Roosevelt Dies

Death at Warm Springs Is Unexpected

Harry S. Truman Becomes President as Cerebral Hemorrhage Proves Fatal to United States' Wartime Leader

DEATH CLAIMS WAR PRESIDENT—President Franklin D. Roosevelt died suddenly at 3:55 o'clock this afternoon at Warm Springs, Ga. Death was attributed to a brain hemorrhage.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., April 12. (P)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt died unexpectedly today of a cerebral hemorrhage, at 3:35 p. m. (Central War Time) at his summer cottage here.

The shocking news of the fourth term President's death was announced to the press by Secretary William D. Hassett shortly before 5 p. m. (SWT).

"It is my sad duty," he told the reporters, "to announce the President died at 3:35 p. m., of a cerebral hemorrhage."

Hassett urged the reporters to rush to their telephone immediately as a simultaneous announcement was being made at the White House in Washington.

In quivering voice, in the presence of other members of the White House staff who came here with Mr. Roosevelt March 30, for what was to be a three weeks rest, Hassett said further details as to the cause of death would be given out later by Comdr. Howard Bruenn, naval doctor who was taking care of the nation's 31st President, in the absence of Vice-Adm. Ross T. McIntire, Navy surgeon general.

So insistent was Secretary Hassett that the news be made public immediately that details were left for future announcement.

The President, the nation's first chief executive to break the two-term tradition, had planned to stay here another week, then he was to return to Washington and spend one day before taking a train to San Francisco to open the April 25 United Nations Conference to which he had given so much attention in recent months.

Mr. Roosevelt died in the bedroom in his little white bungalow atop Pine Mountain, where he had been coming for 20 years to take the after-treatments for infantile paralysis with which he was stricken in 1921.

Long before his presidency, Mr. Roosevelt helped found the Warm Springs Foundation for polio victims. In recent months he had taken a deep interest in expanding it for servicemen afflicted with the disease.

Only two persons were believed to be in the cottage at the time of his death. They were Miss Laura Diano and Miss Margaret Suckley. They frequently had kept house for him on many of his recent visits, including his 19-day stay here last November and December.

ROOSEVELT WAS SOUTH TEXAS VISITOR—Although Corpus Christi and South Texas have played hosts to other Presidents of the United States, President Roosevelt was the only one to visit this section twice during his terms in office. He made his first trip as a fishing excursion to Port Aransas in May, 1937, and it was two years ago on the 21st of this month that he, together with President Avila Camacho of Mexico, were guests at the Naval Air Station here. The above picture was taken off the jetties at Port Aransas.

Eden Is Flying From London, Churchill Forced to Stay Home

Prime Minister Planned to Attend Funeral, but Cabinet Overruled Him on Chance That Germany Might Collapse During His Absence

By The United Press

LONDON, April 13.—Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, departed by plane tonight to attend the funeral of President Roosevelt.

Prime Minister Churchill intended to fly to the United States for the service, but, on the advice of the Cabinet, refrained from doing so because of the possibility that organized resistance in Germany might collapse at any time, requiring his presence here.

Empire Pays Tribute

LONDON, April 13.—The British people, warriors and civilians alike, paid their respects to Franklin D. Roosevelt today. From Buckingham Palace to the farthest outposts of the empire, the Union Jack was flown at half-staff.

Wherever the British flag was flown there was complete agreement that a staunch friend had been lost. Prime Minister Churchill, proposing an unprecedented adjournment of the House of Commons, said: "It is not fitting that we should continue our work this day."

In a voice hardly audible in the galleries, Mr. Churchill said:

"The House will have learned with deepest sorrow the grievous news which has come to us from across the Atlantic and which conveys to us the loss of a famous President of the United States, whose friendship for the cause of freedom and for the causes of the weak and poor have won him immortal renown.

"It is not fitting that we should continue our work this day. I feel that the House will wish to render its token of respect to the memory of this great departed statesman and war leader by adjourning immediately.

"I should propose that on Tuesday next tributes should be paid when we are assembled here by the leaders of the various parties in the House and that we should afterward proceed with the business already announced."

From Buckingham Palace came the announcement that the court would go into mourning for a week. This has been done for every American President who has died in office since the assassination of Garfield. King George and Queen Elizabeth, who had intended to watch an international football match in Glasgow tomorrow, canceled their visit.

Message From King George

The King cabled the following message to Mrs. Roosevelt: "The Queen and I are deeply grieved and shocked by the news of President Roosevelt's death. In him humanity has lost a great figure and we have lost a true and honest friend. On behalf of all our peoples I send our most heartfelt sympathy to you and the members of your family."

President Truman also received a message from King George, which said:

"I hasten to convey to you, Mr. President, my deepest sympathy in this great loss which has befallen the people of United States.

"This regret will be shared by all my people, who have long felt that under President Roosevelt's wise and understanding leadership the problems of war and of the peace that is to follow were in the hands of one who had proved himself in so signal a manner to have in his heart the welfare of mankind.

"It is especially grievous that at this moment when the forces of the Allies are bringing to a close the evil which has for so long overshadowed the continent of Europe, the knowledge and wise counsel of President Roosevelt should have been taken from us.

"But his knowledge, wise counsel and decisive action will forever be remembered and the people of the United States may rest assured that his name will find a lasting place in the hearts of all my people."

At all American Army and Navy bases in the United Kingdom a thirty-day period of mourning was ordered. All dances and other social events were canceled at officers' and enlisted men's and Red Cross clubs until after the White House funeral.

Because of material difficulties, the wearing of black arm bands of mourning by the military and naval personnel was not required throughout the thirty-day period. Tomorrow all Army and Navy chaplains in the United Kingdom base will hold memorial services. On all naval vessels, except those in action against the enemy, the

Paris Gripped With Grief Over News of Death

French in Tears, Join U.S. Military in Mourning, All Flags at Half-Staff

PARIS, April 13.—The entire European theater of Allied military operations entered a thirty-day period of mourning today as all France joined Americans in uniform in profound reverence for the departed Commander in Chief.

Everywhere the Stars and Stripes and the French Tricolor were lowered in unison to half-staff. But the less ostentatious manifestations of grief among both Americans and French attested even more poignantly to the shock caused here by President Roosevelt's death, word of which did not reach most people on this side of the ocean until they awakened this morning.

Frenchmen in tears, who only an hour or a half an hour before had arisen flushed with joy at the good news from the front, walked up to American servicemen and, in choked voices, told them that the President's untimely death left them with the feeling of being cut loose in a rapidly flowing stream of unsteady currents.

This thought, and the grief felt generally throughout France, was expressed in its many variations thousands of times during the day as Frenchmen and Americans halted in little groups and stared as though dazed at blaring headlines announcing: "Roosevelt est Mort."

The government ordered all flags in France at half-staff for the day and proclaimed tomorrow a national day of mourning. The Ministry of Education ordered that all places of amusement remain closed "in order to associate France with America's mourning." The same ministry ordered all national colors will be flown at half-mast.

The United Kingdom government announced that a memorial service for President Roosevelt will be held at St. Paul's Cathedral, the shrine of the empire, at 11:30 a. m. next Tuesday. It was announced that admission would be by tickets obtained through members of the House of Commons and of the House of Lords.

Through London, Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of the land forces of the British Empire fighting in western Europe, said: "I want to express to you our sincere regret at the death of the President."

Like the American forces, the British Army, the Royal Navy and the Royal Air Force lowered their colors in honor of President Roosevelt, wherever action by the enemy was not foreseen.

John L. Curtin, Prime Minister of Australia, told the United Nations that "Australia will not forget him for his sympathy and understanding and great help in the dark days of our trial. His memory will be ever green in the minds of Australians."

The sympathy of New Zealand, South Africa and Canada also was expressed officially. King Haakon of Norway and Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, whose governments still are based in London, also paid tribute to the President.

From the offices of the Yugoslav government in London came expressions of profoundest sorrow that a great friend and ally had been lost.

The unprecedented decision of the House of Commons to adjourn in respect of an American President was paralleled by the action of the only neutral state in the British Commonwealth, Eire. The Irish Dail adjourned also as a mark of respect to President Roosevelt. Premier Eamon de Valera, in proposing the adjournment, said that he believed the President's "whole career had shown that he could ultimately be depended upon when this war had ended to throw his great influence behind and devote his great energy to the establishment of a world organization which would be just and which, being just, would help to save humanity from recurring calamities like the present war."

All Russia Goes Into Mourning For Roosevelt

Okinawa Men Get the News as Fighting Rages

MOSCOW, April 13 (AP).—Premier Stalin led the Russian people today in expressing deep personal grief at the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt, and in making plain that the Russian nation desires continued Russian-American collaboration along the lines laid down by the late President.

All Russia mourned at the loss of a man regarded here as having been the Soviet Union's greatest friend in America. The Soviet press printed two-column photographs of Mr. Roosevelt, bordered in black, on the front pages, along with Premier Stalin's condolences to Mrs. Roosevelt and his personal note to President Truman.

An American Army sergeant will conduct special memorial services here tomorrow, and high Russian officials are expected to attend the simple ceremony at the home of American Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

Sergeant George E. Thomas, of Chicago, former pastor of Austin Square Baptist Church, at Lynn, Mass., will lead the services. Mr. Harriman, a close personal friend of the late President, specified his home rather than the American Embassy for the memorial gathering.

Hundreds of persons, including Foreign Commissar Viacheslav M. Molotov, expressed to the American Ambassador today their deep personal sorrow at America's loss.

Every Russian has credited Mr. Roosevelt with bringing about diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union, and the speed with which he dispatched aid when Germany attacked Russia while the United States was not yet at war with the Reich endeared him to the people of this country.

In a message expressing condolences to Mrs. Roosevelt, Stalin said: "The Soviet people highly valued President Roosevelt as a great organizer of the struggles of freedom-loving nations against the common enemy and as the leader in the cause of insuring the security of the whole world."

The feelings of the Soviet Union's millions of farmers and workers were perhaps expressed by President Mikhail Kalinin, himself of peasant stock, who said that the people of Russia "have always valued the friendly aspect of the United States and (the President's) efforts to strengthen this friendship."

Throughout the city today there were scenes that demonstrated the affection of the Russians for Mr. Roosevelt. In subways people sat sadly shaking their heads and saying: "What a pity. What a pity."

Some Fear Effect on War; Hard-Battling Soldiers Have No Time for Grief

By Homer Bigart

OKINAWA, April 13.—News of the death of their Commander in Chief, President Roosevelt, came to the doughboys, the marines and the sailors of the Okinawa invasion force early this morning.

It was broadcast to ward rooms and mess halls of the amphibious fleet while the officers and men were at breakfast. Ashore, the news took longer to reach the front—heavy Japanese shelling had disrupted the communications—but by noon most of the soldiers and marines knew the President was dead.

On Kakazu, where death is commonplace, there was no time for grief. The message, "Roosevelt dead," repeated up and down the line, entered in the numbed minds of the infantrymen as something they would try to comprehend once they were off this nightmare ridge.

Some of these men were six years old when Roosevelt came to the White House. It seemed to them that he had always been President, and it was preposterous that he should die.

"Who's President Now?"

Back where things were quiet many soldiers asked: "Who's President now?" They had never heard of Harry Truman. "Some Senator from Nebraska," said one doughboy. "Henry Wallace," said another.

Private Martin Harth, a German-born tailor, of 189 Sherman Avenue, New York City, knew. "I hope," he said, "that Truman can carry the load."

Starting tomorrow all flags will be half-masted on Navy ships off Okinawa. Memorial services will be held on the day of the funeral.

MacArthur Statement

MANILA, April 13 (AP).—President Roosevelt's "premature death at this critical moment in world history is a tragedy which affects all mankind," General of the Army Douglas MacArthur said today in reply to a resolution of condolence presented to him by the Philippine Commonwealth government.

"The Philippines had no greater friend than President Roosevelt," said the American Army commander. "Its welfare and future were constantly in his uppermost thoughts. His premature death at this critical moment in the world's history is a tragedy which affects all mankind."

Funeral To Be Saturday at White House

Capital Stunned at News of Unexpected Death of Executive; Mrs. Roosevelt Plans To Fly to Georgia at Once

WASHINGTON, April 12. (P)—The White House announced late today that President Roosevelt had died of cerebral hemorrhage.

The death occurred this afternoon at Warm Springs, Ga. A White House statement said:

"Vice-President Truman has been notified. He was called to the White House and informed by Mrs. Roosevelt. The secretary of state has been advised. A cabinet meeting has been called.

"The four Roosevelt boys in the service have been sent a message by their mother, which said the President slept away this afternoon. He did his job to the end as he would want to do.

"Bless you all and all our love, added Mrs. Roosevelt." She signed the message, Mother.

"Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon in the East Room of the White House. Internment will be at Hyde Park, Sunday afternoon. No detailed arrangements or exact times have been decided upon as yet."

Harry Truman, former senator, Missouri county judge and one-time Kansas City haberdasher, by Mr. Roosevelt's death moves up to the highest office in the land.

At the capitol, aides of Truman disclosed he had left for the White House only a few minutes before the news was made public.

Mr. Roosevelt had been at Warm Springs for more than a week, Stephen Early, presidential secretary informed reporters.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Admiral Ross McIntyre, (the Roosevelt physician) and I will leave Washington by air this afternoon for Warm Springs.

Vice-President Truman was at work at his office when the news came. He received a call about 5:25 p. m., (EWT), at a few minutes later secret service men came and whisked him away to the White House in an automobile.

Matt Connelly, Truman's executive assistant, said he assumed that the new President would take the oath at once but that he did not know any details.

Truman's vice-presidential staff stood around his offices in the Senate office building, their faces pale as though they had been stunned by the unexpected news which lifted the former Missouri farm boy into the highest office in this nation's giving.

ASSUMES PRESIDENCY—Vice-President Harry S. Truman of Missouri automatically became president of the United States when President Roosevelt died this afternoon.

The death of the President was announced a few short minutes after it was revealed that high Army officials had told senators the war soon would be over in Germany.

Cabinet members began assembling at 6 p. m. (EWT) for an emergency session.

First to arrive were Secretary of Labor Perkins and Secretary of the Interior Ickes, veterans of every month Mr. Roosevelt served in the White House.

The burial of the only man to serve three terms as president—only to die in the third month of his fourth term—is to be at Hyde Park, N. Y.

That is the home for which he said last year all that was within him cried out for.

The White House called the three major news services at about 5:45 p. m., (EWT), on a conference call. There was a long pause.

Then Early came on the wire and made the electrifying announcement. His voice sounded fairly calm and measured, but he obviously was laboring under intense emotion.
