As we trace our country's independence from its beginning, we notice expansion, advancement and prosperity. However, with all the advantages we have worked to enjoy, there is still strife in our country.

Yet through bitter struggles, America has learned from its experiences and carried on to be a better nation.

Each of our lives can be compared to our country. Our identity is found in the combined influences of parents, friends and circumstances . . . America's identity is in its combined cultures.

We express our identity in choosing the lifestyle, morals and goals we wish to follow.

*What major to choose?
Marriage before or after graduation?
Where should I apply for a job?*

*Which dorm should I live in?
Should I become a Greek?
Can I afford to live off campus?*

So many answers to find . . . but we mature as we make these decisions and maturity leads to our independence.

Character is built not on exerting independence, but in deciding which path will best lead us to it.

*The Son therefore shall make you

Just as our country has had victories and defeats in fighting for freedom and independence, we encounter the same experiences as individuals. Personal freedom is earned rather than granted.

Freedom is not limited to the boundaries of our physical selves, but instead enjoys the unending frontiers of our minds.

While we never totally obtain independence, there is a constant endeavor toward it. However the importance in life is derived from our effort to win independence and not in gaining it.

Born free to follow your heart.

A&J Student Guide

A Apathy

"Do you know who that guy is?" "No, but it doesn't matter. He's in the PEP Party." "Yeah, I guess I'll vote for him." "Have you voted?" "No, what for?" "PEP will get everything, Independents don't have a chance."

"Hey, did you hear about the pep rally tonight?" "Yeah, but I'm not going." "Why not?" "Oh, I've got better things to do." "Like what?" "I'm not sure yet, but something will come up."

B Band

Practice, practice, in rain, heat or pain the band faithfully practices and drills. They constantly dream up new routines, march on wet fields and play "Jalisco" to boost spirit and support the Hogs. Little reward is given to the band except a sizeable applause after their half time performance.

Bicycles

Huffing and puffing you walk into class just in the nick of time. You take your back pack off and vow that tomorrow you will leave the apartment five minutes to eight instead of three minutes. Yeah, riding your bike to school sure saves a lot of time and you don't have to worry about finding a parking place or paying for a parking sticker. Of course, you do have to watch out for the motorist who is also running late, and if your bike will still be waiting for you when you get out of class.

Bookstore

The bookstore underwent changes this year, much to the students dissatisfaction. Now, instead of the old self-service way of selling books, the bookstore launched a new system whereby employees behind a counter at the rear of the store ask students for a list of the books needed and they, often aimlessly and desperately, hunt for them. This met with much bickering, since the student was unable to examine a book or find out how much a book cost until actually purchasing the book. This also meant goodbye to browsing around and looking for the best used book. The new system also created another problem - it made another long line to wait in.

C Campus Cops

It's not easy being a bad guy. But virtually this is what the campus cops have been labeled by students. This fall they have enforced a new policy which allows students only 20 minutes of parking in front of College Hall. Of course, we all know this is ridiculous since it takes at least that long to see any of the big honchos. Regardless, sunstroke or not, the dedicated campus cops stand under trees in front of College Hall mechanically checking their watches, making sure there are no parking violations.

Cheerleader

A cheerleader is a person with a bright smile, a dynamic personality, and a friend to everyone. These are a few traits which enable her to motivate the crowd to back up their team. Her enthusiasm in participating in pep rallies and at football games, shows her outstanding spirit. Rain or shine, win or lose, she still carries that certain smile.

D Dad's Day

"Oh dad, don't embarrass me," is a common reaction to good old Dad's Day. Parents from all over come down to visit the A&I campus and see their "babies." Moms are seen hauling loads of plants from the Ag building to the trunk of the car. Dads are seen opening checkbooks and wallets to help supplement their son's or daughter's expenses. After a day of being glued to your parents, it's finally time to separate. Parents are off to one side of the football stadium for the game, and students head for the other side.

Dorm Life

Dorm life is another tragedy A&I students face. Students are forced to live with another person in small off white colored cubicles about half the size of their rooms at home. Adjustments also have to be made to the other residents on the hall. Many of them don't agree that sleep is a human necessity. Yet, you're stuck and have to make the best of it. The smells of a dorm are unique. The air is filled with a variety of fragrances from the aroma of freshly popped pop-corn, disinfectant, burned food, incense, to the smell of garbage.

E Eating

Eating contests are a challenge for all dorm residents. One of the most popular contests is probably the pancake eating contest. Both guys and girls literally "stuff their faces." Before the event students usually fast which is easy to do since dorm food is usually known to be inedible and occasionally causes food poisoning. It's not unusual to discover something in your food. If you're lucky it has ceased moving.

Elections

Spring elections produce smiling faces and colorful and persuasive speakers. There are promises, and promises. Students usually don't know the people on the ballot so they circle the name that has the nicest ring.

This year there were other important elections - the presidential, state and local. Many A&I students attended political rallies for presidential candidates who visited Corpus Christi.

F Fall Carnival

With the beginning of fall comes the traditional fall carnival. Students are seen hurriedly hammering boards together in an effort to construct a booth that will not collapse. Pledges are fully abused. They are dunked in water, targets of eggs, pies, and endless other things.

Finals

The week of finals is the most dreaded week in the life of all students. We knew it was coming. Yet, instead of gradually preparing ourselves, we cram the day before. It's amazing how much we can drill into our minds in only one night. But, as long as we have coffee and food at our fingertips, we can generally manage to study through the night and into the morning. However, there are a few drawbacks: (1) we find it difficult to stay awake during the exam, (2) we gain about five pounds, and (3) we don't always pass the exam. That's when we go to our profs with little white lies and stories.

Foreign Students

A&I is fortunate to have a number of foreign students enrolled here. But, are the foreign students fortunate? Being stuck here every weekend, Thanksgiving, and Christmas, being isolated from home and friends, awaiting letters from girlfriends who hopefully still remember their names, are fates almost worse than death. So, they study and study.

G Graduation

"Is that all there is?" That's what graduating seniors ask after the graduating ceremonies at A&I. After four long years, sometimes less, you finally reach one of your goals - graduation. Yet, it's a let down. Instead of getting a natural high during the ceremonies, you feel like cattle parading on stage, grabbing a piece of paper, shaking hands with some big shot and parading out to a world that has few jobs available for you.

H Homecoming

Homecoming activities were dampened this year by heavy rains. Students huddled with friends, wrapping themselves with blankets and holding umbrellas, in an attempt to keep dry and warm. Few girls dressed up for the long awaited event; but instead wore old blue jeans and T-shirts. Guys had sad expressions on their faces as they saw their girlfriends mums fall apart. What a waste. The following week several students were out due to illness.

I Infirmary

The student health center - the $6.50 student health fee "ripoff". It's where a full time doctor is supposed to be, where you pay a small fee for injections, dressing, and medication, and where you go when you're sick. Unfortunately when you leave you still feel sick.

Jerks

Jerks are prevalent on the A&I campus. They are the un-cool clowns - the ones who actually study and don't let you copy off their paper; the ones who don't let you say your piece; and the ones who always butter up the prof.

Kegs

Kegs and drinking are a tradition at A&I. Tons of beer are consumed each football game resulting in students appearing to be "under the influence." Thus A&I students are obviously making beer distributors rich. Now if we could only get Kleberg County to go "wet."

Lectures

Lectures are often much too long and boring. If you're lucky you can get a seat in the back of the room and cut some zzzs.

Library

Library: the refuge of all students. You can always tell when finals are approaching. The sure sign is a crowded library. Parking is impossible during these trying times, so is trying to find that reserved book you need to read for the next morning's exam. Other than during finals the library is used as a place to visit with friends and sleep.

Lines

Lines are another one of those things A&I students must get used to. There are lines to register, buy books, pick-up checks, eat, and on and on. It doesn't help to get there early because everyone else comes up with the same idea. And you better not take "cuts," because you'll wind up on the "wanted" list.

M Mail

Mail is that stuff you never get. Everyday you go check your mail box which is empty everyday. But, finally one day you notice something in the box. You hurriedly open it up, only to discover it's a fine from the library.

Mall

The mall is where everyone gathers between classes. On a balmy day you can see loads of kids sprawled out on benches and under trees. Occasionally the fountain is filled with detergent producing a fairyland picture.

Museum

The museum is that place behind Manning Hall that no one visits. Students either don't know about it or don't have any "class." It's a well kept museum with quite a collection of historical items. Incidentally there's no admission charge - so go.

N Night Life

Students might not make it to class during the day but you can bet they'll be at the Brass Monkey or some other place that night. I guess night has some mysterious power which draws students out. You may be sipping on a mug of beer and remember you have an exam the next morning; but you'll just keep sipping and secretly ask for divine guidance.

O Out of State Students

Out of state students are the kids that are either filthy rich or dirt poor, due to the outrageous tuition. They are also extremely homesick. On lonely nights they probably ask - "Is it really worth it?"

P Parking

It seems you pay $5 for a parking permit and you never can find a parking place. Commuters really get the shaft; because they come barely in time for their first class and then it takes at least ten minutes to find a place to park and about another ten minutes to walk to class. The same holds true for those who live off campus and bring their car to school. Even parking your bike becomes a hassle at times. Face it man - all of you who think you're saving time by bringing your car - you're not - it's faster to walk.

Plays

The drama department always produces some really "fine" plays. But, much too often the apathetic A&I students seldom turn out. Attending the performances doesn't cost any more than a couple of mugs of beer.

Pool Tourneys

Pool tournaments have become popular at A&I. There have been tourneys for guys, gals, and mixed doubles. Students spend a lot of time practicing their shots even if it means skipping a class or two.

Q Quizzes

Quizzes sound a little childish but regardless they are given at A&I. There are math quizzes, English quizzes and countless others. Profs defend quizzes, saying, "It's a way to make sure you're keeping up."

R Registration

Registration is the day you sweat, curse, cry and pray. You get yourself emotionally prepared by saying "I know it's going to be a long day; but I'll make it." Half the time you just barely make it. You discover what legs are for on this day. Because it never fails you are sent back and forth to obtain material needed before entering hell - the library. After you finally get through the exit door, you're relieved but relieved but only for a short while until you discover, you didn't get the classes you wanted.

Sleep

Sleep just isn't in an A&I student's dictionary. You may go to class till only about 2 p.m., leaving you ample time for a nap. Instead you go out to the tennis courts or play handball. After supper you're out on the prowl or shooting the bull with a friend. Before long it's only a couple of hours before your morning class. So much for catching zzzs.

Studying

Studying is getting sleepy after reading a couple of pages in your history book. Studying to many is also a thing of the past. Everyone has different methods and ideas of studying. Yet all students' primary concern is to pass the course by either studying or cheating.

Swingers

Swingers at A&I are not only cool chicks but also dedicated and full of enthusiasm. They practice with the band on hot afternoons perfecting their flag and marching routines. Neither cold, rain nor mud puddles can stop these girls.

T

Tickets

Tickets are those little white pieces of paper that appear on many car windshields, after you get out of class. You soon discover you have to pay a dollar fee or else your grades will be withheld. There are other types of tickets at A&I - football tickets which students didn't get this semester. Students were heard asking, "Why didn't we get football tickets at registration? Did they run out?" "Who Knows?" Maybe there was a paper shortage. Anyway, tickets were not printed so students had to use their I.D.'s to get into the games, which became another hassle for those who lost their I.D.'s and had to fork out $3 to get new ones.

Twirlers

Twirlers are smiling girls that highlight the band's performance during half-time. They parade down the field with grace and pride tossing that slippery baton. The audience always wonders how they manage to perfect their performance without receiving bruises. Maybe they have also learned to hide bruises.

U Underground Newspapers

EL CHILE, A Raza Unida newspaper, is one of the newspapers which have circulated this campus. Others such as EL MACHETE, and EL AZOTE, have also come into existence but have disappeared. These papers tend to deal with the Chicano movement. They have been met with both approval by some students and disapproval by the administration and faculty.

V Vamps

A&I has its share of vamps. Yet, male professors fail to recognize them. The professors soon fall into the hands of these seductively charming women. The vamps, within two weeks of the first day of class, are assured a passing grade with little effort on their part. The rest of the students suffer the whole semester, wondering if they'll make it or not.

Vandalism

Vandalism occurs at A&I campus occasionally. Usually it's nothing major. Often restrooms are vandalized by students who live off-campus and run out of toilet paper. Girls are seen walking out of restrooms with rolls of toilet paper stuffed in purses, coats or T-shirts.

W Weather

Ask any Kingsville resident about the weather and they will tell you "it's just beautiful." But it's not. It's hot, humid, and rainy. In the morning you wear a sweater, in the afternoon a short sleeve shirt or a halter, and at night you wear the sweater again. The weather is constantly changing. Fair, partly cloudy - that's South Texas weather.

X X-Ray

X-rays are part of an everyday occurrence in the life of our football players. Football players are placed on pedestals at A&I, and rightly so. Thus, when a player sustains an injury he is immediately off to get an x-ray.

Y      Yawning

Yawning is something A&I students can simply not control. During eight o'clock classes someone usually yawns after about ten minutes of lecture. In a flash the entire class begins yawning. Sometimes even the professor can be caught in the act.

Z      Zilch

Zilch is how you feel after flunking that dumb exam; how you feel after that fine looking chick or dude who you've had your eye on gives you that flake off look; and how you feel after partying too much the night before.

El Rancho Wins Sweepstakes

The 1976 El Rancho experienced many production setbacks, but pulled it all together for a fall delivery.

Everyone except Sarita Gardner, editor, and Larry Arce, assistant editor, were newcomers to the college yearbook staff. A few delays occurred when one staff member graduated, another student taught and another suffered hospitalization because of a car accident. This resulted in an overturn of staff and adjustments and "on-the-job" training were daily occurrences.

The editor was not officially appointed until September, which was one of the reasons for a later delivery. Also the move to Manning Hall proved a bit disappointing when the photographers darkroom was absent.

The El Rancho-South Texan got their darkroom production underway by January.

At the TIPA convention in Nacogdoches, the 1975 El Rancho, under the editorship of Don Taylor, received Sweepstakes and four individual awards. Lynda Stover received a third place for Student Life copy; Sarita Gardner got a third for organizations copy, Pancho Lopez received a second for sports photo and Lopez and Rick Garza, together received a second for feature photo.

These awards encouraged the Bicentennial El Rancho staff to endure the disorganization of the year and to try to repeat the honor.

Hofer, advertising assistant; Terri Ackerman, assistant editor; Noe Rodriguez, advertising manager; Sylvia Barrera, reporter; Roxann Jones, copy editor; Richard Botello, photographer; Ignacio Garcia, reporter; Anita Camarillo, reporter; Kaye Presley, editor.

South Texan Undergoes Changes

The South Texan campus newspaper experienced several beneficial changes this year. An additional reporter and assistant advertising manager were added to the staff. There was a production change from hot type to cold type which reduces the costs and involves more students in the actual production process. Another innovation that took place this year was the move to a larger office in Manning Hall. However, even the benefits could not compensate for the staff being without an advisor.

During the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association convention (TIPA), David Flores received a first place for general news story and a third place for sports feature. Roxann Jones placed second for her constitutional theories story.

Kay L. Presley, editor, received a $500 Corpus Christi Press Club scholarship and an Erard scholarship of $240. David Flores also received a Corpus Christi Press Club scholarship for $1000.

Mr. I. Q. Vidaurri served as advisor for both the South Texan and El Rancho.

KTAI Celebrates 6th Year

KTAI, A&I's campus radio station, celebrated its sixth birthday with a remote transmission at the mall. Contests, prizes, bike and footraces made the gathering a special occasion. A party for the disc jockeys followed.

The station was on the air from 12 a.m. to 12 p.m. Monday through Friday. The station carried a variety of music and special shows; from jazz, oldies, Mexican music to classical.

"The Forum" was a special show hosted by Blair

Dear where students called in and asked questions of the guests. Among the guests were President Robins, Dr. Elliot, and other campus and student body leaders.

During the spring semester, new people joined the crew and added a new variety of music, including hard rock and the disco dance sounds.

A move to Manning Hall is expected for the station in September.

Departments

Agriculture

Dr. Stanley R. Anderson, agriculture dean, resigned from his position this fall. Dr. David Neher has been serving as acting dean since the middle of November.

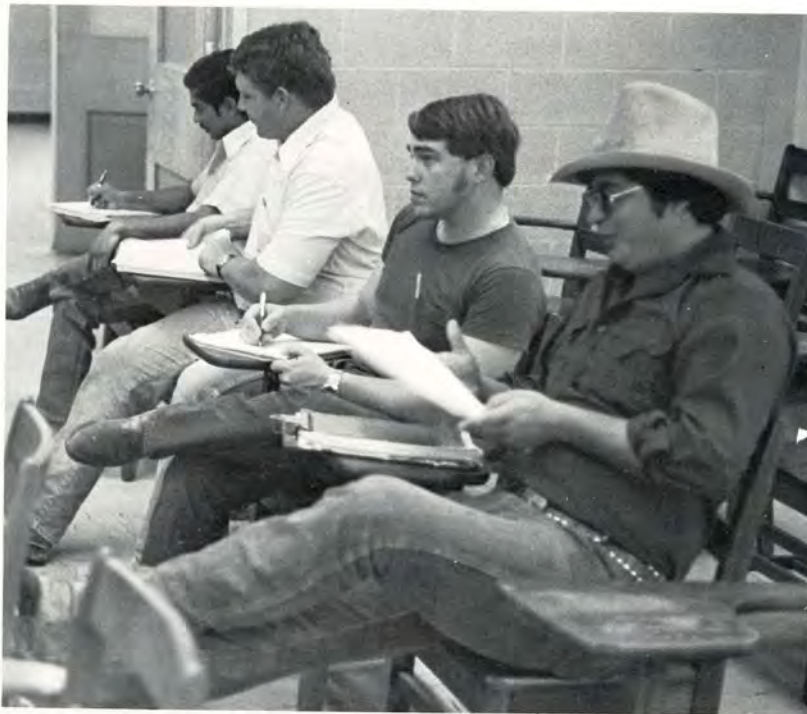

Extensive programs are under way in forage quality, animal reproductive physiology and wildlife management.

Progress by the College of Agriculture includes the addition of two new faculty members and approval of A&I's Board of Directors for construction of a new 22,000 square foot laboratory and classroom building.

The College hosted area ten advisers in September, a leadership contest in November, a judging contest in April, the Future Farmers of America Convention in May, and the Central Power and Light FFA awards banquet in August.

Girls transfer plant into another pot.

Students take notes during Ag. 402 class.

Student in Ag. Mech. grinds file.

Students often visit the Art Gallery.

Art

Once again the Art department has beautified Texas A&I campus by a series of 15 to 20 exhibitions in the Art Gallery and 20 to 30 student exhibitions in the hallways of the Art department, library, and little theatre.

This year's visiting artist and instructor of art was Sally Barbier, who received a B.A. from Nichols State in Louisiana and a M.F.A. from the University of Wisconsin.

Ms. Barbier instructed a new course in ceramics design and sculpture. Another new course, advertising art was taught by Jose Martinez, Jr., instructor and advertizing art specialist.

New equipment purchased this year includes an art welder and airbrush equipment which is now being installed.

Nancy Harrison cleans up after printing a picture using a woodcut.

Bible Chairs

Texas A&I offers Bible courses in four off-campus Bible Chairs. Although this work counts toward university credit, the Bible Chairs are supported entirely by their respective religious denominations.

The Baptist Student Union has regular activities to raise money for summer missions. Hot luncheons are sold for 50¢ every Wednesday and special events such as Fish Fries are held for this purpose.

The other Bible Chairs, The Campus Christian Fellowship, The Church of Christ and The University Catholic Center, also engage in various activities to raise money. All the Bible Chairs encourage spiritual growth and offer counseling.

Mr. H. Cole, director of the Church of Christ lectures to a Bible class.

Students listen to Bruce Peterson, director of the BSU, as he lectures in his Bible 101 class.

Bible 301 taught by Don Small, director of The Campus Christian Fellowship, is in session.

Biology

The Biology department is still stressing research as a part of its basic function of teaching, according to Dr. J. Talmer Peacock, department chairman.

A group of graduate and undergraduate students has been working on the tissue culture program under funding of a $20,000 grant from the Texas A&I University System.

The Biomedical Research program for Minority Students has involved members of the research team in "catching" or isolating viruses under funding of a $225,997, three-year grant from the National Institute of Health through the United States Department of Health Education and Welfare.

Two new courses appeared in this years catalog. Bio. 209, (Introductory Plant Taxonomy), was offered this fall. The second addition was Bio. 332, (Non-Flowering Plants). The latter course will be offered every other year.

Biology students collect venom at Freer Rattlesnake Roundup.

English

No department is in contact with as many students as the English Department, since the department serves as a service department for all majors.

This year the department has been under the direction of Dr. Hildegard Schmalenbeck, chairman. She recently directed the self-study for the Southern Association.

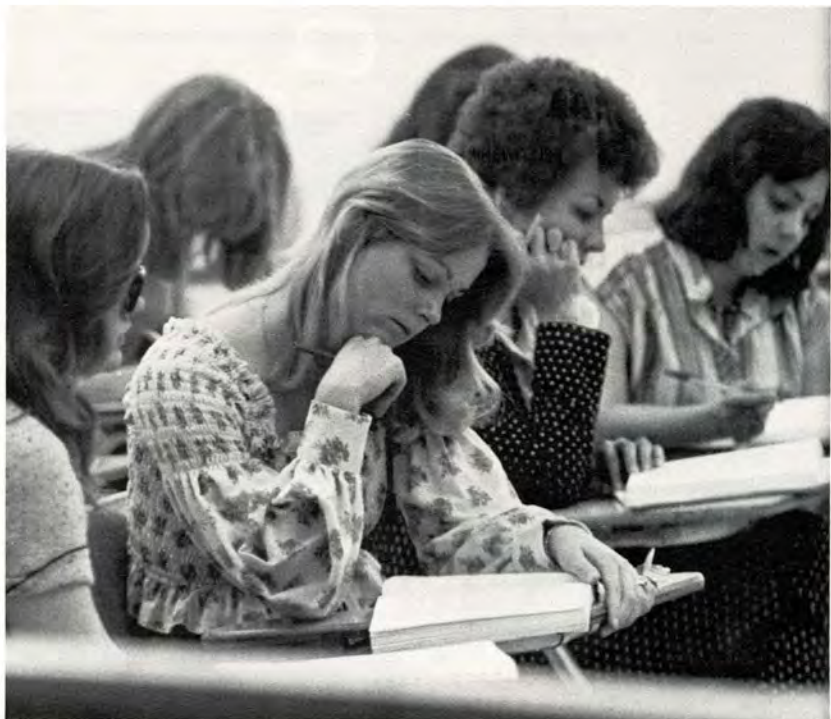

Among some of the special events sponsored by the department are the annual book sale and the annual workshop-conference for South Texas high school and college English teachers.

Dr. Cook lectures to his English class.

Cliff Notes - a lifesaver!

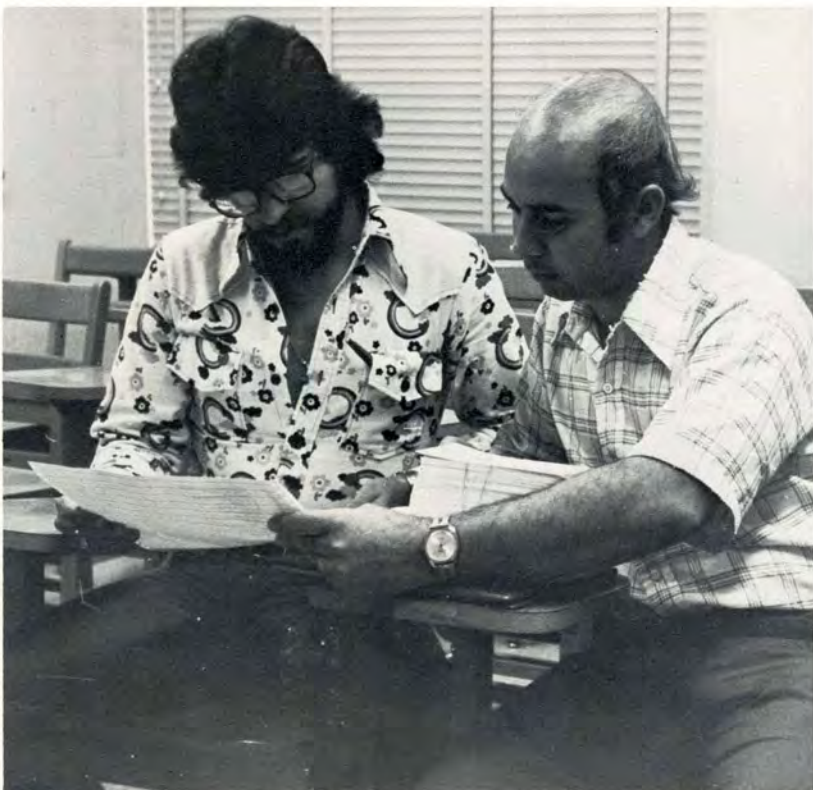

Students read along with professor.

Student in 101 Chemistry lab measures chemicals needed for an experiment.

Students examine work before class.

Chemistry

Under the direction of Dr. Jo A. Beran, new chairman for the Chemistry department, environmental chemistry was expanded with the aid of a recent $4,100 National Science Foundation grant.

Two new courses have been added to the department. And a minor in environmental science has been added to the program. Field trips to the Texas Air Control Board in Austin, DuPont in Victoria and Celanese in Clarkwood and Bishop contributed to the program.

The department also sponsored a high school-college chemistry teachers interface and a high school chemistry tournament.

The American Chemical Society (student affiliate chapter) is sponsored by the Chemistry department.

Geology — Geography

Three major research projects are currently being tackled by faculty members of the Geography and Geology department.

Dr. John L. Russell, Dr. Raymond W. Suhm and Dr. James Norwine in conjunction with Dr. Henry H. Hildebrandt of the Biology department are conducting a four-year ecological study of Alazan Bay, an arm of Baffin Bay.

Norwin, working with Dr. John Fucik of the A&I Citrus Center in Weslaco, is doing a study of climatic control of grapefruit production in the Valley.

Suhm, working with Mrs. Jimmie Picquet of the John Conner Museum, is doing research to date mammoth bones discovered south of Kingsville.

Dr. Reyna lectures to his Ethnic Studies 201 class.

Dr. Reyna expresses his views in his Ethnic Studies 401 class.

Ethnic Studies

This fall the Ethnic Center offered three more courses. Last fall the center also began offering a minor in Mexican-American studies in conjunction with the departments of Art, Geography-Geology, History, Psychology-Sociology, and Spanish.

Dr. Jose R. Reyna, director, said the center places special emphasis on Chicano culture since Chicanos compose 40 percent of the population of the university and almost 90 percent of the minority body.

According to Reyna, Chicano students need to study their culture and become aware of their history and their contributions to this area, which he feels are many.

HPE

UIL activities including boys' basketball and girls' volleyball, a gymnastics meet, a dance review presented by the dance classes, womens' athletics, and intramurals for women and men are some of the special events which were sponsored by the Health and Physical Education Department this year.

New courses added to the program were scuba diving and spring board diving.

The Javelina offense was held to a season's low in yards and points, but again it was the famed "Border Bandits" who came up with key plays necessary for the victory. A&I capitalized on the game's first turnover when Larry Grunewald recovered a fumble on the Angelo 34. The Hogs moved in on five plays with Ritchie passing to David Hill.
