmons hit left end for seven yards and a touchdown.

After a scoreless third quarter, the 'Cats racked up touchdowns on Stanley Smith's recovery in the end zone of an A&I lateral and on Mac Sauls's 52-yard pass interception return. The Javelinas led in first downs and total yardage, but SWT led on the scoreboard.

"Tuck" Upshaw (75) sits down for a brief rest after placing another kickoff into the end zone.

Texas A&I Coaching Staff

These are the men who guide the fortunes of the A&I gridiron team.

Gil Steinke, head coach and director of athletics, is the man responsible for the win-loss record of the Javelinas. Steinke is an ex-A&I star, who played professional football with the Philadelphia Eagles before returning to A&I to coach.

Since coming to A&I, he has molded championship teams which have dominated the Lone Star Conference. Now in his second decade as a coach, he has compiled an outstanding 76-33-5 record.

Coach Greene also is an ex-A&I gridder. He coached at Boling before coming back to A&I in 1959. Since then he has coached some of the most power-packed, explosive backfields in the state of Texas. Greene has trained several Little All-Americans, including Sid Blanks, Tommy Janik, and Randy Johnson.

Although he is a newcomer to the college coaching ranks, Lone Star Conference competition is nothing new to the 33-year-old Leonard Germer. Germer played college ball at Southwest Texas State College. He earned both his B.S. and M.Ed. degrees from the San Marcos institution.

Bill Hicks is another newcomer to A&I this year. The 1962 graduate of Baylor is a native of Arkansas and was the freshman line coach at Baylor for the past two seasons before joining the Hoggies' staff.

Lynn Laird is also a newcomer to the Texas A&I athletic staff. The 27-year-old graduate of Texas A&M joined the staff this year as athletic trainer, leaving a position at Baylor Hospital, Dallas, as a practicing physical therapist.

Leo Villarreal, right, adjusts the helmet of a fall prospect before head-knocking starts.

Gale Chapin and Bob Milsom confiscate Trinity University's "Bar-B-Qued Hog."

Co-captains James Rode and Mike Ellis, along with backfield coach Gene Green, pause to pose for the camera to show off the Hoggies new blazers, before boarding the bus for another Javelina road trip.

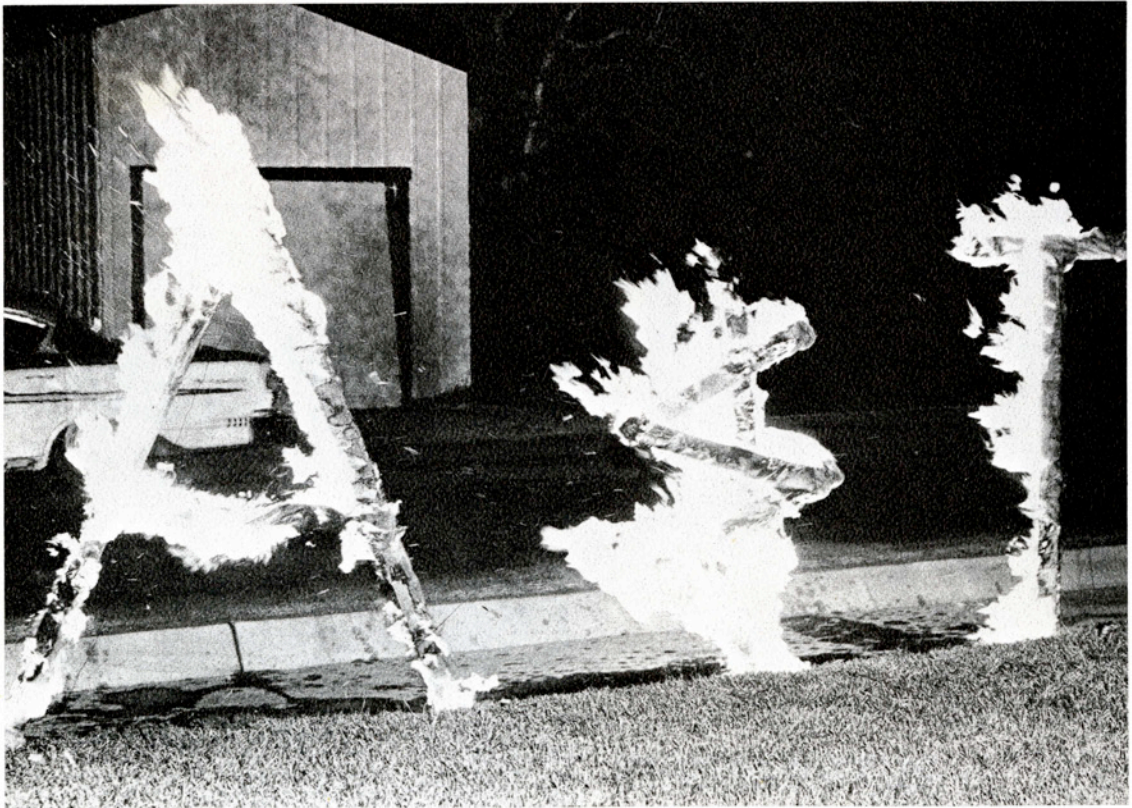

The Spirit of A&I

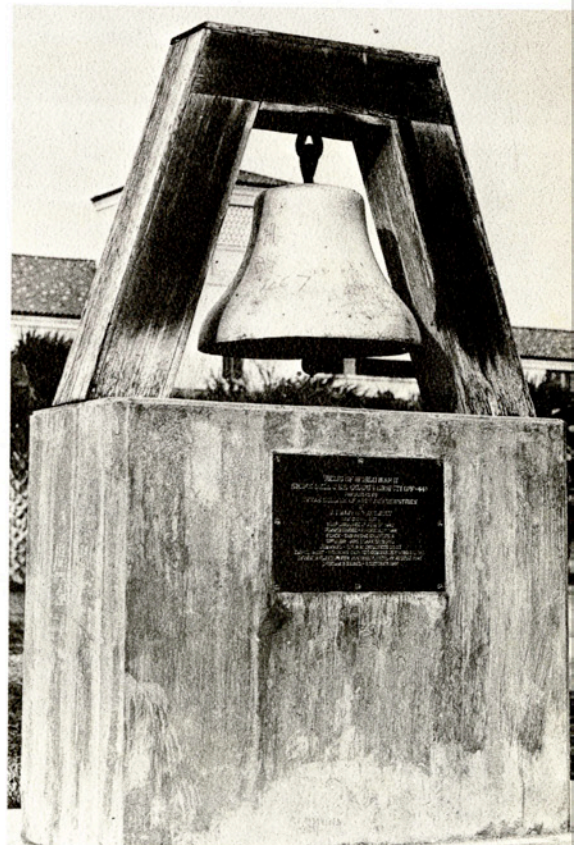

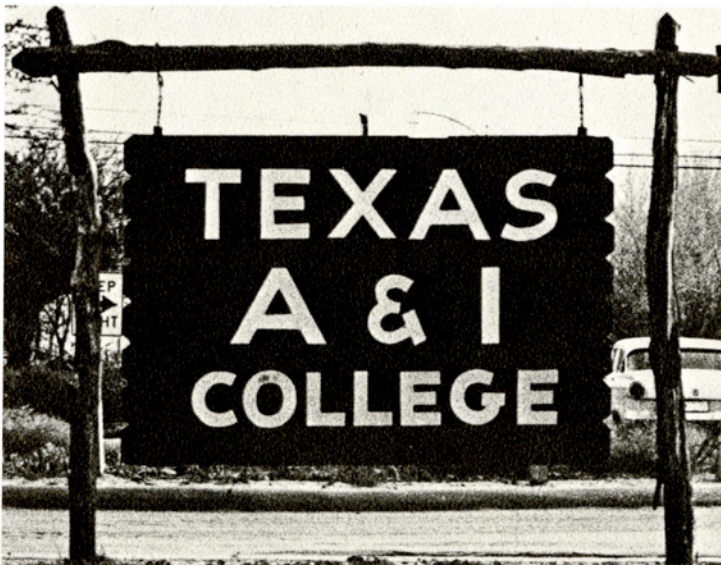

Each year an extra student registers at A&I. This student is the most influential of all: he is the Spirit of A&I.

Most of the students are not consciously aware of his presence, but nevertheless the Spirit resides all over campus. He speaks loudly every time the cannon is set off at the football games. His voice echoes throughout the campus with the ringing of the Victory Bell.

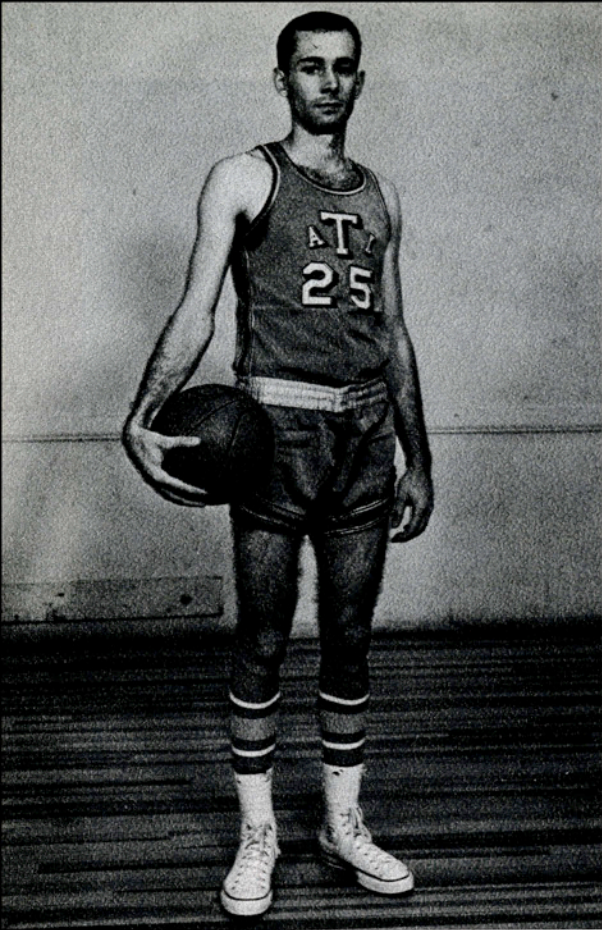

The spirit shines brightly at the burning of the A&I, and he stands quietly by the sign on College Boulevard to welcome all visitors. His symbol is seen clearly in the Javelina Mascot. The spirit bids farewell to each day as the campus lights blink out, but is there to greet every new day at dawn.

Ted Carley
Basketball Coach

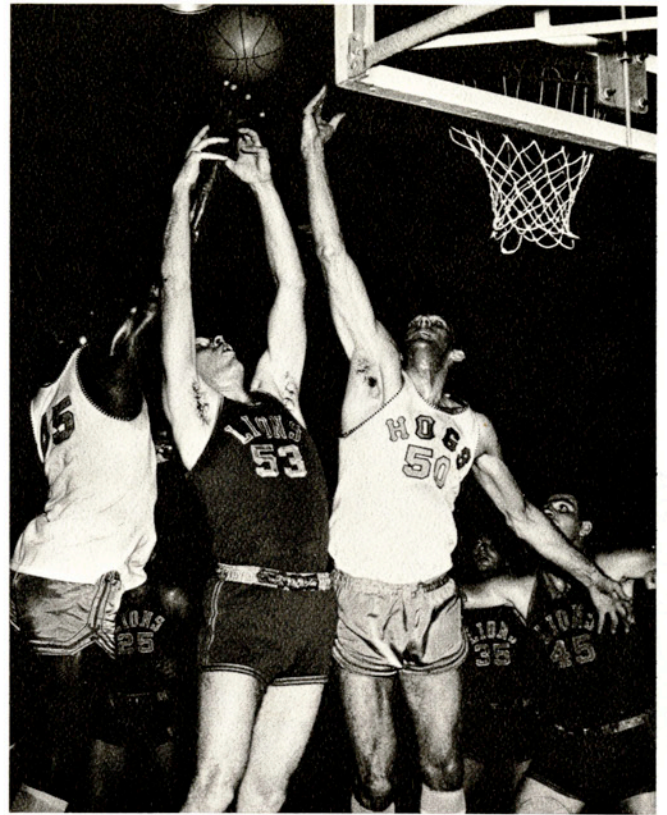

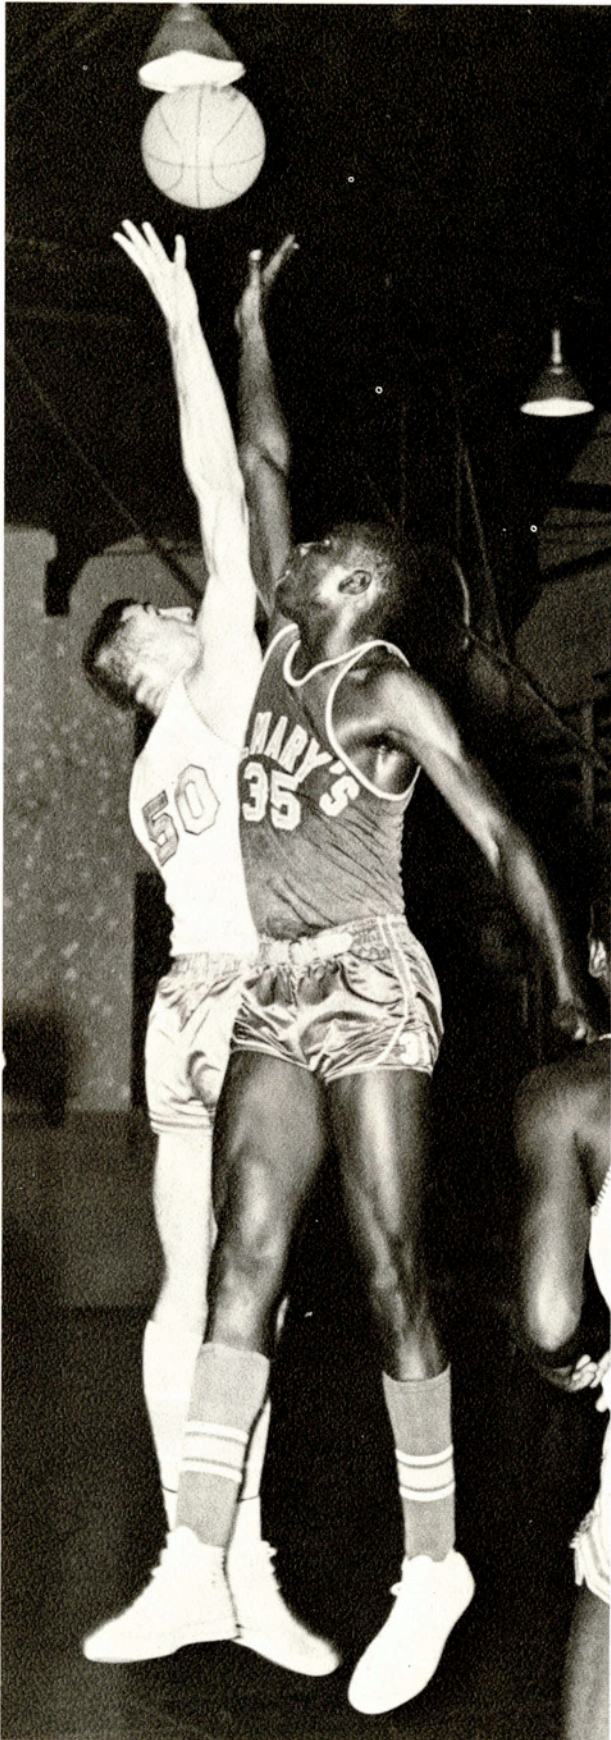

The 1964-65 Javelinas basketball team got off to a slow start but finished strong to post a 6-6 Lone Star Conference record and an 8-14 season mark. This was the first losing season for the Hogs since 1959.

The big name for A&I all year was that of senior guard Jim Koerner. The 6-1½ Menasha, Wis., native was the leading scorer for the Javelinas and the number 3 scorer in the conference with a 19.7 points per game average. For the fourth consecutive year Koerner hit above .500 of his league field goal attempts, finishing with a .524 mark. Twice named LSC "player of the week," the sharp-shooting guard was named to the All-Conference first team for the second year.

The leading rebounder for the Hogs was Marty Schultz, a third team all-conference selection. The 6-5½ junior averaged 9.2 rebounds per LSC contest. The Appleton, Wis., product, who averaged 13.8 points per game, was the number two field goal shooter in the conference with his fine .543 mark.

The most accurate free throw shooter for the Javelinas was freshman Bob Rainey. The 6-3 forward hit .833 of his loop free throws and .795 for the season. Rainey averaged 10.5 points per league game. Julius Farris averaged 12.3 points, and Gus Laemmrich averaged 9.6 points to round out the Hog scoring.

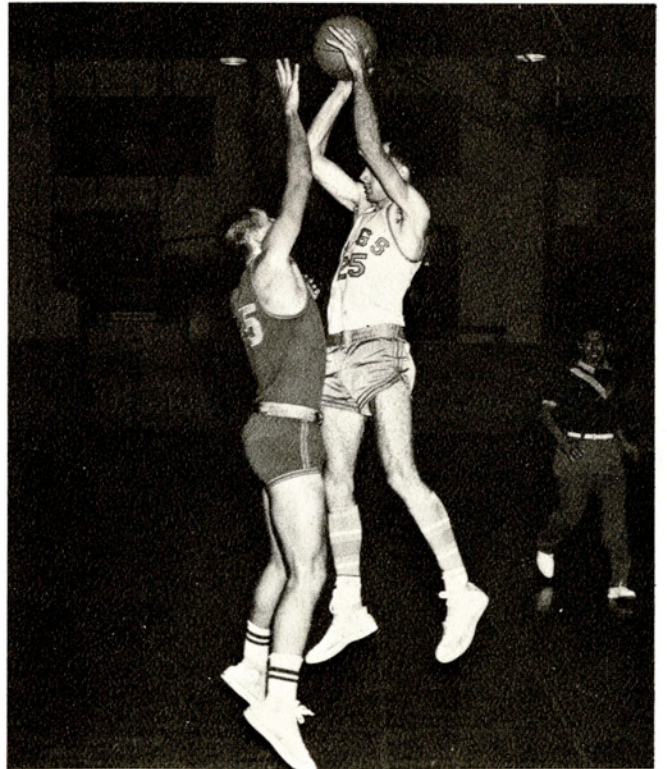

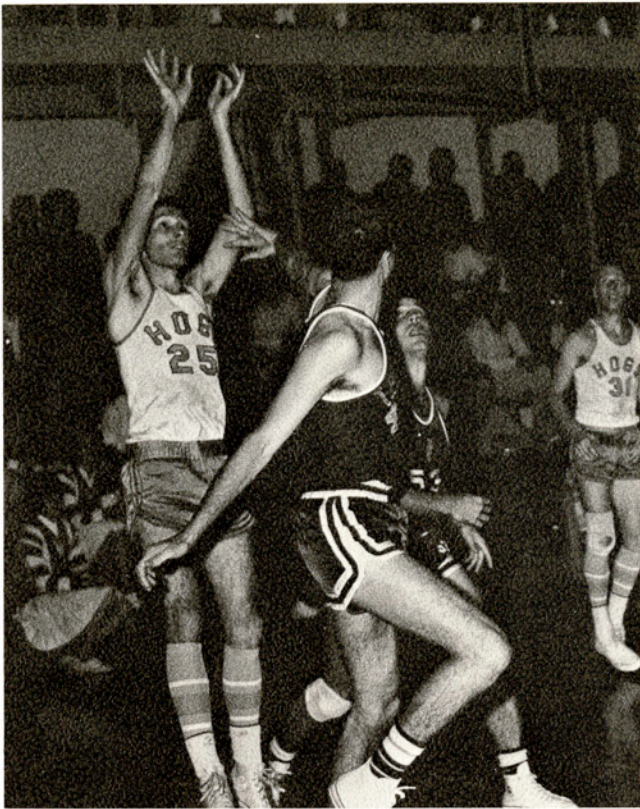

Farris and Schultz fight for a rebound.

Schultz goes high on a center jump.

Koerner shoots over his opponent's hand.

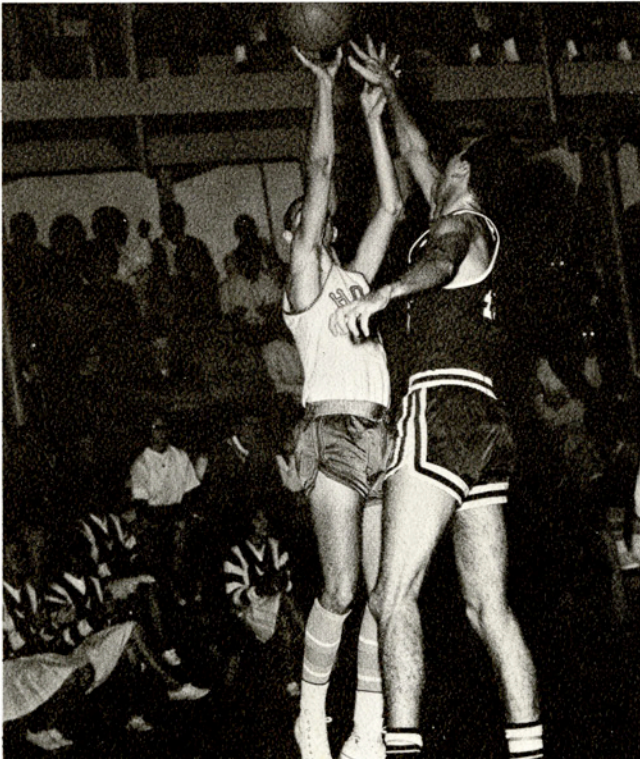

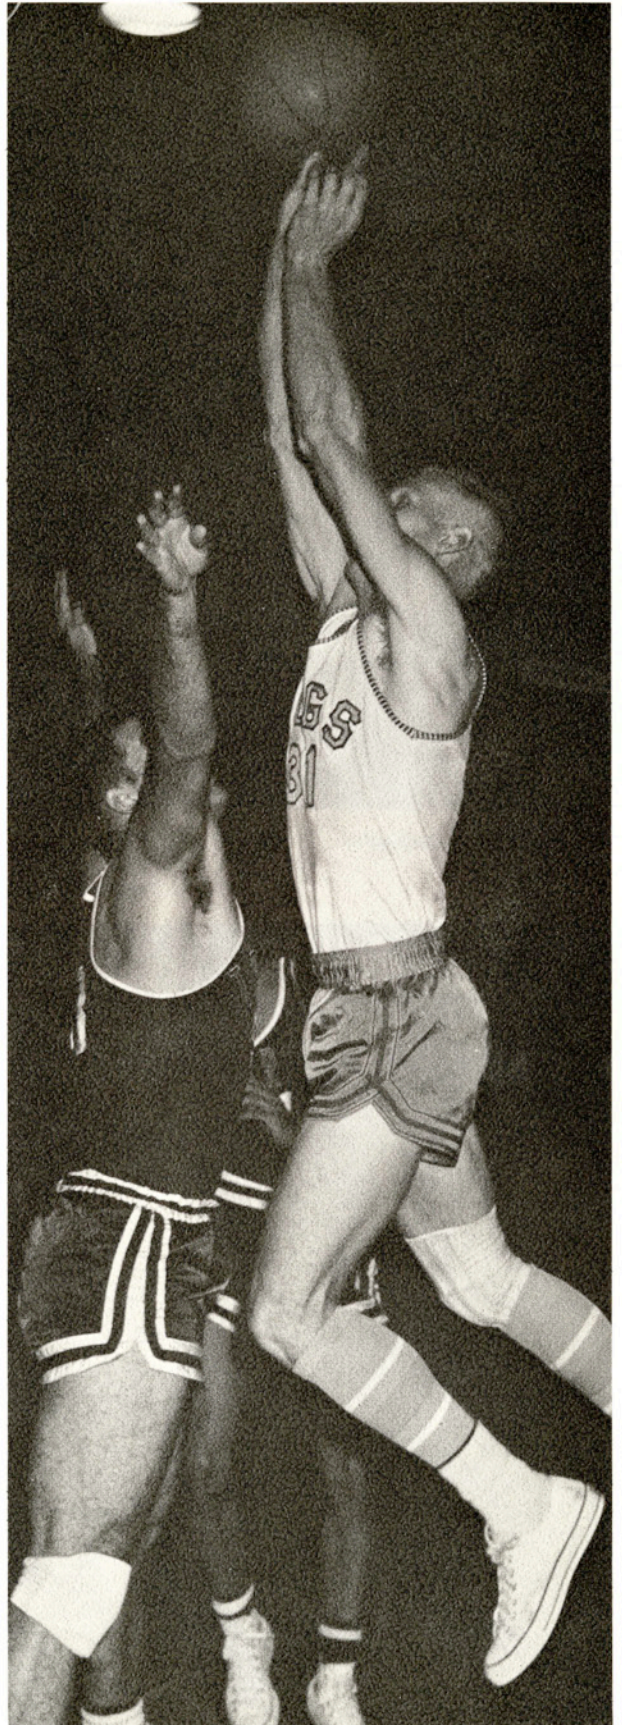

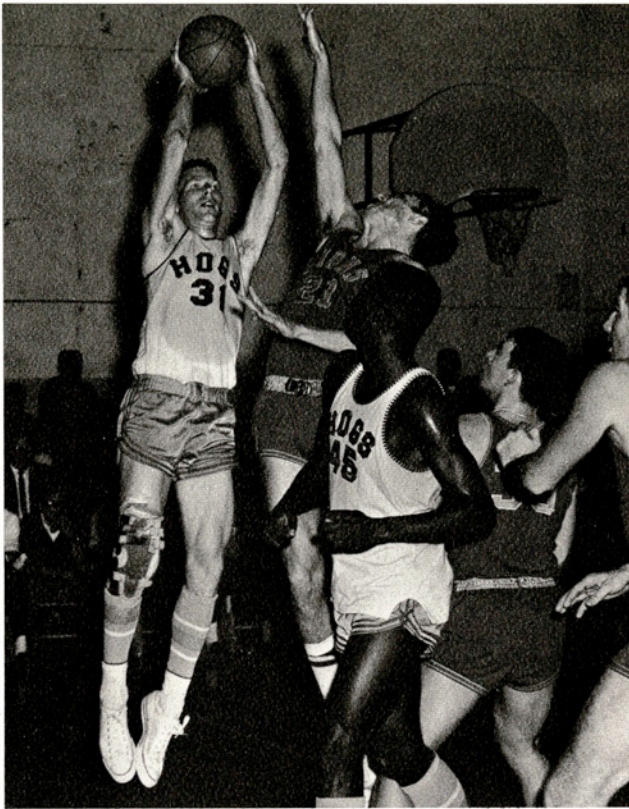

Trinity defender fails to stop Koerner.

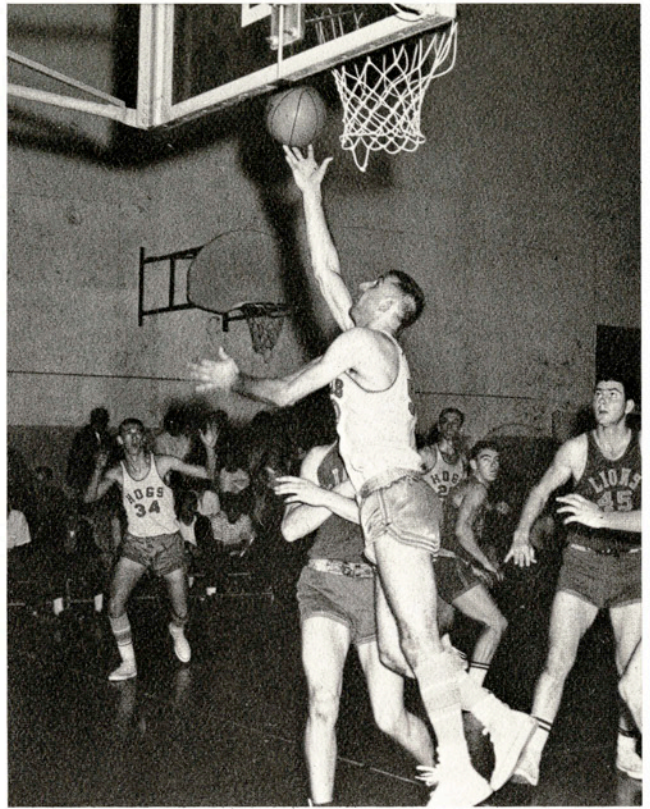

Laemmrich jumps up, up, up.

Rainey shoots from the outside.

Laemmrich hits from the baseline.

Schultz tips in a rebound.

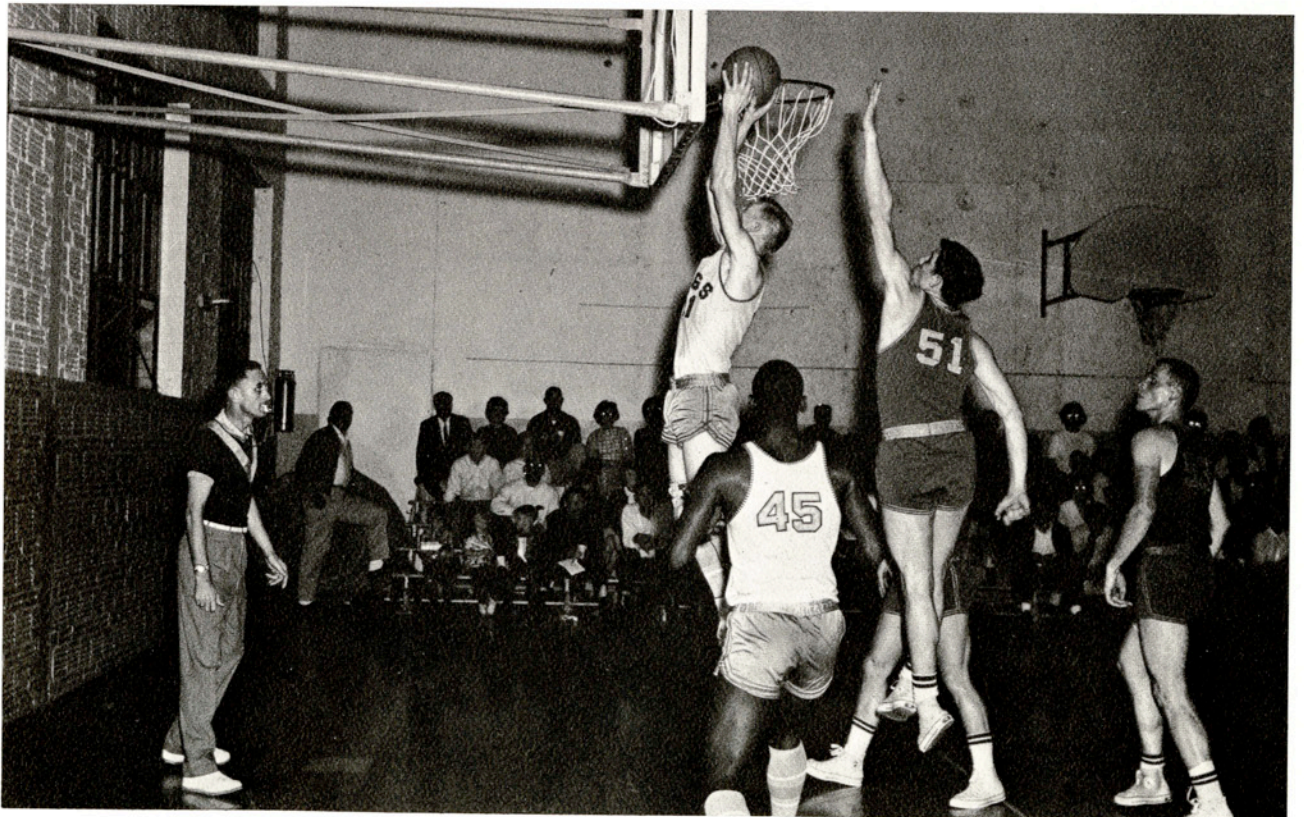

Three East Texas defenders fail to halt Koerner.

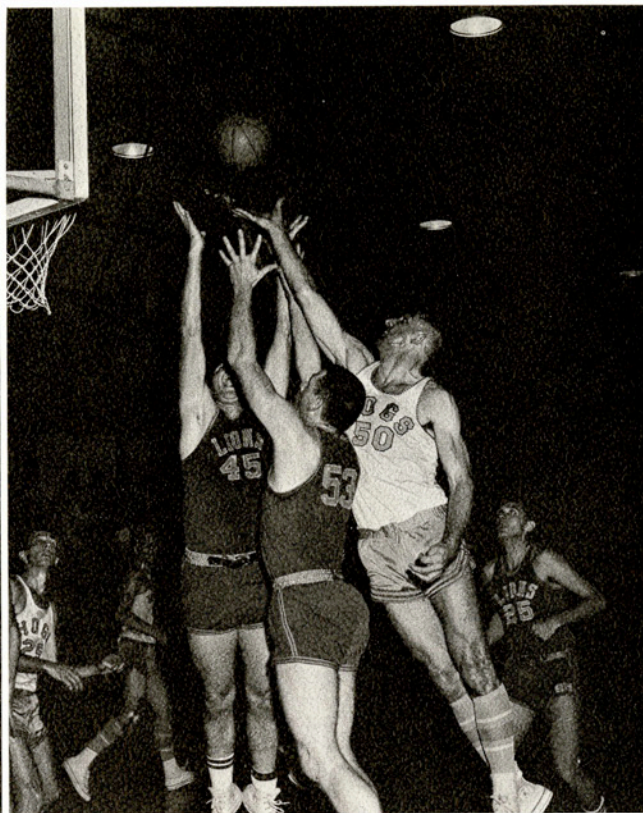

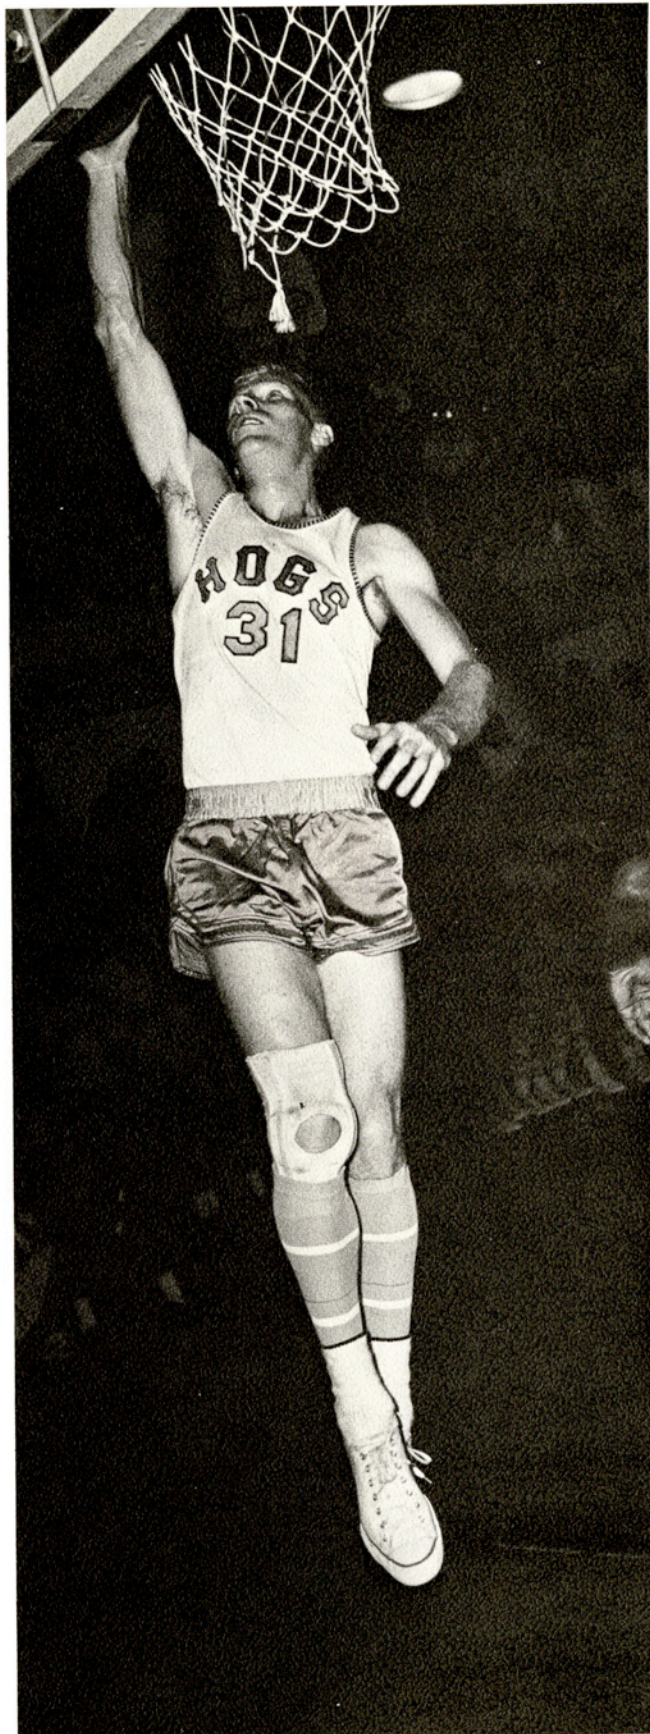

Schultz hits a jump shot against East Texas.

Laemmrich out-maneuvers a taller opponent.

Laemmrich scores on a lay-up.

The Trinity defense surrounds Bill Simmons.

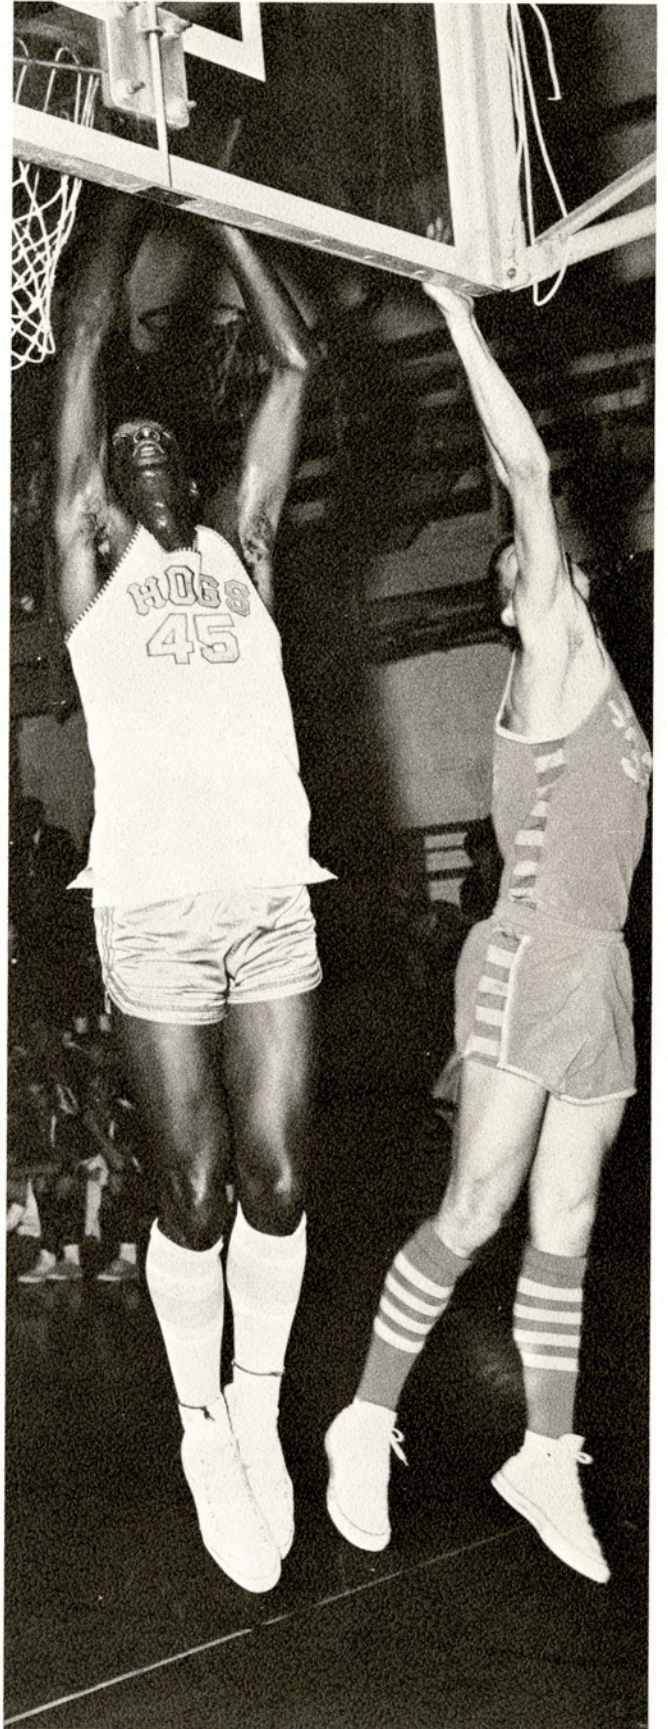

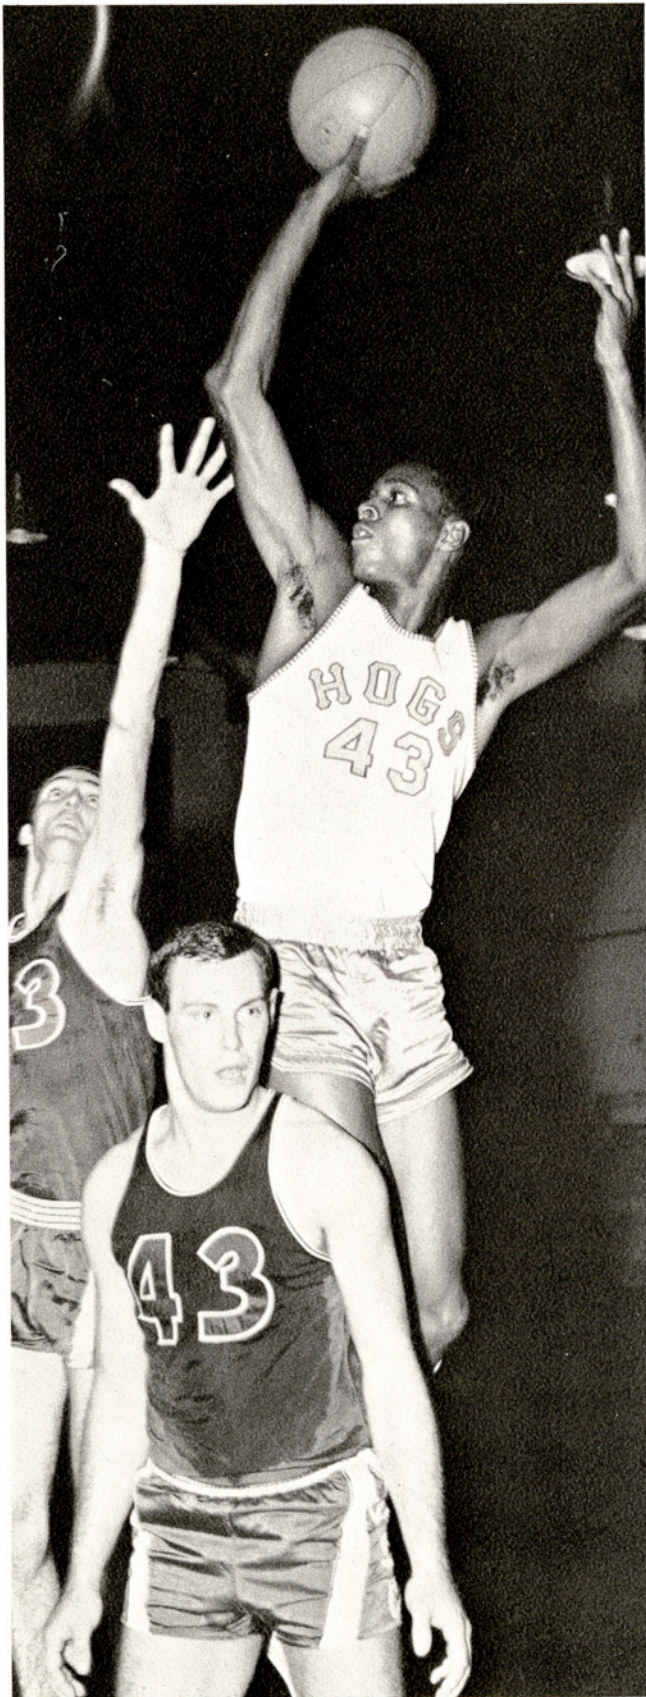

Freshman Bob Rainey tips in a rebound.

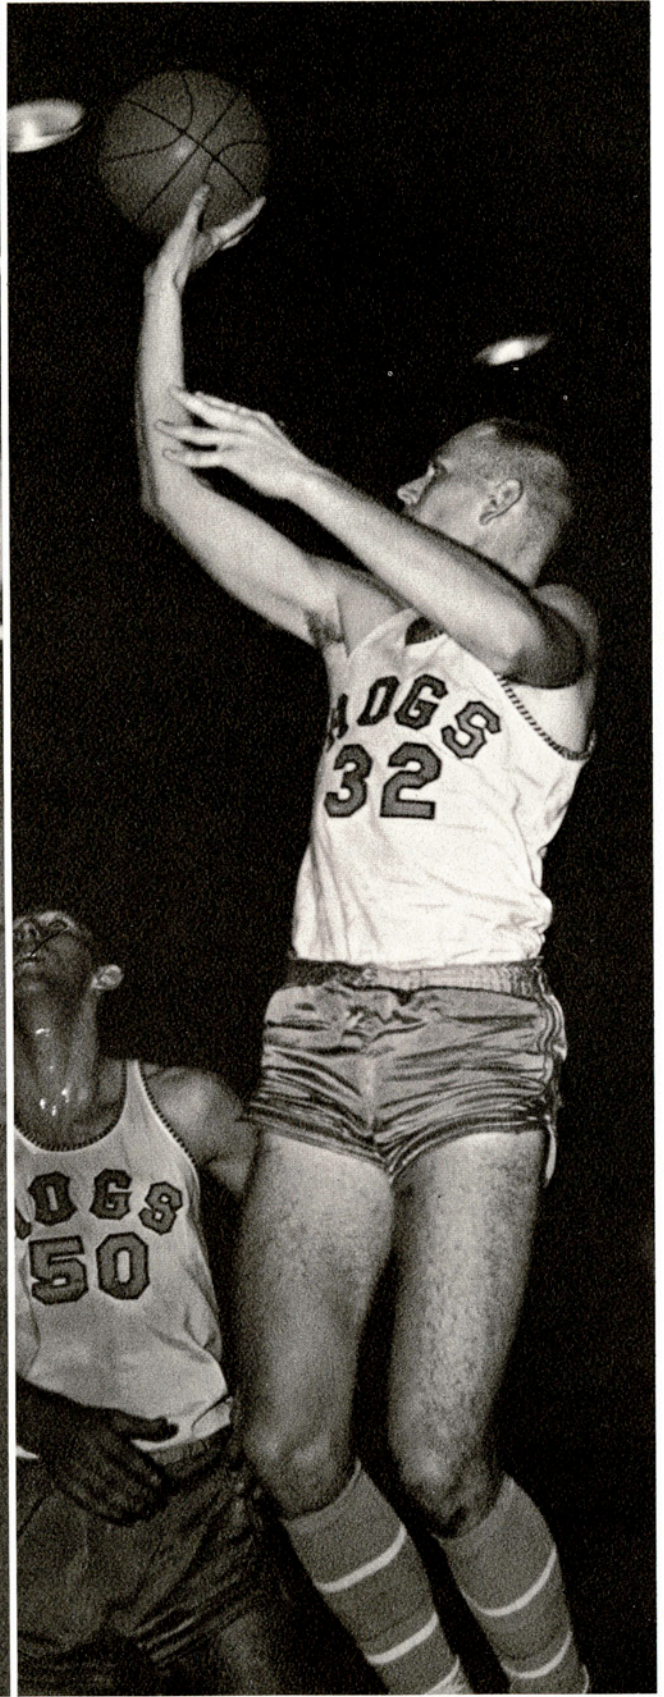

Farris goes high for an easy basket.

UCC players stare as Schultz hits a jumper.

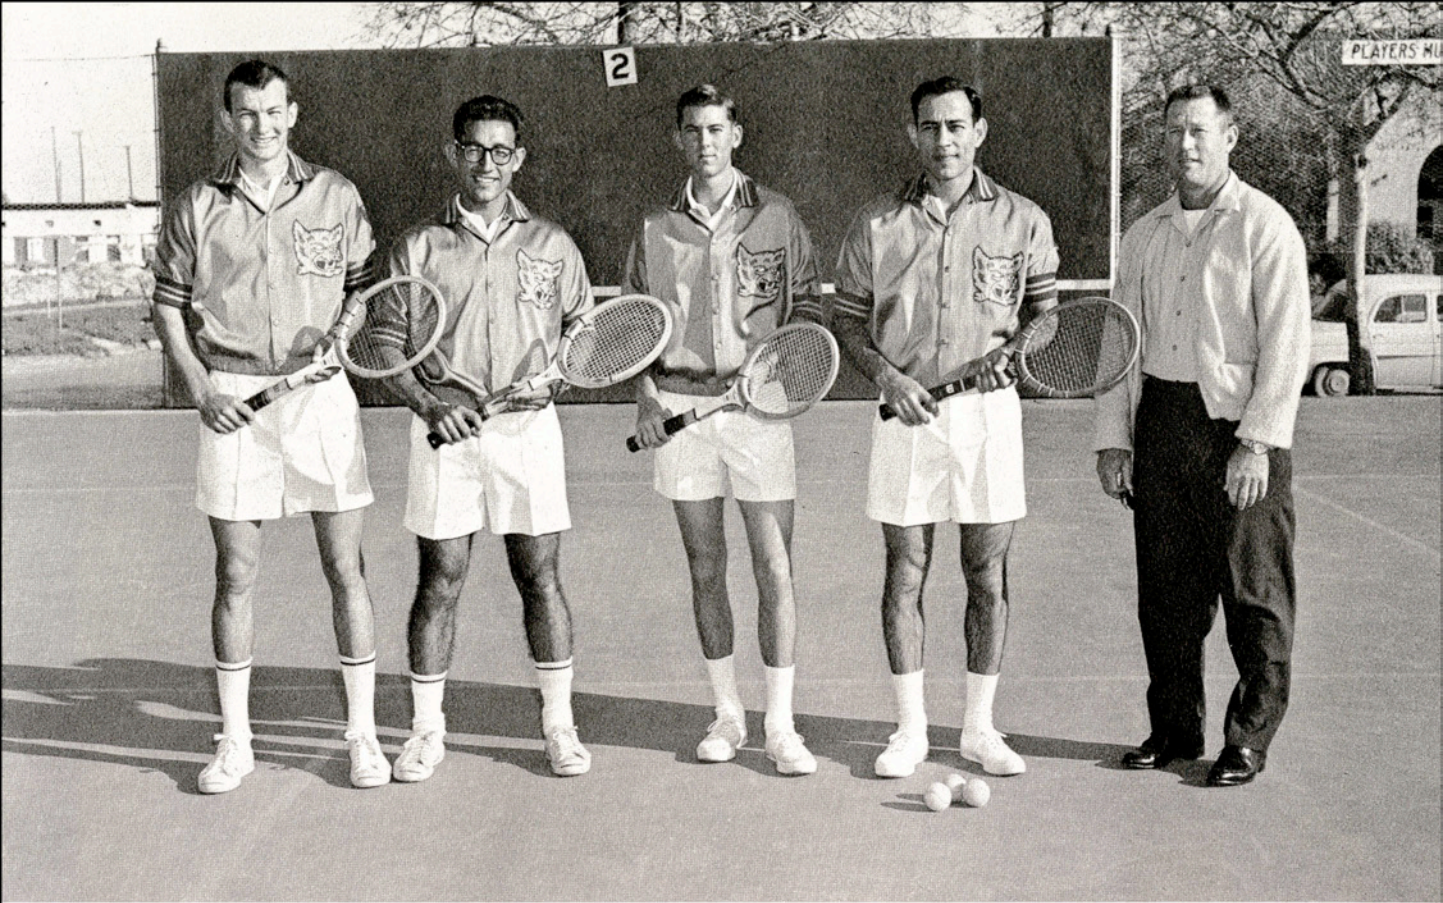

Bill Simmons towers over UCC players.

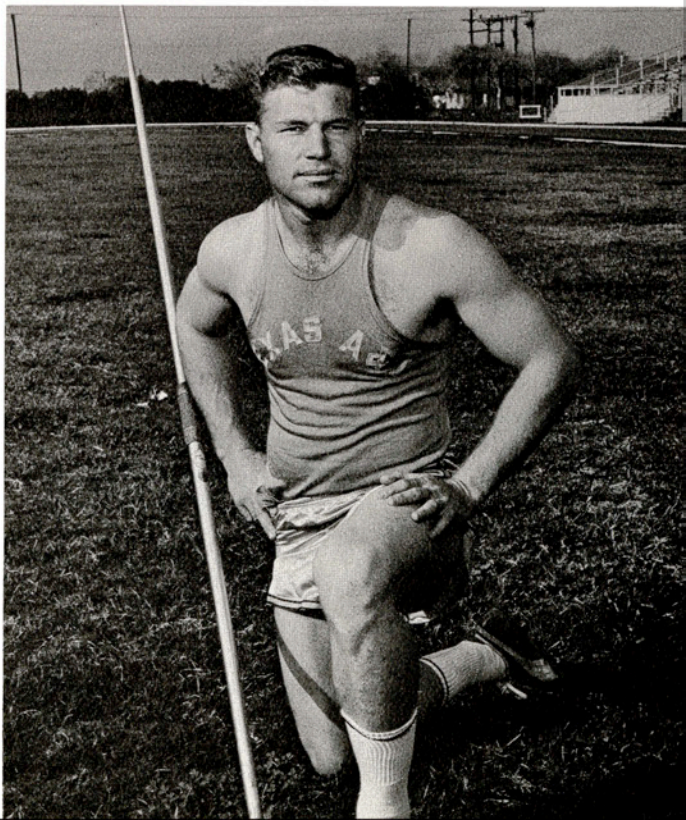

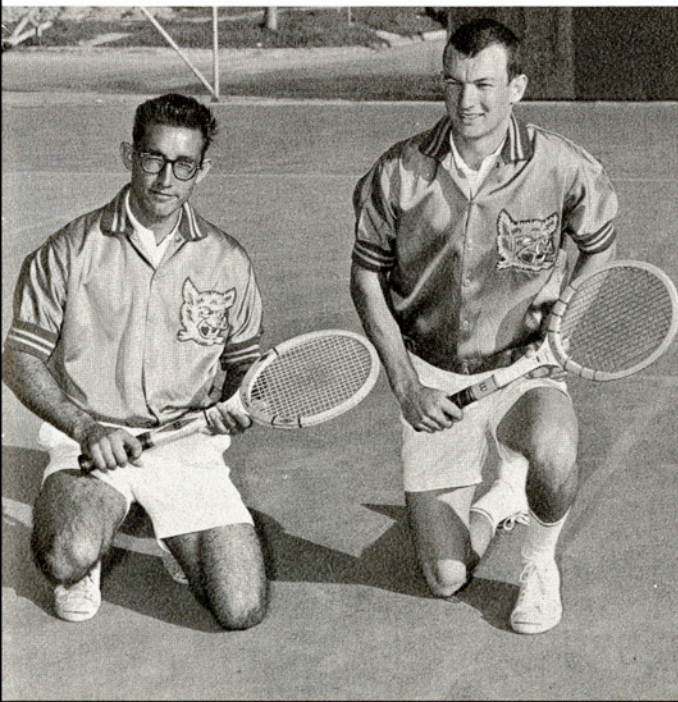

Don Cramer drops in two against Trinity.

Members of the 1965 A&I tennis team are (l to r) Woods Mathews, Bobby Curry, James Walker, Gilbert Garza, and Gene Greene, coach.

Gerald Pargmann, twice Lone Star Conference javalin throw champ, was the only returning letterman on the track team.

Bobby Curry (left) and Woods Mathews made up A&I's number one doubles team. They were undefeated in early season play.

ROTC

Lt. Col. Pershing Tousley, prior to coming to A&I last October, completed a three-year tour of duty in Germany. He, along with eight other Regular Army personnel, supervises the training of more than 200 ROTC cadets.

Professor of Military Science

Cadet Col. John Howe, a senior physics major, is also president of the A&I student body.

Cadet Commander Corps

Cadets stand a staff inspection.

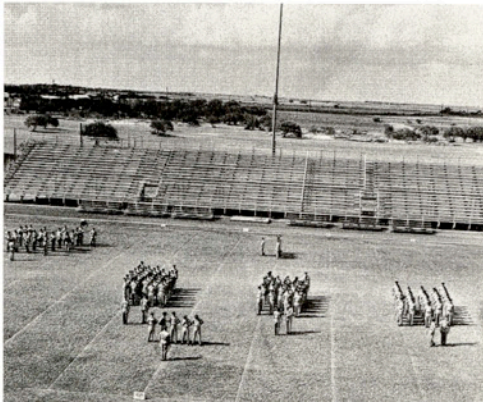

A "Double Time" is executed by a squad of cadets.

Cadets on Review

The day of the week a ROTC cadet looks forward to the most is drill day. It is on this day he dons an ill-fitting, itchy replica of an army uniform and infiltrates the local drives-ins hoping to attract female attention.

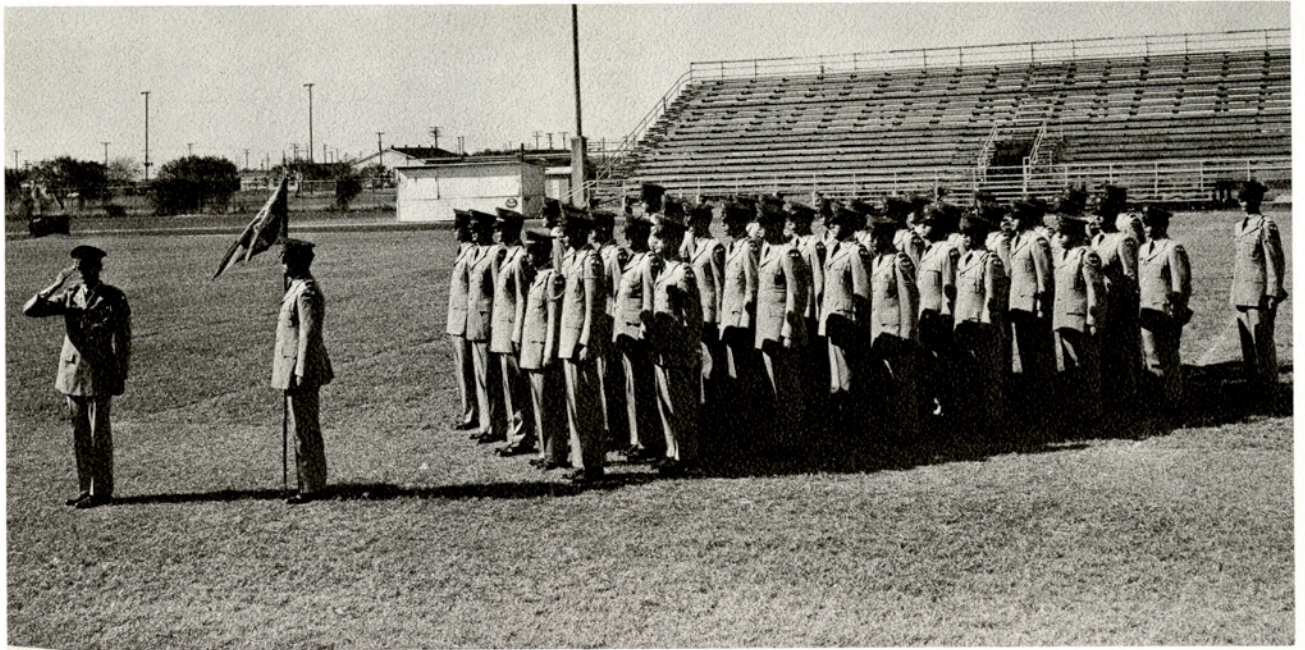

At 1100 hours (11 A.M. to the layman) the cadet proceeds to the drill area where he receives training in leadership and discipline. Once a year on Competition Day students receive a chance to earn merits and recognition by competing against other cadets on the drill field. Each cadet competes for the honor of his company, as well as personal recognition.

Battalion practices for "Dad's Day."

At the command "Fall-In," the Cadet Battalion is formed.

CLEAN IT—take it out and get it dirty—clean it—take it out and get it dirty again—
 What a way to run this man's Army.

KILL! Is the spirit of bayonet practice as Junior Platoon members prepare for summer camp.

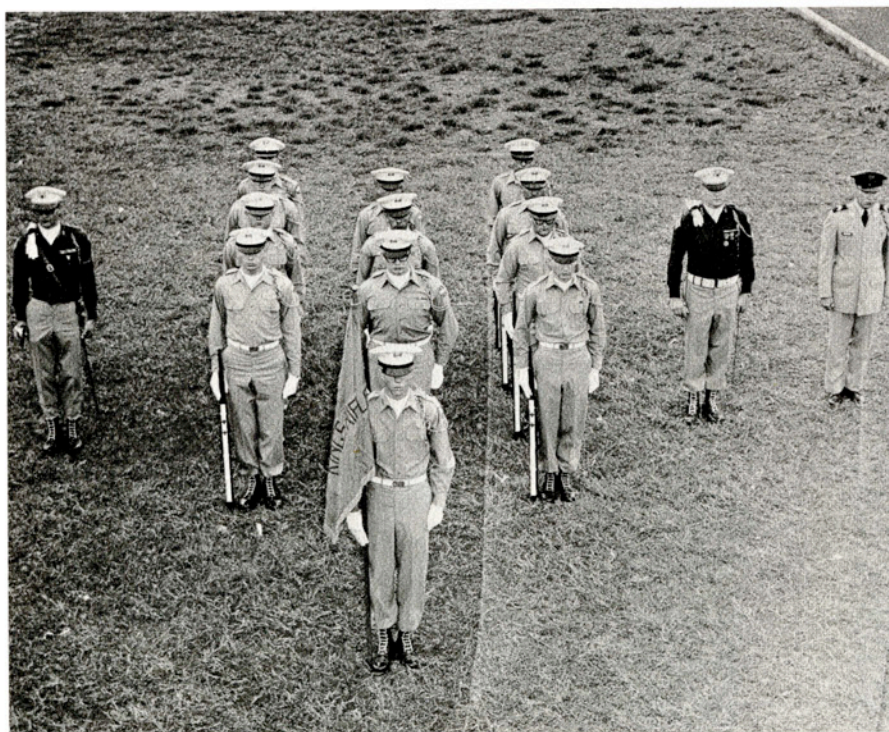

Always sure to gain the crowd's applause and admiration is the King's Rifles' presentation. It begins with a series of the manual of arms and ends in a kneeling salute to the crowd.

King's Rifles

King's Rifles in marching formation. Commander—Jeffery P. Dunning; Executive Officer—John Gesick; Supply—Carlos Herrea.

The King's Rifles, first formed in 1952, is a crack drill team composed of cadets who have demonstrated outstanding ability in drill maneuvers. This team has performed for Mardi Gras crowds in New Orleans and at events in San Antonio, Brownsville, Corpus Christi, Laredo, and other South Texas cities.

Campus Visitors

First guest speaker for the spring semester's Honors Lectures Series sponsored by the biology department was Dr. Roger Yerick, an A&I ex. Dr. Yerick, now an associate professor of chemistry at Lamar State College of Technology, is a consultant to the Special Training Division of Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies in Oak Ridge, Tenn. He spoke on "Radioactivity and Biological Systems."

The Lord Mayor of Manchester, England, Dr. William Chadwick, was the luncheon guest of President and Mrs. James C. Jernigan in October. The Lord Mayor and his wife, the Lady Mayoress, had made a tour of the Kingsville area and visited the college. Shown with Dr. Jernigan and the Lord Mayor is Dr. James A. Stockton, right, the mayor of Kingsville.

The November elections caused a flurry of political activity and discussion on the Texas A&I campus. Senator Ralph Yarbrough stopped at the Student Union Building to do a little campaigning one October afternoon; members of the Young Republicans greeted him with signs supporting his opponent.

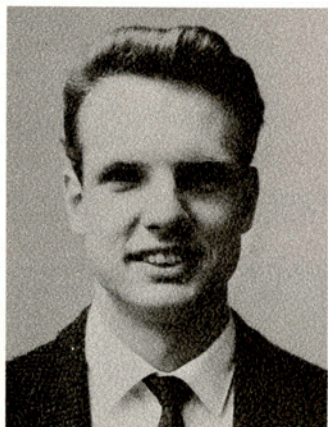

This year's speaker for February's D. A. Barber Lecture-ship Series was Dr. Chester A. Pennington, senior minister of Hennepin Avenue Methodist Church in Minneapolis, Minn. Dr. Pennington's topics during the week were, "Our Search for Meaning," "Our Longing for Love," "Our Need for Integrity," "Our Sense of Vocation," and "The Call to Community." During the afternoon coffee and conversation time, the minister met students and faculty members informally. Here he talks with James W. Prewitt, Student Union director, and Robert Hall.

Dr. Clarence Cottam was the outstanding speaker for the Department of Biology's Fall Honors Lectures. Dr. Cottam, director of the Rob and Bessie Welder Wildlife Foundation in Sinton, served eight years as the assistant director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Mac Hulslander, brought to the college by the Campus Christian Fellowship, spoke at class sessions and meetings on Japanese society, education, and religion. Hulslander had recently returned from three years in Japan where he served under the Methodist Church Board of Missions.

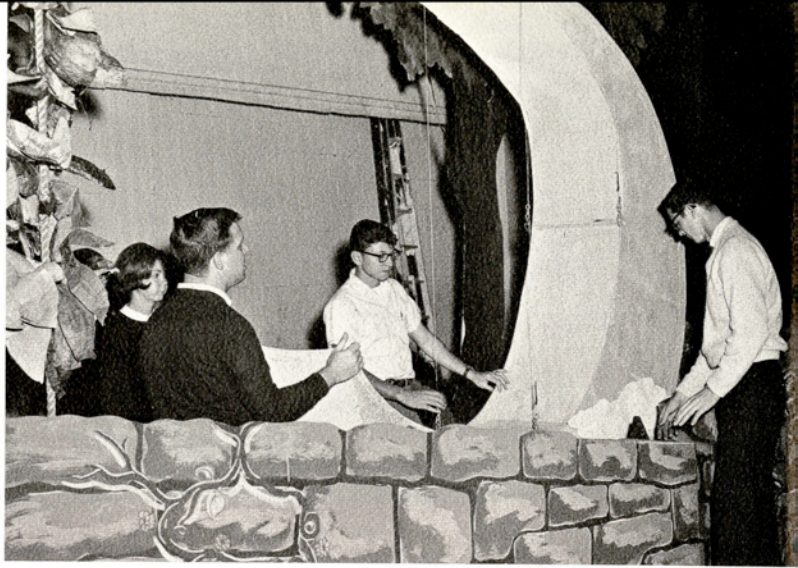

Astronomer Robert P. Kraft gave a public lecture on exploding stars in February. Dr. Kraft, who is associated with the Mount Wilson and Palomar Observatories in California, also spoke to physics classes on stellar evolution and the structure and dynamics of the galaxy. He illustrated his public lecture with slides. Shown helping him get ready for the lecture are Larry Boles, left, and Dr. Olan Kruse, right, chairman of the physics department.

W. M. (Uncle Billy) Evans of Uvalde presented a collection of Waco Indian ceremonial stones to Texas A&I's John E. Conner Museum. Attending the presentation were college officials and members of the History Club. Many artifacts gathered by Evans over the years were on temporary display in the museum during the Spring Semester.

Connie Laurence, portraying Jack in the children's play "Jack and the Beanstalk," swings from that magical beanstalk.

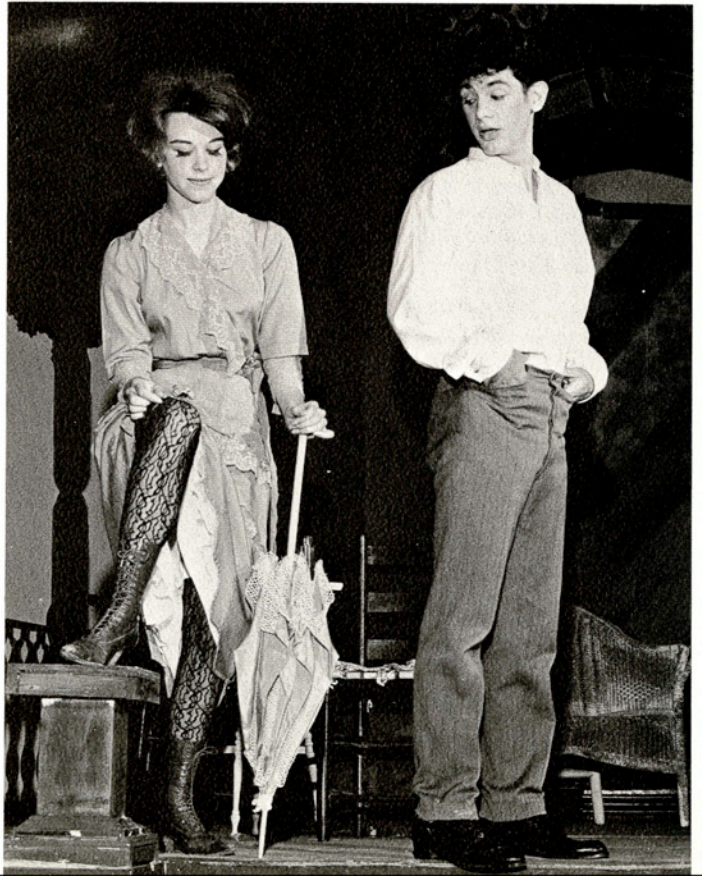

Students work back-stage building props for the children's play. Dana Love watches as Instructor James Palmer, Adolfo Reyes, and Bob Fitch try to place the moon in the sky.

Murder, Magic, Tragedy, Laughter, Tears

Eugene Gant, male lead in "Look Homeward, Angel," is accosted by Miss Brown, played by Pat Ogden, a boarder in the Gant's Dixieland Boarding House. Xavier Barrera portrayed Eugene.

A drunken W. O. Gant, played by Kirby Sharp, tries to communicate with his wife Eliza, played by Jane Backus, in an emotion-packed scene in "Look Homeward, Angel."

Kelly Carpenter as Malcolm, eldest son of the slain Duncan, King of Scotland, rallies his men, portrayed by David Ver Milyea, Adolfo Reyes, Otis Davis, Vincent Artale, John Shaw, and Olton Harris.

Rehearsing a scene from Shakespeare's "Macbeth" are Neida Estringel, playing Lady Macbeth, and Harrison Ewing, who was cast as the distraught Macbeth.

More Money Down the Drain

Money, money everywhere, but every dime is spent. At the beginning of each semester students find their pockets and purses fuller than usual, but registration takes part of their money and much of what is left makes its way to the College Store.

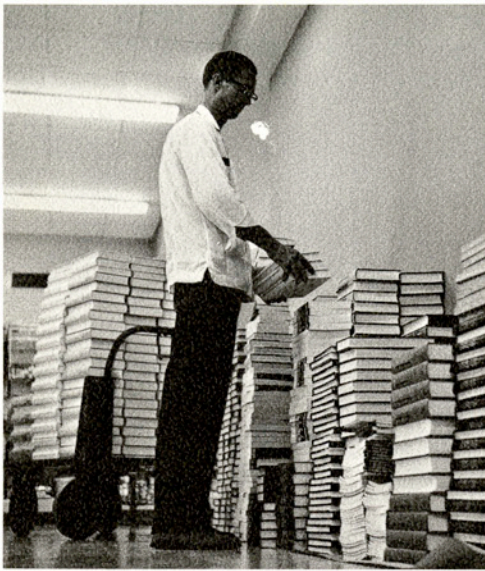

Started in 1949 by Texas A&I, the store supplies textbooks, art supplies, paperbacks, slide rules, sweatshirts, records, and stuffed animals—all the necessities for a successful college life.

With textbooks and notebooks, most students feel loaded down as they travel from class to class. But actually it is the college freshman who must bear the heaviest burden.

During the fall semester, freshmen purchased 4,000 English books, 330 chemistry texts, 375 biology books, 70 physics books, and 750 mathematics texts. Since freshman English classes require more than one book, students found themselves investing $20 in books for this one course alone.

The College Store is financially independent; it receives no aid from the state government. It does one-fourth of its business for the year between the middle of September and the first of October.

Three people are employed full-time and 10 students are able to sandwich part-time jobs into their class schedules by working at the College Store.

A bookstore employee unloads a portion of the thousands of books needed by Texas A&I students in their pursuit of higher education.

Students still waiting their turn at the cash register can smile, but the smiles have faded for one couple as they part with the cash.

This freshman proves that "fish" have it roughest of all when it comes to total number of books and sheer weight.

A&I

Grows,

and Grows,

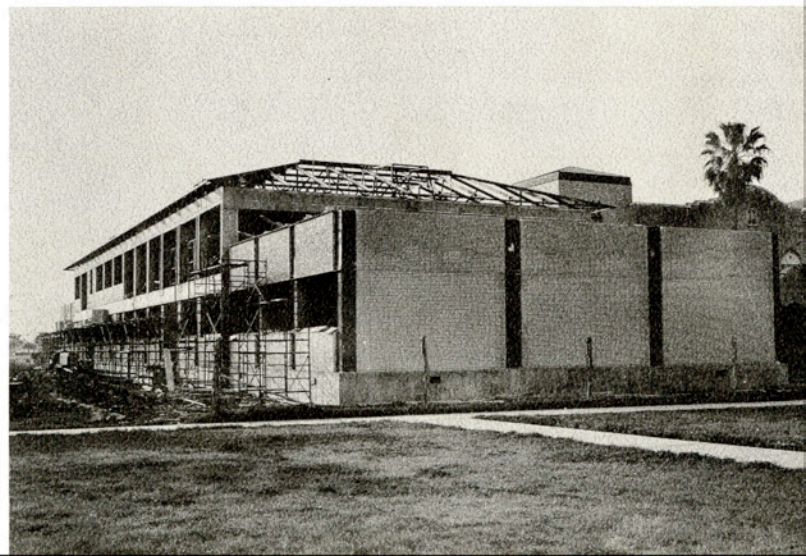

and Grows

Breaking ground for the new classroom-office building are members of the administration and the division directors.

In October ground was broken for a new classroom-office building. This two story building, designed by the Austin architectural firm of Jessen, Jessen, Millhouse, Greeven & Crume, is tentatively scheduled to house English and history, plus one other department.

The latest addition to the Texas A&I campus will contain 13 classrooms, 30 to 35 faculty offices, three conference and seminar rooms, and a faculty workroom. The construction contract went to Jimmy Thurmond of Kingsville, who will erect the building at a cost of $328,837. The building should be finished by August 1, in time for the 1965-66 school year.

Junior Class President Jimmy Hooks presents Miss A&I, Kay Kirk, with a bouquet of red roses. Winning second place was Linda Foley, right, while Mary Ann Eggemeyer, left, took third place.

Miss A&I

Judges for the contest were John A. Cypher, King Ranch executive, Capt. Carl H. Yeagle, Naval Auxiliary Air Station commanding officer, and Mrs. Julia Keepers, dance school operator.

Seeking the title of Miss A&I were Sue Lofland, Linda Foley, Mary Ann Eggemeyer, Pamela Cornett, Nancy Fisher, Debra Parrish, Kay Kirk, Cindy Wilder, Joyce Beemler, Jennifer Findley, and Cynthia Trevino .

Third place winner Mary Ann Eggemeyer did a twirling dance routine.

Kay Kirk's award winning talent was singing. First performing a folk song which she had composed, named "Leaves Turned to Brown," the new Miss A&I concluded her show with "Misty" and "Blue Moon."

Linda Foley won second place with her artistic talent. The young artist displayed several of her paintings and explained the works.

The Ugly Ones

Ned Hodges, second ugliest man on campus, was sponsored by Alpha Chi Omega.

Ugliest Man on Campus was Orville Ballard, sponsored by Kappa Sigma. Here is the beast with the beauty, Miss A&I—Kay Kirk.

Running in the Ugly Man on Campus contest were Orville Ballard; Ned Hodges; Don Newsom, Circle K; Phil Jackson, Beta Sigma Lambda; Danny Beam, Alpha Delta Pi; and (inset) Pat McGill, Chi Omega.

The men might be ugly, but you can bet their conversation concerns pretty girls.

Break It To Me Gently

Don't let me find it out
all at once

Let me look for a long,
long time,

And let me find the little things that later on add up

One by one and never shove them onto me too fast

I am only human,

And I really have no desire to know the answer.
